ASPEN PUBLISHERS PROUDLY PRESENTS...

LAW ACROSS BORDERS

Law Across Borders, a new series by Aspen Publishers, is being offered to professors who want to introduce an international perspective into their courses easily and confidently.

These brief paperbacks, 150-250 pages in length, will center around a single high-interest problem of international significance as it pertains to a specific course area. The problem orientation will offer a framework for asking fundamental questions and teaching students how to think about international law issues. Each title in the series will be accompanied by Professor's Notes that explain how the author uses his or her materials in their class.

New Titles Available in 2009:

- Plea Bargaining Across Borders Civil Procedure
Jenia I. Turner
- Climate Change and Property Rights
Hari Osofsky and Wil Burns

International Law from Hart Publishing

The Iraq War and International Law Edited by Phil Shiner and Andrew Williams

The decision by the US and UK governments to use military force against Iraq in 2003 and the subsequent occupation and administration of that State, has brought into sharp focus fundamental fault lines in international law. The decision to invade, the conduct of the war and occupation, and the mechanisms used to administer the country all challenge the international legal community placing it at a crossroads. When can the use of force be justified? What are the limits of military operations? What strength does international criminal law possess in the face of such interventions? How effective is the international regime of human rights in these circumstances? How the law now responds and develops in the light of these matters will be of fundamental global importance for the 21st Century and an issue of considerable political and legal concern. This book explores this legal territory by examining a number of issues fundamental to the future direction of international law in the War's aftermath. It adopts both practical and academic perspectives in order to scrutinize key questions and consider the possible trajectories that international law might now follow.

Andrew Williams is an Associate Professor in the School of Law at the University of Warwick.

Phil Shiner is an Honorary Professor at the London Metropolitan University.

Amnesty, Human Rights and Political Transitions

Bridging the Peace and Justice Divide
Louise Mallinder

"This is one of the best accounts in the truth and reconciliation literature I've read and certainly the best piece of work on amnesty I've seen."

David Dyzenhaus

"Ms Mallinder's ambitious project provides the kind of empirical treatment that those of us who have worked on the issue of amnesties in international law have long awaited. I have no doubt that her book will be a much-valued and widely-cited resource." Diane Orentlicher

Amnesty laws are political tools used since ancient times by states wishing to quell dissent, introduce reforms, or achieve peaceful relationships with their enemies. In recent years, they have become contentious due to a perception that they violate international law, particularly the rights of victims, and contribute to further violence. This view is disputed by political negotiators who often argue that amnesty is a necessary price to pay in order to achieve a stable, peaceful, and equitable system of government. This book aims to investigate whether an amnesty necessarily entails a violation of a state's international obligations, or whether an amnesty, accompanied by alternative justice mechanisms, can in fact contribute positively to both peace and justice. This study began by constructing an extensive Amnesty Law Database that contains information on 506 amnesty processes in 130 countries introduced since the Second World War. This book argues that international actors should work to limit the more negative forms of amnesty by encouraging states to make them conditional and to introduce complementary programmes to repair the harm and prevent a repetition of the crimes.

Louise Mallinder is a Research Fellow in Law at Queen's University Belfast.

Commentary on the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court Observers' Notes, Article by Article Edited by Otto Triffterer

On 1st July 2008, the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court entered into force enabling the ICC, as laid down in the Preamble to the Statute, to affirm "that the most serious crimes of concern to the international community as a whole must not go unpunished and that their effective prosecution must be ensured by taking measures at national level and by enhancing international cooperation". In the second edition of their Commentary, Otto Triffterer and a number of eminent legal practitioners and scholars in the field of international criminal law give a detailed article-by-article analysis of both the Statute as well as the "Elements of Crime" and the "Rules of Procedure and Evidence", adopted by the Assembly of States Parties in 2002, and the "Regulations of the Court", adopted by the Judges of the ICC in 2004. The second edition is a substantially revised and significantly amended version of the first edition of 1999, considering the jurisprudence of the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia (ICTY) and the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda (ICTR) as well as other international, "semi-international" or national courts and the relevant literature since 1999. The Commentary will be an invaluable aid to all practitioners and scholars dealing with the Rome Statute and the jurisdiction established by its "Complementarity Regime".

Otto Triffterer is Professor Emeritus of the University of Salzburg.

The Shifting Allocation of Authority in International Law

Considering Sovereignty, Supremacy and Subsidiarity

Edited by Tomer Broude and Yuval Shany

International law is fragmented and complex, and at the same time increasingly capable of shaping reality in areas as diverse as human rights, trade and investment, and environmental law. The increased influences of international law and its growing institutionalization and judicialization invites reconsideration of the question how should the authority to make and interpret international law be allocated among states, international organizations and tribunals, or in other words, "who should decide what" in a system that formally lacks a central authority? This is not only a juridical question, but one that lies at the very heart of the political legitimacy of international law as a system of governance, defining the relationship between those who create the law and those who are governed by it in a globalizing world.

In this book, leading international legal scholars address a broad range of theoretical and practical aspects of the question of allocation of authority in international law and debate the feasibility of three alternative paradigms for international organization: Sovereignty, Supremacy and Subsidiarity.

Tomer Broude is a lecturer in the Faculty of Law and Department of International Relations at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem.

Yuval Shany is the Hersch Lauterpacht Chair in International Law and the academic director of the Minerva Center for Human Rights, both at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem.

Rule of Law Reform and Development

Charting the Fragile Path of Progress

Michael J. Trebilcock,
University of Toronto, Canada
and Ronald J. Daniels,
University of Pennsylvania

'By identifying the key politico-economic reasons why rule-of-law reforms in developing countries have faltered and drawing out the implications for future strategy, this book is of immense importance and should be widely read.'

— Anthony Ogus, CBE, FBA, University of Manchester, UK

'This book offers a sophisticated yet pragmatic account of the proper purposes of rule of law reform, the obstacles to achieving it, and the role that the international community can play. The procedural conception of the rule of law offers an appealing alternative to both one-size-fits-all universalism on the one hand and unconstrained relativism on the other.'

Foreword

The dramatic growth in the international legal field makes it nearly impossible for scholars and practitioners—let alone the general public—to keep abreast of the most important international legal developments. Just this one issue of International Legal Materials reflects the diversity of issues, institutions, and actors in the international legal field today. Our field covers everything from state secession to international trade, to extradition. International law also emanates from hundreds of institutions and tribunals at the international, regional, and national level.

Fortunately international lawyers struggling to keep on top of it all can rely on our staff and Editorial Advisory Committee to sift through the vast array of documents, identify those that are truly significant, and highlight them in International Legal Materials and our bi-monthly electronic bulletin, International Law in Brief. The Society's periodic ASIL Insights provide additional analysis of particularly high-profile developments.

Our readers have long come to expect that International Legal Materials will help them keep track of what is new and important in international law. Now, they can look to this bulletin to also explain why. Beginning last year, ASIL has complemented every document published in International Legal Materials with an introductory note from one of the many experts ASIL counts among its members. These notes provide summaries of the documents and key insights into their significance. In this volume, we feature notes by Christopher Borgen, Charles Owen Verrill, Akua Gyekye, Bruce Zagaris, Christina Cerna, and Stephanie Farrior. We are extremely grateful to these authors, and we are confident that you will value their contributions as well.

This volume marks the last in the tenure of ILM Managing Editor Susan Notar, who leaves ASIL this summer for a new role at the US Department of State. The inclusion of introductory notes in ILM has been made possible only through Susan's dedication and hard work these past two years. We are extremely grateful and wish her well in her new role.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Andersen
Chair
Editorial Advisory Committee
International Legal Materials

INTERNATIONAL LEGAL MATERIALS®

Statement of Editorial Policy

International Legal Materials is a core publication of The American Society of International Law that reproduces texts of documents reflecting the broad scope and evolution of international law. The range of covered subjects has expanded from traditional topics such as international organizations, jurisdiction, and international trade to include developments in fields such as intellectual property, environmental law, nuclear non-proliferation, human rights, and international criminal law.

International Legal Materials serves as both a bi-monthly information service and a widely recognized archive of international law documents for a diverse, global community of legal scholars, government officials, private practitioners and institutions sharing a common interest in international law. To meet the varied demands of such a readership, documents are selected from world-wide sources on the basis of their present and future legal significance.

International Legal Materials is prepared for publication in Washington, D.C. with both the advice of the Editorial Advisory Committee and the assistance of Corresponding Editors around the world. In order to reproduce the texts of selected documents under tight production schedules, the best available source is used, whether electronic or printed.

Inquiries about advertising rates and specifications should be directed to the Marketing Manager at the above address, phone or fax (but not e-mail address).

Authorization to Photocopy

Authorization to photocopy items for internal or personal use (beyond that permitted by Sections 107 and 108 of the U.S. Copyright Law), or for the internal or personal use of specific clients, is granted by The American Society of International Law for users registered with the Copyright Clearance Center (CCC) Transactional Reporting Service, provided that the base fee of $10 per copy, plus 25¢ per page, is paid directly to CCC, 222 Rosewood Drive, Danvers, MA 01923-4510, <http://www.copyright.com>

For those organizations that have been granted a photocopy license by CCC, a separate system of payment has been arranged. The fee code for users of the Transactional Reporting Service is: 0020-7829/98 $10.00 + .25.

For academic course reprints, please contact the ILM Office at 2223 Mass. Ave., NW, Washington, DC 20008-2864.

Periodicals postage paid at Washington, DC and additional mailing offices. POSTMASTER: Send address changes and returns to ILM, 2223 Massachusetts Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20008-2864. Return postage guaranteed.

Guidelines for Submission of Documents

The ILM Office welcomes any effort to bring suitable documents to the Office's attention. Electronic files or web links are required for publication, although printed texts can be used for initial deliberations regarding republication.

The authenticity (i.e. official version status) of submitted documents must be easily verifiable. This is facilitated by submitting files or print versions which are clearly attributable to the original source, or by providing links to documents on the original source's official website.

If the official version of a document is not available in English, an unofficial translation is acceptable. The original text must accompany such a translation.

Introductory Notes

Introductory Notes are brief articles from one to three pages in length which are intended to provide background information for a document reproduced in ILM.

For example, an Introductory Note for a treaty might include a short history of the negotiations, the dates of signature and entry into force. An Introductory Note for legislation would give its history and international significance, while one for judicial proceedings would provide the background of the case.

The views of authors in Introductory Notes are their own and do not necessarily reflect those of either the American Society of International Law or the Managing Editor.

Acceptance of Materials and Corrections

Print submissions cannot be returned. Translators and others submitting material will be notified of the acceptance of their document for publication.

Once a translation or Introductory Note has been accepted for reproduction, The American Society of International Law will send a publication agreement to the author.

Translators and Introductory Note Authors shall be acknowledged in International Legal Materials.

In some cases minor editorial or typographical alterations may be made without contacting the author or translator. Major corrections will be sent to the author or translator for approval. Corrected Introductory Notes or translations must be returned within the time specified.

International Law In Brief

The Attorney-Editors of International Legal Materials also publish the e-mail newsletter International Law In Brief, which contains objective abstracts of recently released documents pertinent to international law.

Documents abstracted in International Law In Brief are later considered for reproduction in International Legal Materials.

A complete International Law In Brief archive is located at The American Society of International Law website (<http://www.asil.org>). A search engine provides an easy way to find abstracts of specific documents.

The International Law In Brief publication is free, but has an independent subscription.
