

NEW from KNOPF/

George Friedman THE NEXT 100 YEARS

A Forecast for the 21st Century

"This is a book about unintended consequences and how the constraints of time and place impact the behavior of individuals and nations and offer a view of future events. [Friedman's] theories are fascinating. . . . This is an excellent book." —Booklist

Doubleday | Cloth | 272 pages | $25.95

Grigoris Balakian ARMENIAN GOLGOTHA

Translated by Peter Balakian and Aris Sevag

"Read this heartbreaking book. Armenian Golgotha describes the suffering, agony and massacre of innumerable Armenian families almost a century ago; its memory must remain a lesson for more than one generation." —Elie Wiesel

Knopf | Cloth | 560 pages | $35.00

Jedediah Purdy A TOLERABLE ANARCHY

Rebels, Reactionaries, and the Making of American Freedom

"Purdy has emerged as one of America's most promising young public intellectuals. This beautifully written book confirms his place. Rich in the history he tells, and brilliant in its insight, the book will change how you think about America, and the challenge we face for its future." —Lawrence Lessig

Knopf | Cloth | 304 pages | $23.95

Wangari Maathai THE CHALLENGE FOR AFRICA

Wangari Maathai, Nobel Peace Prize laureate and founder of the Green Belt Movement, offers a refreshingly unique perspective on the challenges facing Africa, even as she calls for a moral revolution among Africans themselves, who, she argues, are culturally deracinated, adrift between worlds.

Pantheon | Cloth | 336 pages | $25.00

Philip Bobbitt TERROR AND CONSENT

The Wars of the Twenty-first Century

"Brilliant . . . This is quite simply the most profound book to have been written on the subject of American foreign policy since the attacks of 9/11—indeed, since the end of the cold war." —Niall Ferguson, The New York Times Book Review

Anchor | Paper | 688 pages | $17.95

Kirstin Downey THE WOMAN BEHIND THE NEW DEAL

The Life of Frances Perkins, FDR'S Secretary of Labor and His Moral Conscience

"Frances Perkins's legacy included Social Security, unemployment insurance, and other initiatives that have improved the lives of generations of Americans. With wit and insight, Downey recounts this singular woman and invites us to celebrate her life."

—Robert B. Reich

Doubleday | Cloth | 480 pages | $35.00

Mahmood Mamdani
SAVIORS AND SURVIVORS

Darfur, Politics, and the War on Terror

“A brilliantly argued and profoundly challenging critique of liberal support for humanitarian intervention in Darfur. Beyond this, Mamdani sets forth an alternative approach to such catastrophic situations. This book should be required reading for the Obama foreign policy team.” —Richard Falk, United Nations Special Rapporteur and Professor Emeritus, Princeton University

Robert Kagan
THE RETURN OF HISTORY AND THE END OF DREAMS

“In this important, timely, and superbly-written book, Robert Kagan shows that the ‘end of history’ was an illusion. Today’s global challenges pose a stern test for the world’s democracies. This book is a wake-up call and should be read by policymakers, politicians, pundits and all who want a guide to the dangerous waters of 21st century geopolitics.” —Senator John McCain

Vintage | Paper | 128 pages | $13.00

Jane Mayer
THE DARK SIDE

The Inside Story of How the War on Terror Turned Into a War on American Ideals

“The Dark Side is about how the war on terror became ‘a war on American ideals,’ and Mayer gives this story all the weight and sorrow it deserves. Many books get tagged with the word ‘essential’; hers actually is.” —Salon

Anchor | Paper | 432 pages | $15.95

Eric Lichtblau
BUSH'S LAW

The Remaking of American Justice

“At a time when the press’s role in American democracy is being hotly contested, this book provides an inspiring example of reporters doing what they do best: checking claims of unlimited governmental power and protecting the public’s right to know.”

—The New York Times

Anchor | Paper | 368 pages | $16.00

Dominique Moïsi
THE GEOPOLITICS OF EMOTION

How Cultures of Fear, Humiliation, and Hope are Reshaping the World

Demonstrating that our post-9/11 world has become divided by more than cultural fault lines between nations and civilizations, Moïsi brilliantly chronicles how the geopolitics of today is characterized by a “clash of emotions,” and how cultures of fear, humiliation, and hope are reshaping the world.

Doubleday | Cloth | 192 pages | $21.95

Bruce Bawer
SURRENDER

Appeasing Islam, Sacrificing Freedom

Bruce Bawer’s While Europe Slept sounded the alarm about the dire impact of Muslim immigration in Europe. Now, in Surrender, he reveals that a combination of fear and political correctness has led politicians, intellectuals, religious leaders, and the media—both in the United States and abroad—to appease radical Islam at the cost of our most cherished values: freedom of speech and freedom of the press.

AVAILABLE FOR ADOPTIONThe Fundamentals of Political Science Research

Paul M. Kellstedt and Guy D. Whitten

Texas A & M University

www.cambridge.org/fpsr

Paperback | 9780521697880 | 49 line figures | 2 halftones | 38 tables | 292 pages

"Many do not fully appreciate that the world is in the midst of a grand march of quantification through areas of human knowledge. As the rapidly improving tools of measurement, inference, and science are adapted to each area, automated statistical algorithms and well designed research vastly outperform casual human judgment. Given the numerous self-proclaimed political experts and pundits vying for media attention, some people may be surprised that science has even come to the study of government and politics. In The Fundamentals of Political Science Research, Kellstedt and Whitten not only set the record straight; they provide an interesting and accessible introduction to this exciting area, so students can better understand claims about the political world and even begin to make discoveries on their own."

- Gary King, Harvard University

Features

- An accessible, student-friendly presentation of mathematical concepts necessary for beginning political science researchers.
- An emphasis throughout the book on assessing causal claims.
- The frequent use of examples from both political science and everyday experience to help students understand the important concepts.
- An introductory treatment of regression models with two or more independent variables.

Contents

1. The scientific study of politics; 2. The art of theory building; 3. Evaluating causal relationships; 4. Research design; 5. Measurement; 6. Descriptive statistics and graphs; 7. THE VIEW OF THE COURTS FROM THE HILL

Interactions between Congress and the Federal Judiciary

MARK C. MILLER

The View of the Courts from the Hill examines customary interactions between Congress and the federal courts—especially the U.S. Supreme Court—as well as extraordinary conflicts between the two branches of government both today and throughout American history. Miller gives special attention to recent attempts by social conservatives in Congress to silence the voice of the courts in the inter-institutional dialogue through the use of court-stripping measures, threats of impeachment of federal judges, and a proposal for an inspector general for the courts. Particular focus is placed on the interactions between the courts and the House Judiciary Committee under Republican control, as well as the approach taken by the Religious Right toward federal judges and the federal courts in general.

CRIMINAL INJUSTICE

Slaves and Free Blacks in Georgia's
Criminal Justice System

GLENN MCNAIR

"To the problem of racial prejudice in American criminal justice Glenn McNair brings his experience as a Georgia police officer, an ATF agent, and a black man, the descendant of Georgia slaves. McNair tracked down every extant capital trial record from Georgia's slavery era, looking at the beginnings of Georgia's troubled death penalty system. Every American interested in criminal justice, racial prejudice, and the death penalty should read this book."

Presidential Constitutionalism in Perilous Times

SCOTT M. MATHESON, JR.

Presidents have exercised extraordinary power to protect the nation in ways that raised serious constitutional concerns about individual liberties and separation of powers. By looking at these examples through different constitutional perspectives, Scott Matheson achieves a deeper understanding of wartime presidential power in general and of President Bush's assertions of executive power in particular.

Paul E. Gottfried
$28 (hc) • 275 pages

“If Paul Gottfried is capable of dull writing, you won’t find any evidence for it in these pages, which sparkle from start to finish with his characteristic candor and intellectual intensity. Gottfried has long been known both as a superb intellectual historian and a frequent combatant in American conservatism’s internal battles. But in this pensive memoir he shows a keen talent for subtle portraiture, including an insightful sketch of the post-Presidential Richard Nixon, among the other fascinating figures in his gallery of friends and acquaintances.”—Wilfred McClay, University of Tennessee at Chattanooga

MISS BETSEY
A Memoir of Marriage
Eugene D. Genovese
$25 (hc) • 200 pages

“Eugene Genovese has written a beautiful memoir of the life of his late wife Betsey Fox-Genovese and has given a compelling portrait of the strong tie of marriage between two renowned historians. We see Betsey as a young Marxist professor demanding fair treatment for striking service workers at her university and Betsey as a mature and deeply spiritual Catholic, assisting the priest in administering Communion. We see her as an influential scholar, a contentious political writer, and devoted teacher, reading a student’s doctoral dissertation in the pain of her last days. Passionate, partisan, humorous, and self-mocking, Eugene Genovese’s book is a paean of love for a remarkable woman.”—Natalie Zemon Davis, author of Women on the Margins: Three Seventeenth-Century Lives

State, Sovereignty, and the People:

A Comparison of the "Rule of Law" in China and India

By Jonathan K. Ocko and David Gilmartin

This groundbreaking article uses a focus on the rule of law to raise comparative questions about the construction of sovereignty and rights in China and India, within the larger global processes that shaped the 19th and 20th centuries. These questions include:

- How did the rule of law help to define the principles on which the Indian and Chinese states rested?
- How did this concept define these states' relationships to the societies they ruled?
- How can the rule of law help us to understand the ways that these states legitimized their authority?
- What are the political implications of China's and India's differences (and similarities) in the role of the law in their societies in the 19th century, and how can these help us to understand their different patterns of historical evolution in the 20th century?

This fascinating research is followed by five commentaries by leading legal historians, then a rejoinder by the article's authors. The commentaries are:

- Sovereignty, Rule of Law, and Ideologies of the Nation,
by Vivienne Shue
- Justice or Legitimacy: A Response to Ocko and Gilmartin,
by Paul W. Kahn
- Rule of Law in China and India: A Historical-Cultural Approach,

The Journal of Asian Studies (JAS) publishes the very best empirical and multidisciplinary work on Asia, spanning the arts, history, literature, the social sciences, and cultural studies. With coverage reaching from South and Southeast Asia to China, Inner Asia, and Northeast Asia, JAS welcomes broad comparative and transnational studies as well as essays emanating from fine-grained historical, cultural, political, or literary research and interpretation. The journal also publishes clusters of papers representing new and vibrant discussions.

A UNIQUE VOLUME OF ENORMOUS IMPORTANCE TO ANYONE IN COMPARATIVE POLITICS

Hardback / $120.00 | 808 pages / 58 tables | ISBN: 978-0-521-51466-8

Where is the power? Students of politics have pondered this question, and social scientists have scrutinized formal political institutions and the distribution of power among agencies of the government and the state. But we still lack a rich bank of data measuring the power of specific governmental agencies, particularly national legislatures. This book assesses the strength of the national legislature of every country in the world with a population of at least a half-million inhabitants. The Legislative Powers Survey (LPS) is a list of 32 items that gauges the legislature's sway over the executive, its institutional autonomy, its authority in specific areas, and its institutional capacity. Data were generated by means of a vast international survey of experts, extensive study of secondary sources, and painstaking analysis of constitutions and other relevant documents. Individual country chapters provide answers to each of the 32 survey items, supplemented by expert commentary and relevant excerpts from constitutions.

International Theory

A Journal of International Politics, Law and Philosophy

journals.cambridge.org/int

Editors

Duncan Snidal, University of Chicago

Alexander Wendt, The Ohio State University

Launching in 2009, International Theory invites papers on theory of all varieties and from all disciplines, provided it addresses problems of politics, broadly defined and relates to the international.

International Theory welcomes scholarship that uses evidence from the real world to advance theoretical arguments. However, it is intended as a forum where scholars can develop theoretical arguments in depth without an expectation of extensive empirical analysis.

Centennial Center for Political Science & Public Affairs Research Opportunities in Washington, DC

"I spent a year at the Centennial Center while finishing my dissertation, and I couldn't have asked for a better academic home in the nation's capital. I highly recommend the Center for its top-notch facilities, welcoming staff, and community of fellow political scientists, all right in the heart of Washington."

- Brendan J. Doherty, United States Naval Academy

APSA established the Centennial Center for Political Science and Public Affairs to encourage individual research and writing in all fields of political science, to facilitate collaboration among scholars working within the discipline and across the social and behavioral sciences and humanities, and to promote communication between scholars and policymakers.

The Centennial Center assists scholars from the U.S. and abroad whose research and teaching might benefit from a stay in Washington, D.C. and access to resources available in the nation's capital. The Center also holds events to bring together the scholarly community, policymakers, the media, and the general public for discussions of broad interest.

The Centennial Center features:

- Personal work space
- High speed internet connection and
- Personal telephone extension, fax, and printer access
- Flexible scheduling for long and short-term stays
- Convenient downtown location, Metro accessible
- Meeting and conference room facilities
- Reference library
- Research-in-progress colloquia
- Community of visiting scholars

Funding Opportunities

As a result of generous contributions by members and friends, APSA has developed a number of endowments to support a diverse range of grant programs that may support stays at the Centennial Center.

The Review of Politics

Editor: Catherine Zuckert, University of Notre Dame, USA

The Review of Politics publishes primarily philosophical and historical studies of politics, especially on political theory and American political thought, but thoughtful scholarly reflections on all aspects of politics - including analysis of institutions and techniques, analysis of literary reflections on politics, political interpretations of literary works, and constitutional theory and analysis - are welcome. Some of the first essays advocating "realism" were published in The Review of Politics, as well as articles from its opponents in international relations; both perspectives are accepted parts of the journal's coverage.

Supporting Political Science Award Endowments

APSA supports exceptional scholarship in the discipline by honoring those whose work stands above the rest. The Association's awards are made possible by the generous contributions of members and friends. Many of these awards were initially funded years ago. The time has come to strengthen the endowments that support them so that APSA can continue to make possible award amounts that convey the prestige associated with them. Endowments for the following awards are in need of an additional $5,000 to $10,000 each to reach the $25,000 minimum currently required of all endowments. Please consider supporting the discipline by donating to one of these funds. Gifts are accepted as one-time donations or as pledges to be fulfilled over time. For more information on giving to APSA, visit www.apsanet.org/contribute or contact Allison Desrosiers at adesrosiers@apsanet.org or 202.483.2512.

Gabriel A. Almond Prize

The Gabriel A. Almond prize honors the best dissertation in comparative politics. The award was created in recognition of former APSA president Gabriel Almond's contributions to the discipline, profession, and Association. Almond's scholarly work contributed directly to the development of theory in comparative politics and brought together work on the developing areas and Western Europe that prevented splintering into an array of disparate areas studies.

William Anderson Award

The William Anderson prize honors the best dissertation in federalism or intergovernmental relations, state, and local politics. The award was set up in recognition of former APSA president William Anderson, who was a leading American authority in the areas of local government, public administration, intergovernmental relations, and the history of political science. He did much to shape teaching and research in these fields not only at his own university, but throughout the country.

Carey McWilliams Award

The Carey McWilliams prize recognizes a major journalistic contribution to our understanding of politics. Eligible candidates meet the criteria laid forth by the first organizing committee. First, the individual should have a distinguished public service career in newspaper, magazine, or broadcast media. Second, the individual should, in their work, illuminate some broad general principles of the social and political sciences. Third, the individual may have a background in editorial activities and not necessarily be a working journalist or writer. Fourth, the individual should illuminate certain key elements identified with McWilliams, which include intellectual forthrightness and political independence.

Charles E. Merriam Award

The Charles Merriam Award was established to recognize a person whose published work and career represent a significant contribution to the art of government through the application of social science research. Charles Merriam's career exemplified a combination of innovative political and social science scholarship and practical service to the community and nation. The department he chaired in the 1920s–1940s set the agenda of the political science profession in the post World War II decades. He was the key figure in the founding of the Social Science Research Council. His public service included membership in the Chicago City Council, and on President Roosevelt's National Resources Planning Board and the Committee on Administrative Management.

E. E. Schattschneider Award

The E. E. Schattschneider prize is awarded for the best doctoral dissertation completed and accepted during that year or the previous year in the field of American government. This award fund, established in 1971, was set up in honor of former APSA president Elmer Eric ("E. E.") Schattschneider, a widely published and respected political scientist.

CALL FOR PAPERS
Politics and Religion

Published by
 Cambridge University Press
 on behalf of the
 Religion and Politics Section of the
 American Political Science Association

Editors
 Ted G. Jelen, University of Nevada at Las Vegas, USA
 Sabrina P. Ramet, Norwegian University of Science and Technology, Norway

Politics and Religion, published on behalf of the Religion and Politics Section of the American Political Science Association, is a new peer-reviewed journal providing original research into all aspects of the relationship between politics and religion around the world.

The impact of religion on political attitudes, decision-making, and public policy development is analyzed, with topics ranging from abortion laws, sex education in schools, and stem cell research to transnational terrorism, morality, social justice, and human rights.

The journal is multidisciplinary and international in scope, with contributions coming from all relevant areas, including political science, theology, law, philosophy, sociology, history, area studies, and economics. Studies of public religion, secular-religious conflicts, and political divisions within a religion – from within and outside the Judeo-Christian tradition, including works from Islamic, Hindu, Buddhist and scholars of Eastern traditions – are especially welcome. Book reviews are also part of the journal's coverage.
