

New in the Pitt Latin American Series

The Life, Music, and Times of Carlos Gardel

Simon Collier

Argentinian tango singer Carlos Gardel (1890-1935) holds a unique place in the popular culture of Latin America. From very modest beginnings he rose to become the first genuine "superstar" of twentieth-century Latin America. Gardel was regarded, in his own time, as a strangely symbolic personality, reflecting the urban culture of Buenos Aires.

This biography is the first in English, and arguably the first fully rounded study of Gardel in any language.

CONFLICT IN NICARAGUA

A Multidimensional Perspective

Edited by Jiri Valenta and Esperanza Duran

In broad and comprehensive fashion, outstanding scholars and key opposition leaders examine the conflict in Nicaragua. The book is a forum for discussing the national, regional, and international implications of the revolution from all possible points of view. The contributors consider the roots of the crisis and its various interpretations, the international dimensions of the revolution, the revolution within the Central American context, and the revolution within the context of East-West relations. March 1987 256pp. Cloth $39.95 Paper $18.95

WOMEN ON THE US-MEXICO BORDER

Responses to Change

Edited by Vicki L. Ruiz and Susan Tiano

This volume is the first to explore women's experiences on both sides of the border. Dealing with women's work and migration, their organization and consciousness, and their contribution to regional culture, the essays assembled in this collection underscore women's vital role as architects of the unique socio-cultural framework of the border region. January 1987 256pp. Cloth $37.95 Paper $14.95 Thematic Studies in Latin America

THE FALKLANDS/MALVINAS WAR:

A Model for North-South Crisis Prevention

Virginia Gamba

Gamba views the Falklands/Malvinas War as a tragic, but logical, consequence of contemporary North-South communications problems. With the war as an example, she highlights the necessity for improved North-South communications and outlines crisis prevention techniques. As a Latin American with a degree in Strategic Studies earned in the UK, Gamba possesses a unique view of the war, and an unparalleled ability to review North-South value systems. February 1987 298pp. Cloth $34.95 Paper $14.95

THE POLITICAL ECONOMY OF REVOLUTIONARY NICARAGUA

Edited by Rose Spalding

The authors of these essays examine the goals, internal debates, external influences, and shifting policy decisions that have effected the efforts of the Sandinista government. The essays clarify the dynamics between soaring food prices and falling real wages, and explain the complex relationship between the private sector economy and the state. The essays also document the Reagan administration's extensive policies toward the Sandinista government. 1986 256pp. Cloth $34.95 Paper $12.95 Thematic Studies in Latin America

THE JEWISH PRESENCE IN LATIN AMERICA

Edited by Judith Laikin Elkin and Gilbert W. Merckx

An assumed adherence to Catholic norms has long eclipsed the Jewish presence in Latin America. In this collection of essays, outstanding scholars in various fields examine Latin America's Jewish communities, both as fragments of Jewish Diaspora and as elements in the economic and social life of the continent. An outgrowth of the 1984 Jewish Experience in Latin America Conference, this volume is a major contribution toward developing a realistic picture of Latin American/Jewish communities today. April 1987 256pp. Cloth $34.95 Thematic Studies in Latin America

Grenada: The Jewel Despoiled

Gordon K. Lewis

One of the world's foremost Caribbeanists recounts and interprets the events in Grenada that culminated in Maurice Bishop's assassination and the U.S.-led invasion of 1983. Gordon K. Lewis offers a provocative and highly readable analysis of Grenadian politics and American interventionism and argues that the militarism and imperialism of the Reagan administration have drawn West Indian politics irrevocably into the sphere of superpower rivalry.

Archivo Biográfico de España, Portugal e Iberoamérica

- Over 300 original biographical reference works.
- Approximately 600 volumes from the 17th to the 20th centuries.
- Cumulated into a single alphabetical sequence on microfiche.

The Archivo Biográfico de España, Portugal e Iberoamérica – the fourth in Saur's international series of biographical archives – will reproduce in a convenient and otherwise unavailable format the biographical dictionaries and encyclopedias of earlier centuries. The scope of the Archivo reflects the reaches of Spain and Portugal – from the Iberian Peninsula, the Balearic and Canary Islands to Mexico, Honduras, Brazil, Argentina and Mozambique or Macao and the Phillipines. Compiled from the vast resources of the national libraries in Spain, Portugal, and Mexico, only 55% of the material pertains exclusively to Spain and Portugal.

No other resource provides users with such a wealth of easily accessible information on individuals of every class and calling – the monarchy and nobility, military and religious figures, statesmen – ethnic groups, foreigners who became part of the fabric of life, and especially women are included.

THE JAGUAR SMILE: A Nicaraguan Journey

Salman Rushdie. The people, the politics, the land, and the poetry of Nicaragua emerge in sharp focus from this haunting portrait of the tiny, volcanic country by an acclaimed novelist who is also a discerning political journalist. From remote cooperative farms to the war zone to the President's house, Rushdie reveals the true Nicaragua behind the headlines—where nothing is simple, everything is contested, and struggles between the powerless and the powerful are daily fare. "A masterpiece of sympathetic yet critical reporting." —Edward W. Said, Columbia University. Maps. Elisabeth Sifton Books.
