

Corrigendum

What Makes a Good Neighbor? Race, Place, and Norms of Political Participation – CORRIGENDUM

ALLISON P. ANOLL Vanderbilt University

<https://doi.org/10.1017/S0003055418000175>, published by Cambridge University Press, May 3, 2018.

The above paper (Anoll 2018) was published with an error.

On p. 499, the following sentence is incorrect:

“Respondents viewed a table of information about each individual on separate survey pages, which included randomized entries about the individual’s name, age, occupation, and community involvement (see Table 2).”

It should read:

“Respondents viewed a table of information about each individual on separate survey pages, which included randomized entries about the individual’s name, age, occupation, and community involvement treatments, with the control appearing last (see Table 2).”

The correct Table 2 is printed below. It notes that the control condition appeared last for all respondents.

Name	Louis, Anthony, Martin, David
Age	34, 35, 37, 38
Occupation	X-ray Technician, High School Teacher, Physical Therapist, Legal Assistant
Community Activity	Votes in every presidential elections, Annually attends political rallies, Annually attends neighborhood potluck dinners, Annually attends charitable events

Notes: The order of all values was randomly assigned except for the control condition, “Annually attends neighborhood potluck dinners,” which appeared last for all respondents.

The author regrets this error.

REFERENCE

Anoll, Allison P. 2018. “What Makes a Good Neighbor? Race, Place, and Norms of Political Participation.” American Political Science Review 112 (3): 494–508. doi: 10.1017/S0003055418000175.