Anti-Dumping and Anti-Trust Issues in Free-Trade Areas

GABRIELLE MARCEAU

While anti-dumping actions infringe the obligation of National Treatment contained in the GATT and NAFTA, they are an exclusive exercise of sovereignty and would seem to protect statehood and other national interests of any importing state. This book is concerned with the regulation of business practices within free trade areas, discussing the economics and control of dumping and other restrictive practices.

Henry's Wars and Shakespeare's Laws

Perspectives on the Law of War in the Later Middle Ages

THEODOR MERON, New York University School of Law and The Graduate Institute of International Studies, Geneva

"Henry's Wars illuminates its various subjects in a brilliant...way....By delving into the past, Meron reminds his contemporaries that standards in the use of armed force must be part of culture, not the exclusive property of legal specialists, and enlivens a subject that can easily seem arcane."—Adam Roberts in American Journal of International Law.

The Termination and Revision of Treaties in the Light of New Customary International Law

A. KONTOU, Commission of the European Communities, Brussels

Through detailed analysis of state practice and key decisions of international tribunals, Kontou considers the circumstances by which new customary law may annul the obligations of a prior treaty, and argues that there is a special category of situations which supports the right of a state to renegotiate a treaty by an appeal to new customary law.

THE NEW WORLD ORDER AND THE SECURITY COUNCIL:

Testing the Legality of its Acts

by Mohammed Bedjaoui

"This book provides ample testimony, if any were needed of His Excellency Judge Mohammed Bedjaoui's fine legal mind. Indeed, the question of the judicial review of the acts of the Security Council is one of the most urgent and revealing contemporary issues facing the United Nations. ... Mohammed Bedjaoui brings us a book which provides both a work on positive law and an essay on normative law."

—from the Preface, by

H.E. Mr. Boutros Boutros-Ghali

LAW AND POLICY OF REGIONAL INTEGRATION: The NAFTA and Western Hemispheric Integration in the World Trade Organization System

by Frederick M. Abbott

Professor Abbott takes a comprehensive approach to the study of NAFTA and its implications for the global trading system embodied in the World Trade Organization (WTO). His book covers the political and legal process of NAFTA approval as well as its potential economic impact. He examines the rules of the WTO designed to regulate the activities of regional integration arrangements, and analyzes NAFTA rule systems, dispute settlement mechanisms, and environmental implications, for potential conflicts with WTO rules and trade policies.

LAW AND BUSINESS IN FRANCE A Guide to French Commercial and Corporate Law

by Christopher Joseph Mesnoob

Law and Business in France has been written specifically with the foreign investor in mind. It sets forth in clear, non-technical language, the full range of legal considerations which foreign investors need to consider in order to successfully carry out their activities in France. Community Law is also treated whenever necessary in order to give the reader the broadest possible framework.

ECONOMIC, SOCIAL AND CULTURAL RIGHTS: A Textbook

edited by Asbjørn Eide, Catarina Krause, and Allan Rosas

The Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action, adopted in June 1993, reaffirmed the indivisible and interdependent nature of all human rights. Yet, economic, social and cultural rights remains a subject of debate and controversy.

This book is the first comprehensive text on internationally recognized economic, social and cultural rights. While focusing upon this category of rights, it also brings out their relation to other human rights, particularly civil and political.

The United Nations and the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty

The Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty represents the cornerstone of efforts by the international community to prevent the proliferation of nuclear weapons while ensuring that the benefits of nuclear technology are readily available for peaceful purposes.

This publication details the Treaty and brings together, for the first time, key documents relating to the nuclear non-proliferation issue. Complementing the documents are a detailed chronology and an introduction by Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali, which provide an overview of the key role played by the Organization and its Member States in meeting the new and intrinsic challenges of the nuclear age.

The reproduced texts include:

- Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons
- Documents of the Review Conferences and list of parties to the Treaty
- International Atomic Energy Agency documents concerning safeguards
- Unilateral security assurances to non-nuclear-weapon states given by the nuclear-weapon states
- Treaties establishing nuclear-weapon free zones in Latin America and the Caribbean and in the South Pacific

THE BEST IN LAW

International Law Reports

E. Lauterpacht and C. J. Greenwood, Editors

Decisions of international courts and arbitrators, as well as judgments of national courts, are fundamental elements of modern public international law. The International Law Reports is the only publication in the world wholly devoted to the regular and systematic reporting in English of such decisions. It is an absolutely essential work of reference. Volume 94 contains forty-five decisions from a wide variety of jurisdictions, including the report of the United Nations Iraq-Kuwait Boundary Demarcation Commission and the decisions of the International Court of Justice on applications for interim measures in the Green Belt and Lockerbie cases. Volume 95 contains the full texts of the Cases Concerning Application of the Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide (Bosnia and Herzegovina vs. Yugoslavia) together with awards in the St Pierre and Miquelon and Biloune arbitrations and decisions of the courts of Canada, the U.S., the UK, Ireland and South Africa.

The work of a wide range of tribunals will be reflected in Volumes 96 to 99, including decisions of the European Court of Human Rights, the UN Human Rights Committee and the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, together with the latest opinions of the Badinter Arbitration Commission on the Former Yugoslavia. Volume 97 contains the decisions of the International Court of Justice on the El Salvador/Honduras boundary case and the Nauru Phosphates case.

Iran-US Claims Tribunal Reports

Volume 28

R. Pogany, Editor

E. Lauterpacht, Consulting Editor

The Tribunal, concerned principally with the claims of United States nationals against Iran, is the most important international claims tribunal to have sat in over half a century. Its jurisprudence is bound to make an important contribution to international law and, in particular, the law relating to aliens. The series is the only complete and fully indexed report of the decisions of this unique Tribunal. These Reports are essential for all practitioners in the field of international claims, academics in private and public international law and comparative lawyers, as well as all governments and law libraries.

United Nations Legal Order

Volumes 1 and 2

Oscar Schachter and Christopher Joyner, Editors

In these two volumes, the eminent contributors provide an in-depth analysis of the United Nations legal order, emphasizing the problems of U.N. Charter interpretation. They assess the effect U.N. institutions have had on the law-making process, and the extent to which that law has been accepted by and evidenced in contemporary state practice.

The 1994 Proceedings of the American Society of International Law—a tour d'horizon of issues of interest to international law practitioners, academics, and officials.

Are you interested in Sovereignty? ...

Echoing the theme of the 1994 Annual Meeting, the Proceedings deal in substantial measure with "the transformation of sovereignty" as evidenced in continuing political, economic and legal developments during the period of accelerated transition with which the international community is grappling.

- New theoretical perspectives among international scholars
- The various entities that may demonstrate emergent "multiple tiers of sovereignty"—from nations-states themselves to various substate entities involving local autonomy arrangements to supranational entities such as the European Union
- International law aspects of the breakup of states
- And the question "The End of Sovereignty?" which brought together issues and conclusions on the overall theme of the 1994 Annual Meeting.

Human Rights: An Agenda for the Next Century

Louis Henkin and John Lawrence Hargrove, Editors

The end of the Cold War has transformed the international human rights agenda for centuries to come. It has made it possible to take a fresh look at what half a century has done with the human rights idea, and has raised hopes of developing additional rights as well as more effective international enforcement of established rights. At the same time, it has spawned new conflicts, which have brought terrible events calling urgently for new means of responding to massive human rights violations. This 524-page book is the work of a group convened to study issues addressed at the UN World Conference on Human Rights held in Vienna in June 1993. It provides a basis for recommendations to the World Conference and to U.S. officials for action in response to the challenges facing the world at the turn of the century.

THE GNAT IS OLDER THAN MAN

Global Environment and Human Agenda

Christopher D. Stone

Why are globe-spanning environmental problems on the rise and what can be done about them? Christopher Stone shows why global problems do not always benefit from "global solutions," how environmental diplomacy has to account for the growing tensions between rich and poor nations, and why even checking population growth would not heal the planet. Stone's latest work, at once theoretical and realistic, is a major contribution to our understanding of one of humanity's greatest challenges.

"Stone has the rare ability to blend idealism and realism. . . his book has the power to revolutionize the way we think about protecting the global environment."

Human Rights in International Perspective

David P. Forsythe, series editor

The Convention on the Rights of the Child

United Nations Lawmaking
on Human Rights
Lawrence J. LeBlanc

Lawrence J. LeBlanc provides a historical overview of the origins of the Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC) and children's rights work, places the issues and problems into the broader perspective of the United Nations lawmaking process, provides an in-depth analysis of the children's rights enumerated in the treaty, and projects the prospects for effective implementation of the CRC. He outlines why the convention comes at the best possible time and how it represents the single most important international document on children's rights.

Foreword by Roy Gutman

Afterword by Cynthia Enloe

Stiglmayer, a German journalist, interviewed survivors of the war in Bosnia-Herzegovina in order to reveal the atrocities of systematic rape. This first English edition includes interviews with some twenty victims of rape as well as interviews with three Serbian perpetrators. New to this edition are essays by Catharine A. MacKinnon, Rhonda Copelon, and Susan Brownmiller; a foreword by Roy Gutman; and an afterword by Cynthia Enloe.

Green Plans

Greenprint for Sustainability

Huey D. Johnson

Foreword by David R. Brower

"Green plans" are comprehensive environmental strategies that represent the most effective tool yet developed to protect and sustain the global environment. Huey D. Johnson provides the first detailed and understandable examination of the theory, implementation, and performance of green plans as exemplified in nations such as the Netherlands, Canada, and New Zealand.
