

Invitation to submit papers - due by July 15 (for publication in November)

We welcome articles of relevance to all areas of educational guidance and counselling. Papers are usually arranged as research, professional or field reports of a practical nature, and book and test reviews are also welcome. Papers are reviewed by professional peers from the Editorial panel.

Information for authors

Instructions for the preparation for manuscripts are similar to those outlined in the Australian Journal of Psychology. In summary there should be:

- a separate title page with title of paper, names and positions of author/s and contact address for correspondence
- a short abstract delineated from the main text
- diagrams and figures of professional quality
- tables and figures one to a page at the end of the paper with notation in the text as to the appropriate placement
- references as in the Manual of the American Psychological Association (see examples in this or other editions of the journal) Titles of books and journals should be in italics
- spelling should conform to the Macquarie Dictionary

Initially three copies should be sent typed on A4 paper. These will be forwarded to reviewers. If accepted the final version should be presented with two paper copies and two copies on a disk each, in Claris/Mac or Word/Windows

*Submissions are due by July 15 (for publication in November)

Contributors of accepted articles will receive a complimentary copy of the Journal. Copyright to authored material published in the Australian Journal of Guidance & Counselling rests with the author/s unless it has been commissioned by the association.

Advertisements Advertisements for conferences, publications or professional services are welcome. Rates are available on request from the editor.
