Sissel Bjerrum Fossat is Researcher at Odense City Museums and is currently part of a project investigating the history of Danish industry in the twentieth century by looking at the robotics cluster in Odense. She is the author of Den lille pige med iskagen, Marshallplan, produktivitet og amerikanisering (Odense: Syddansk Universitetsforlag, 2015). The book is based on her PhD thesis on Americanisation through the technical assistance of the Marshall Plan. She has published articles on transnational history, conceptual history and US influences in post-war Denmark. Most recently she has co-edited an anthology on central Danish narratives of history to be published in 2018, entitled Konfliktzonen Danmark. Stridende fortællinger om dansk historie (Copenhagen, Gads Forlag, 2018).

Sarah Davies is Professor of history in the Department of History, Durham University. She is the author of Popular Opinion in Stalin's Russia: Terror, Propaganda and Dissent 1934–1941 (Cambridge University Press, 1997) and co-author (with James Harris) of Stalin's World: Dictating the Soviet Order (Yale University Press, 2015). She is currently working on a study of British–Soviet cultural relations during the Cold War. Publications arising from this project have appeared in Contemporary British History and in Simo Mikkonen and Pia Koivunen eds., Beyond the Divide: Entangled Histories of Cold War Europe (Berghahn, 2015).

Christophe Farquet is Advanced PostDoc Mobility Researcher at the Swiss National Foundation. His research deals with the history of offshore finance, the history of international relations during the interwar years and the economic history of Switzerland. He is currently writing a new history of the Swiss foreign policy at the beginning of the twentieth century. He is also the author of two books on the history of the Swiss tax haven, the last of them published at the Presses de Sciences-Po Paris in 2018.

Jochim C. Häberlen is Assistant Professor of modern continental European history at the University of Warwick. He is author of Vertrauen und Politik im Alltag: Die Arbeiterbewegung in Leipzig und Lyon im Moment der Krise, 1929–1933/38 (Göttingen: Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 2011) and Wie aus Fremden Freunde werden: Ein politisches

Essay über Begegnungen mit Flüchtlingen (Berlin: Neofelis, 2018). He has also authored numerous articles and book chapters in journals such as Contemporary European History, Central European History and the Journal for the History of Sexuality. His book The Emotional Politics of the Alternative Left: West Germany, 1968–1984 is forthcoming with Cambridge University Press.

Simon Jackson is Lecturer in modern middle eastern history at the University of Birmingham, where he directs the Centre for Modern and Contemporary History. His research focuses on the history of French colonial empire in the Eastern Mediterranean and North Africa, with an emphasis on the cultural and social politics of economic life. With the support of a Leverhulme Trust Early Career Fellowship he is currently completing a book on the global political economy of French rule in Syria and Lebanon after the First World War with a focus on the politics of Fordism and infrastructure. He has recently co-edited a volume, with Alanna O'Malley (Leiden), on the interrelationship of the League of Nations and the United Nations.

Felix A. Jiménez Botta is a PhD candidate at Boston College writing a dissertation on transnational human rights mobilisation between West Germany, Chile and Argentina in the 1970s and 1980s, as well as its impact on West German foreign policy towards both countries. His research has appeared in Sports in Society and Zeithistorische Forschungen (forthcoming).

Michal Kubát is Associated Professor of political science at the Charles University. His areas of expertise include democratic and non-democratic regimes, political opposition and political systems of Central Europe, especially the Czech Republic and Poland. He has recently co-authored Undemokratische Regime: Theoretische Verortung und Fallbeispiele (Barbara Budrich, 2015) He has extensively researched Giovanni Sartori's works and has a forthcoming co-edited book Giovanni Sartori: Challenging Political Science (ECPR Press/Rowman & Littlefield International, 2018).

Hana Kubátová is Assistant Professor at the Charles University and the head of the newly established Center for the Transdisciplinary Research of Violence, Trauma and Justice at the Charles University (VITRI). She specialises on majority–minority relations in Slovakia, the social history of the Holocaust and the relationship between memory and robbery. ## NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Contemporary European History covers the history of eastern and western Europe, including the United Kingdom, from 1918 to the present. By combining a wide geographical compass with a relatively short time span, the journal achieves both range and depth. It is open to all forms of historical enquiry – including cultural, economic, international, political and social approaches – and welcomes comparative and transnational analysis.

Submissions

Authors wishing to submit articles for publication should do so through the journal's online submissions system at <http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/conteurohistory>.

Articles should normally be about 8,000 words long, the total to include footnotes. Review articles should not exceed 5,000 words.

The journal is published in English, and contributions are normally submitted in that language; however, we will also consider articles submitted in other major European languages. If accepted for publication, these will be translated. All articles, including those commissioned, will be refereed.

An abstract of each article is published in English, French and German.

Submission of a paper will be taken to imply that it is unpublished and is not being considered for publication elsewhere. On acceptance of a paper, the author will be asked to assign copyright (on certain conditions) to Cambridge University Press. An article cannot be published unless a signed copyright form is returned promptly.

Contributors are responsible for obtaining permission to reproduce any material in which they do not hold copyright and for ensuring that the appropriate acknowledgements are included in their text.

The editors would be grateful if contributors kept closely to the journal's stylistic conventions. Copy-editing is time-consuming and the editors will return any contribution which does not follow the conventions for correction and re-typing.

Prospective authors should refer to the full set of Instruction for Contributors by following the link at <https://www.cambridge.org/ceh>

Contributors of accepted papers will be expected to submit a final version which should include

1. the text, which should begin with the title, the author's name and email and postal address, and the author's affiliation as he/she should wish it to appear
2. a 100-word summary of the article in English, French or German
3. a short title for use as a running page-head
4. a statement of the article's length in number of words (including both text and footnotes), and a list of tables, graphs, maps and any other illustrative material (each of which should be supplied as a separate file)
5. a short biographical note with a description of work in progress and previously published work (130 words max.)

Copying This journal is registered with the Copyright Clearance Center, 222 Rosewood Drive, Danvers, MA 01923, USA. Organisations in the USA who are also registered with C.C.C. may therefore copy material (beyond the limits permitted by sections 107 and 108 of U.S. Copyright law) subject to payment to C.C.C. of the per-copy fee of $12.00. This consent does not extend to multiple copying for promotional or commercial purposes. Code 0960-7773/2007.

ISI Tear Sheet Service, 3501 Market Street, Philadelphia, PA 19104, USA, is authorised to supply single copies of separate articles for private use only. Organisations authorised by the Copyright Licensing Agency may also copy material subject to the conditions agreed.

For all other use, permission should be sought from Cambridge or from the American Branch of Cambridge University Press.
