The Bedford Anthology of American Literature

Susan Belasco

University of Nebraska, Lincoln

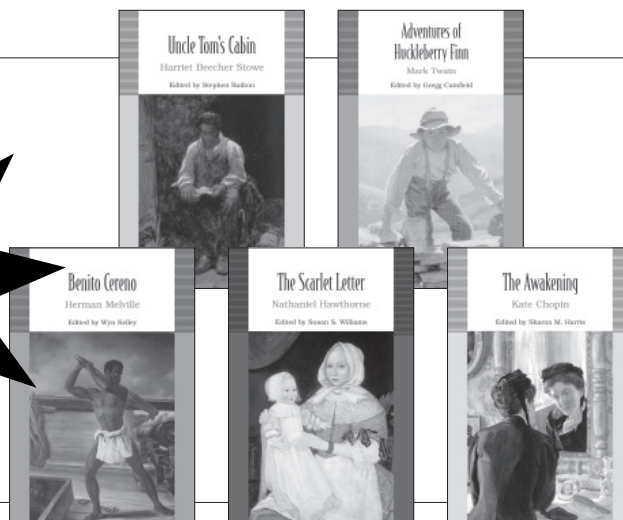

Linck Johnson

Colgate University

Although far less hefty and expensive than other leading anthologies, The Bedford Anthology of American Literature has been widely acclaimed for its judicious and broadly representative selection of literature. At the same time, it does more than other anthologies to help students understand and appreciate the literature (through its innovative contextual features and unparalleled art program) and to help instructors design their courses (including a new literary reprint series for customizable packaging options and a unique DVD designed for classroom presentations).

Literary Criticism from Chicago

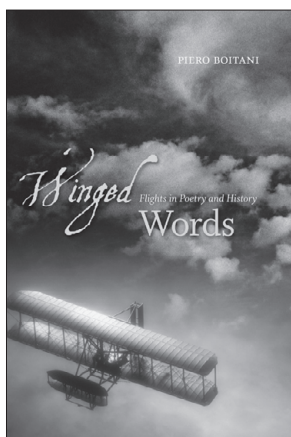

This Wide and Universal Theater

Shakespeare in Performance, Then and Now

David Bevington

“Holding lightly his great knowledge of his subject, Bevington moves among a vast mosaic of examples, assembled from the long history of Shakespearean performance. He crosses easily and generously between early and late, between traditional and avant-garde, between stage and film, always with an eye for the telling detail, always reminding us of our ongoing, necessary conversation with the plays.”—Kenneth Gross, author of Shylock Is Shakespeare
Cloth $25.00

Winged Words

Flight in Poetry and History

Piero Boitani

“Winged Words soars in flight over the widest range of subjects. Boitani brings great erudition, wit, and moral seriousness to his theme, demonstrating how comparative literature can express and animate the most vital of our concerns, from Homer to 9/11.”—Robin Kirkpatrick, University of Cambridge
Cloth $29.00

Danteworlds

A Reader's Guide to the "Inferno"

Guy P. Raffa

“Drawing on Dante dictionaries, early commentaries, and many of the poet’s chief sources, Guy Raffa provides lucid, concise information on all the major persons, deities, and creatures encountered by Dante in the course of his journey. This book is ideally suited for first-time readers of the poem, who will be able to consult Danteworlds for a wealth of particulars. It is an intelligently conceived, very handy guide which will appeal to a broad audience.”—Deborah Parker, University of Virginia

Madame Proust

A Biography

Evelyne Bloch-Dano

“If the wealthy Weils hadn’t married off their daughter Jeanne to Dr. Adrien Proust in 1870, our sense of the past would be very different. Jeanne’s story, seen here—inevitably—through the scrim of her son’s immortal evocation of lost time, evokes the richly upholstered interiors of Paris in the late nineteenth century.”—Rachel Brownstein, author of Becoming a Heroine
Cloth $27.50

Modes of Faith

Secular Surrogates for Lost Religious Belief

Theodore Ziolkowski

“What followed Matthew Arnold’s ‘long departing roar’ of the sea of faith? What surrogates swirled in to fill the religious and cultural vacuum? Ziolkowski brilliantly charts the variety of ways European and American writers struggled to respond. His sure-footed command of an amazing range of literature and his winning eloquence invite the reader on a fascinating journey through a foundation-shaking spiritual transformation that is still going on.”—Harvey Cox, Harvard University
Cloth $35.00

Scenes of Instruction in Renaissance Romance

Jeff Dolven

“A compelling and beautifully written book about fiction, learning, and experience in early modern English literature. With learned and lively reference to sixteenth-century educational theory and practice, Dolven explores ways in which instruction is represented in the major verse and prose romances of Spenser, Sidney, and Lyly, not only explicitly, but in the very fabric of their narration.”—John Hollander, Yale University
Cloth $29.00
