New TEXTBOOKS for Spring Courses

How Languages Work:

An Introduction to Language and Linguistics

Carol Genetti (editor)

This new and exciting textbook presents language in all its amazing complexity, while guiding students gently through the basics. A rich set of language 'profiles' help students explore the world's linguistic diversity, identify similarities and differences between languages, and encourages them to apply concepts from earlier chapter material. Students emerge with an appreciation of the diversity of the world's languages, as well as a deeper understanding of the structure of human language, the ways it is used, and its broader social and cultural context.

Sociolinguistic Fieldwork

Natalie Schilling

Carefully designed to be of maximum practical use to students and researchers in sociolinguistics, linguistic anthropology, and related fields, this invaluable resource will give students the skills and knowledge required for carrying out research projects in the field, and addresses key topics such as How to select and enter a community; How to design a research sample; What recording equipment to choose and how to operate it; How to collect, store and manage data; How to interact effectively with participants and communities; What ethical issues researchers should be aware of.

ISBN: 9780521127974 • $39.99 / £20.99

Endangered Languages:

An Introduction

Sarah G. Thomason

This textbook is an accessible introduction to the topic of language endangerment, answering questions such as What is it? How and why does it happen? Why should we care? The book outlines the various causes of language endangerment, explaining what makes a language 'safe', and highlighting the danger signs that threaten a minority language. Readers will learn about the consequences of losing a language, both for its former speech community and for our understanding of human language.

Applied Psycholinguistics

Editor

Martha Crago, Dalhousie University, Canada

Applied Psycholinguistics publishes original research papers on the psychological processes involved in language. It examines language development and disorders in adults and children with and without developmental disabilities. Articles in Applied Psycholinguistics address the nature, acquisition, and impairments of language expression and comprehension, including writing and reading. This journal gathers together the best work from a variety of fields including linguistics, psychology, reading, education, language learning, sociology, speech and hearing, and neurology. In addition, issues include reviews of important new books, problem-oriented reviews of important or emergent areas, discussions of previously published papers, and methodological notes.

Annual Review of Applied Linguistics

An official journal of the American Association for Applied Linguistics (AAAL)

Editor

Alison Mackey, Georgetown University/Lancaster University

Annual Review of Applied Linguistics provides a comprehensive, up-to-date review of research in key areas in the broad field of applied linguistics. Each issue is thematic, covering the topic by means of critical summaries, overviews and bibliographic citations. Every fourth or fifth issue surveys applied linguistics broadly, offering timely essays on language learning and pedagogy, discourse analysis, teaching innovations, second-language acquisition, computer-assisted instruction, language use in professional contexts, sociolinguistics, language policy, and language assessment, to name just a few of the areas reviewed.

LANGUAGE IN SOCIETY
NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Contributions are welcomed from all countries. They should be written in English.

Manuscripts of articles should be submitted online to Language in Society at Manuscript Central: <http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/langsoc>. Instructions for submission are available on the Manuscript Central site. Authors of articles and reviews accepted for publication will be required to submit final manuscripts in formats and file types specified by Cambridge University Press. Contributions should be double spaced in 12-point font. Figures should be ready for photographic reproduction: labels and details should be clear and large enough to remain legible after a 50% reduction. The first page should include the title, author's name, affiliation, full postal mailing address, and email address, along with an abstract of the article. The abstract must be no more than 150 words. Keywords should be listed at the end of the abstract. Contributors for whom online submission represents a hardship may submit 3 hard copies of the manuscript, formatted as described, to Jenny Cheshire at the postal address to the right.

Titles should be worded so that the first part may be used as a running head (with a maximum length of 50 characters, including spaces).

Citations and forms of emphasis. Normally the Latin alphabet is to be used. Cited forms should be italicized or underlined to represent italicization in print. Translation meanings (glosses) should be placed within single quotation marks. Use small capitals to indicate emphasis.

References are to be made in the text by giving in parentheses the name of the author, year of publication, and, where relevant, the page(s) referred to: (Whitney 1867:45–53). If the author's name is part of the text, use the form: "Whitney (1867:48) maintained that" When a work written by two or more authors is referred to, all names should be given in the first citation: (Weinreich, Labov, & Herzog 1968). Separate works referred to in the same parentheses should be in chronological order: (Whitney 1867, Hymes 1972, 1981). Initials should be used before an author's name only when an article refers to more than one author with the same surname.

All works referred to must be listed at the end of the article, double-spaced and in alphabetical order. Do not include works not cited in the article. Spell out first names of authors and editors where known; for example, Hymes, Dell (1972). Models of the interaction of language and social life. In John Gumperz & Dell Hymes (eds.), Directions in sociolinguistics, 35–71. New York: Holt, Rinehart & Winston.

Hymes, Dell (1981). "In vain I tried to tell you": Essays in Native American ethno-poetics. (Studies in Native American Literature, 1.) Philadelphia: University of Pennsylvania Press.

Sapir, Edward (1929). The status of linguistics as a science. Language 5:207–14. Reprinted in David Mandelbaum (ed.), Selected writings of Edward Sapir, 160–66. Berkeley: University of California Press, 1949.

Books for review and listing should be sent to:

Proofs. First proof will be sent to the lead author (or a nominee), who will be expected to return corrections to the Editor by air, fax, or e-mail within three days of receipt.

Offprints. No free offprints will be provided, but all authors of full-length articles and reviews will receive two free copies of the issue in which their contribution appears. (Book note authors do not receive free copies.)

Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published or is not being considered for publication elsewhere. If an author is publishing a related article elsewhere, this fact should be stated.

Copyright. Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyrights, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.
