DWELLING ON THE THRESHOLD

Allan C. Hutchinson

A challenging and provocative look at the world of jurisprudence. Allan Hutchinson offers an uncompromising critique of traditional values in contemporary society. The connecting thread throughout is Hutchinson's belief that law is basically political in scope and substance in that the traditional theory of law too easily serves the status quo.

Hard Bargaining

Out of Court Settlement in Personal Injury Actions

HAZEL GENN, Queen Mary College and Wolfson College, Oxford

"Even though based on British data, Genn's Hard Bargaining is the most important analysis for American scholars of negotiations in personal injury litigation since Ross' Settled out of Court."—William L. F. Felstiner, American Bar Foundation

(Oxford Socio-Legal Studies)
1988 208 pp. $49.95

Am I My Parents' Keeper?

An Essay on Justice Between the Young and the Old

NORMAN DANIELS, Tufts University

"A delight for philosophers."—Library Journal. "Careful scholarly works in biomedical ethics that have immediate implications for health policy are scarce—almost nonexistent. This book is one of the few. Moreover, Professor Daniels has managed to treat ethical issues in health care allocation with more philosophical breadth and depth than anyone else."—Professor Tom L. Beauchamp, Joseph and Rose Kennedy Institute of Ethics, Georgetown University. 1988 206 pp. $19.95

Morality, Politics, and Law

A Bicentennial Essay

MICHAEL J. PERRY, Northwestern University

"The scope of this new work places Michael Perry in the ranks of Constitutional theorists like Ronald Dworkin and Roberto Unger who have innovative, comprehensive visions of the role of law in contemporary American society. Perry develops a theory of how a transformative politics is possible given the failure of moral and political philosophers to find common principles among the many different values and ideals of these pluralistic times."—David C. Hoy, Professor of Philosophy, University of California and author of (inter alia) The Critical Circle: Literature, History, and Philosophical Hermeneutics

1988 336 pp. $29.95

Image Ethics

The Moral Rights of Subjects in Photographs, Film, and Television

Edited by LARRY GROSS, University of Pennsylvania, JOHN STUART KATZ, York University, and JAY RUBY, Temple University

Presenting a series of provocative case studies, this collection of thirteen original essays examines the moral rights of the subjects of documentary film, photography, and television.

1988 400 pp. $29.95

Censorship

The Knot That Binds Power and Knowledge

SUE CURRY JANSEN, Cedar Crest College and Muhlenberg College, Pennsylvania

"Jansen offers an incisive and challenging alternative to conventional approaches to censorship. Instead of approaching censorship merely as a restrictive practice, the book addresses censorship as an intrinsic outcome of concentrated power. The author frees her subject matter from its often partisan depiction, and roots it firmly as an issue of contemporary life."

—Stuart Ewen, Hunter College

(Communication and Society)
1988 288 pp. $29.95

Constitutional Brinkmanship

Amending the Constitution by National Convention

RUSSELL L. CAPLAN, U.S. Department of Justice

"An excellent and timely book. The author raises the key consideration that would inform future debates over calls for a constitutional convention. This makes a significant contribution to public law as studied by political scientists, historians, and law school professors. Highly readable and accessible to students and scholars."—David O'Brien, University of Virginia
