DESIGN FOR A JOURNEY
by M. D. ANDERSON. 12s. 6d. net

12 plates

In a book of lively learning Miss Anderson fortifies herself and others against the sapping ugliness of war. She has drawn from the stored-up happiness and beauty which the past has given us—churches, carvings, tombs, tapestries and legends—in the hope that her remembered pleasures of beautiful surviving things made in darker times than ours may revive the memory of those who have travelled the same road, and stir the anticipation of those who have not.

ALABASTER TOMBS
by ARTHUR GARDNER. 21s. net

305 photographic illustrations

From the earliest examples and through the subsequent 200 years down to the Reformation, Mr Gardner has, for the first time, classified, listed and illustrated the surviving alabaster monuments of England, describing the changes in treatment, in costume and armour, during that period.
