Newcomen Awards in Business History

For the best article published in the Business History Review during the previous year the Society will award a prize of $300 and a scroll. For the best article published in the Business History Review during the previous year by a graduate student or a recent Ph.D. who has not published a book in business history, the Society will award a special prize of $150 and a scroll. Criteria for selection include originality, value, breadth and interest of contribution, quality of research materials and methods, and quality of presentation.

Winners will be selected by a panel of judges consisting of the editors and the members of the editorial board of the Business History Review, none of whom shall be eligible to receive a prize. The awards are administered by the editorial office of the Review. No special prize will be awarded in years when, in the opinion of the judges, no eligible article suitable for the prize was published, and no person may be awarded both prizes in any one year.

Thomas Newcomen Book Award in Business History

The Newcomen Society of the United States, in cooperation with the Business History Review, will award in 1988 the ninth in a series of triennial prizes consisting of $1,000 and a scroll for the best book on the history of business published in the United States between 1985 and 1987. "Business history" is defined in its broadest sense to include not only the history of firms or industries, but books tracing interactions of business leaders, analyses of business philosophy or behavior, and studies of the adjustment of businesses and businesspeople to their economic, political, and social environments. Criteria for selection will include contribution to knowledge, depth of analysis, soundness of reasoning, clarity of style and organization, and general readability and format.

Judges for the 1988 award will be announced at an appropriate time by the Harvard Business School and the Newcomen Society of the United States.

The Great Northern Railway: A History

by Ralph W. Hidy, Muriel E. Hidy, and Roy V. Scott with Don L. Hofsommer, and a foreword by Alfred D. Chandler Jr.

"This long-awaited volume will be the standard account of the Great Northern for years to come."

—H. Roger Grant, The University of Akron

The Great Northern Railway presents, for the first time, the complete history of this major entrepreneurial enterprise from 1856, when the first charter was granted, to 1970, when the 8,000-mile Great Northern became an integral part of the massive Burlington Northern. Tracing the development of the Great Northern Railway from the era of James Jerome Hill through to its maturation, the book highlights the changes brought on by new economic, political, social, and technological advances, including world wars, increasing competition by other modes of transportation, and tighter government restrictions.

The Great Northern Railway has been specially designed, page by page, to accommodate both the meticulously researched text and the over 200 maps, period photographs, and drawings with ease. The result is an oversized (10¾ × 8¾) volume that is a vibrant blend of business, railroad, and regional history that will not only inform, but will grace any personal library.
