The Mesolithic Settlement of Northern Europe

By J. G. D. CLARK

25s. net

With 8 plates, and map in pocket

The author introduces the reader to the sequence of natural events in Northern Europe during the period and shows that the rapidly changing physical environment exercised so profound an influence on the human cultures as to afford a time-scale for dating them.

Johannes de Mirfeld of St Bartholomew's, Smithfield

HIS LIFE AND WORKS

By SIR PERCIVAL H.-S. HARTLEY and H. R. ALDRIDGE

4 plates 15s. net

A biography now compiled for the first time, and a selection of passages translated from the two extant works in manuscript of this fourteenth century cleric. These are the first writings of a medical nature known to be associated with an English hospital. Although they are nearly always taken by Mirfeld from older authorities they represent quite clearly what was the state of medical knowledge in London some five centuries ago.

Shakespeare's County

The county is of particular importance for the light thrown by its place-names on early settlement and invasion, English and Scandinavian, and for the interest of the street-names in old towns such as Warwick, Coventry, and Stratford-on-Avon. Association with Shakespeare gives the volume more than local interest.
