On the Independence of Matthew and Mark

J. M. RIST

Professor Rist challenges the general assumption that the relationship between our canonical texts of the Gospels of Matthew and Mark is to be explained in terms of direct literary dependence either of Matthew on Mark or vice versa. He argues that Matthew and Mark grew up independently on the basis of a common oral tradition, and supports his view by detailed examination of a large number of parallel passages.

Redactional Style in the Marcan Gospel

E. J. PRYKE

Dr Pryke tests some 18 syntactically unusual features of 'Marcan usage' to see if they are mainly source material or editorial material added by the evangelist to create a flowing narrative. His conclusions will be of great value to those concerned with the analysis of St Mark's Gospel.
