The Eclipse of Biblical Narrative

A Study in Eighteenth and Nineteenth Century Hermeneutics

Hans W. Frei

This book traces the sources, influences, and reverberations of the change in biblical hermeneutics from the precritical days of Calvin to its culmination in Strauss's revolutionary The Life of Jesus and the theories of Schleiermacher and Hegel. Laced with brilliant insights, broad in its view of the interaction of culture and theology, it gives new resonance to old and important questions about the meaning of the Bible. $15.00

Between Science and Religion

The Reaction to Scientific Naturalism in Late Victorian England

Frank Miller Turner

This study examines the lives and thought of six late Victorians who, having abandoned the Christian faith, found scientific naturalism an equally inadequate guide to life. These writers—Henry Sidgwick, Alfred Russel Wallace, Frederic W. H. Myers, George John Romanes, Samuel Butler, and James Ward—represent a cross section of the English intellectual community. $12.50

Ecumenism in the Age of the Reformation

The Colloquy of Poissy

Donald Nugent

At the colloquy of Poissy, held in 1561, revived Catholicism and emergent international Protestantism met in an attempt to establish peace, unity, and reconciliation. Placing Poissy in a larger historical background, the author argues that the colloquy was the final crossroads of the Reformation. When it was over, the Reformation was sealed and the Counter-Reformation was signaled. Harvard Historical Studies. $14.00

THE CELTIC CHURCHES

A History, A.D. 200 to 1200

John T. McNeill

Observing that the history of Celtic Christianity is a story of persons far more than institutions, well-known church historian, John T. McNeill describes the achievements of the leaders known as "saints." He shows that wherever they went the Christian Celts planted active colonies of religion and culture.
