ERRATA

December 1976, page III3, second paragraph, third line. After Coronary blood some words have been omitted. The sentence should read:

While the total blood volume remains almost unchanged, the peripheral, splanchnic and coronary blood flow diminishes considerably and the pulmonary and central blood volumes and cerebral blood flow are concomitantly increased (Singh et al., 1969; Roy and Singh, 1969).

The words omitted are underlined.
