To See with a Better Eye

A Life of R. T. H. Laennec

Jacalyn Duffin

René Théophile Hyacinthe Laennec (1781–1826) is best known for his invention of the stethoscope. Histories, novels, and films have cloaked his life in hagiography and legend. Jacalyn Duffin's fascinating new biography relies on a vastly expanded foundation of primary source material to situate Laennec within the broader social and intellectual currents of post-Revolutionary France.

"This is a stunning work, based on impeccable scholarship. It is a tour de force."—Ann F. La Berge

"This is an impressive piece of scholarship and a first-rate book."

—W.R. Albury

Against the Spirit of System

The French Impulse in Nineteenth-Century American Medicine

John Harley Warner

In this wide-ranging exploration of the culture of American medicine, John Harley Warner offers the first major study of one of the most powerful intellectual and social impulses in the nineteenth century: the radical empiricism of the Paris Clinical School.

"An important and fascinating story, compellingly told. John Harley Warner explains how visiting American medical students experienced the famous Paris Clinical School and offers rich, palpable, textured accounts of their daily experiences. His scholarship is stunning."—Gerald Geison
