NEW VIEWS OF LATIN AMERICAN ECONOMIC PROGRESS

The Urban Explosion in Latin America

A Continent in Process of Modernization

Edited by GLENN H. BEYER. What is the role of the city in the modernization process? How can the advantages of urbanization be enjoyed while its penalties are minimized? To consider such questions, leading experts gathered at Cornell University under its Latin American Year program. The editor, who was the organizer of the conference, took elements from the papers presented and added materials from many other sources to fashion this book. The result is a volume of importance for everyone interested in the future of an increasingly urban world.

Enterprise in Latin America

Business Attitudes in a Developing Economy

By ALBERT LAUTERBACH. "Professor Lauterbach's book, based on a questionnaire given personally to 403 businessmen in a dozen Latin-American countries, comes to essentially pessimistic conclusions. . . . The answers to the questionnaire bring out all of the well-recognized problems of stimulating business initiative in underdeveloped areas. . . . This study provides grounds for suspecting that the whole post-World War II dream of transplanting rapid economic growth to the underdeveloped nations of Asia and Latin America may prove to have been one of the hopeful delusions of history."—Annals of the American Academy.

Toward Strategies for Public Administration Development in Latin America

by John C. Honey

With Commentaries by

Peter D. Bell, Richard A. Fehnel, James R. Himes, and George Sutija

Preface by Fred W. Riggs

Written primarily for public officials and educators in Latin America, this book explores in depth the problems faced by Latin American countries in their efforts to improve public administration to meet development needs.

The author, who has extensive experience with public administration problems in Latin America, discusses the necessity of developing administrative leadership if programs for modernization are to be implemented successfully. His suggestions for administrative development are realistic, and include programs that can be undertaken by individual countries as well as two measures of a regional nature.

The commentaries by the four other specialists in Latin American development relate Professor Honey's proposals to the situations in Brazil, Chile, Peru, and Venezuela respectively.

Much of the work on this important study was done during 1965–1966 while Professor Honey was serving as consultant to the Ford Foundation's Latin American Program. $5.75

International Organization in the Western Hemisphere

Edited and with Introduction by Robert W. Gregg

This volume, the individual chapters of which were originally presented as papers to the Third Maxwell Institute on the United Nations, constitutes a careful and at times critical examination of the relations among the American nations and of the dominance of the United States in that relationship. The authors bring the perspective of a diplomat, a historian, an economist, and a political scientist to their subject:

The Special Nature of Western Hemisphere Experience with International Organization,

by John C. Dreier

The Inter-American System: Problems of Peace and Security in the Western Hemisphere,

by Gordon Connell-Smith

THE LATIN AMERICAN TRADITION

CHARLES WAGLEY

A collection of essays on the variety and unity in Latin American society. The author discusses the set of traditions, institutional values, and patterns of behavior which are shared by most Latin Americans, stressing the persistence of traditional ways of thought and behavior patterns and their tenacity in the face of the dynamic social and economic changes now underway in Latin America. By describing the regional and internal subcultures of Latin America (such as the tribal Indian, the peasant, the metropolitan middle class) as well as seeking the universal or common denominator in Latin American culture, the author presents a framework for further research on Latin America. $6.75

Colombia: The Political Dimensions of Change

by Robert H. Dix

Mr. Dix characterizes the various regimes which have evolved in Colombia to meet the challenges of modernization, beginning with Alfonso Lopez' "revolution on the march" of 1934. The book constitutes a thorough, up-to-date analysis of the political dynamics and recent history of an important Latin American nation.

CIDOC

CENTRO INTERCULTURAL DE DOCUMENTACION SUMMER IN CUERNAVACA, MEXICO

INSTITUTE FOR CONTEMPORARY LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES at CIDOC offers the student and faculty member an unusual approach to the understanding of modern man as he experiences social change in hope, creation and frustration.

CIDOC wants to serve colleagues anywhere who are concerned with the human experience of living in Latin America. To focus their encounters, CIDOC selects a new "theme" each term. Most courses offered by the Institute during the corresponding three-month period deal with this theme. Teachers remain free to choose the topic, issue or problem which they know best, and method and discipline most suited to them.

The 12 to 30 courses offered in a three-month period at CIDOC are taught in seminar style, in 15-class hour units and—whenever possible—in sections of one month duration. Thus, within a short period, the Institute gathers in Cuernavaca more than a dozen specialists each interested (from his own point of view) in the same theme.

RECENT INSTITUTIONAL CHANGE IN LATIN AMERICA is the theme chosen for SUMMER, 1968. Each of the following will direct a 15-hour seminar.

Charles Wagley	Joaquín Sánchez MacGregor	Oscar Maldonado
Michael Maccoby	Joseph Fitzpatrick	Arthur Rubel
Greer Taylor	Alejandro del Corro	Charles Ackerman
Dieter Koniacki	Everett Reimer	Rene Rebetez
Maurice Carril	Martha Elena Venir	Tarsicio Ocampo
Key Yuasa	Emma Sánchez Ramírez	Guitemie Olivieri
Francisco Arraes	José Rafael Revenga	Francisco Juliao

STRUCTURAL LINGUISTICS: One course will deal with structural linguistics applied to the teaching of Spanish as a second language. Others will study the theory of comparative structural analysis.

Raul Avila	Larry Grimes	Gerald Morris
Frederika Martin	Samuel Wentworth Anderson

CIF LANGUAGE SCHOOL aims to teach Spanish as a second language to reach a functionally native fluency. A maximum of four students to the instructor, supervised laboratory work, and a minimum of 25 class hours a week (and more if the student wishes) make this an outstanding course for beginners, intermediate and advanced level students. Throughout the year, language courses for all fluency levels begin on the first Monday of the month. In June and July, additional courses begin on the third Monday.

CENTRO INTERCULTURAL DE DOCUMENTACION

CIDOC maintains in its Archives a growing collection on the impact of ideology on social change in Latin America. From this collection CIDOC publishes two manuscript series, CIDOC DOSSIER and SONDEOS.

Each CIDOC DOSSIER records and examines one public controversy which took place in Latin America since 1950. Controversies are selected for documentation only if ideological doctrinaire or religious themes were at issue. Each DOSSIER contains all references gathered by the compiler which are available through CIDOC Archives (usually 500–1500 entries per DOSSIER) and 150–700 pages of reproduction of the most critical and least accessible documents.

The DOSSIER is an important instrument for any study of minority movements in developing countries and their behavior, and for the analysis of values, strategies and ideologies which motivate change. And these are indispensable for the understanding of contemporary Latin America: its social psychology, sociology, linguistics and media.

A first series of 100 DOSSIERS is planned for completion by 1972. DOSSIERS are available only to members of CIDOC DOSSIER ASSOCIATION.

NOW IN PRINT: Four controversies in Puerto Rico since 1950—Language of Instruction, The Christian Action Party, Assignment of U.S. Bishops to Puerto Rico, University Reform: Brazil—Accao Popular; Argentina—The CGT, The 1955 Education Act; Mexico—Free Textbook, University Strike, Right-Wing Movement; Colombia—Concordat, Camilo Torres.

SONDEOS are original manuscripts or studies on a wide variety of religious phenomena in Latin America. Published in their original language in limited editions, SONDEOS are sold largely by subscription. They contain specialized bibliographies, collections of documents and analysis of them, critical studies of historical and current theological, philosophical and literary trends in Latin America relating to belief or loss of faith; superstition; socio-religious folklore, atheism.

NOW IN PRINT: 15 volumes which include Peruvian Catechism in the 16th Century, A Study of Voodoo, Statistical Study of Religious and Marriage Practices in Puerto Rico, An Experimental Parish in Panama, Selected Writings by Camilo Torres, The Liberal Generation of the 80's in Argentina, Educational Planning in Latin America, Concubinage in Central America, and others.

THE MEXICANS
The Making of a Nation

VICTOR ALBA. "Taking us from the Aztecs' founding of Tenochtitlan to the modernizing Mexico of today, one encounters the histories of the many Mexicos that make up Mexico. The story of the three centuries of colonial rule is splendidly told, and the catastrophic years of Mexico's turbulent independence, as well as the 1910-17 revolutionary period, are made comprehensible—no easy task. Mr. Alba has written a work of both beauty and grandness."—Kirkus Service. 288 pp., illus., maps, bibliog., index. $6.95

THE MODERN CULTURE OF LATIN AMERICA
Society and the Artist

JEAN FRANCO. In this definitive study of the interaction of Latin American art with society and politics, the works of every important modern Latin American novelist, poet, and essayist—and some of the principal graphic artists—are examined in detail. "A judicious and illuminating account of the chief movements since 1988. . . . Well documented and meticulously written, this interesting and scholarly work is enthusiastically recommended."—Library Journal. 347 pp., references, bibliog., index. $7.50

THE MODERN HISTORY OF PERU

FREDERICK B. PIKE. The first comprehensive modern history of Peru in English inaugurates a new Praeger series of histories of Latin American countries. "Covering Peruvian political history since 1823, about half the book deals with the 19th century and the other half with the 20th. Professor Pike . . . stresses the importance of Indian and mestizo populations in modern Peru. Clear diction and unusually legible type add to the attractiveness of this volume. For all academic libraries."—Library Journal. 405 pp., illus., maps., bibliog., index. $7.50

LATIN AMERICA AND THE CARIBBEAN
A Handbook

Edited by CLAUDIO VELIZ. "Latin America and the Caribbean" is the most comprehensive work of reference on the area to appear in English, and draws on the authoritative knowledge of some eighty internationally known specialists. The first section of the book covers each country individually, with full statistics; further sections deal with the economy, politics, and social background of the area as a whole. 32 pp. of maps, 16 pp. of illus., 872 pp. $25.00
