

Bartolomé De Las Casas In History

Toward an Understanding of the Man and His Work

Edited by Juan Friede and Benjamin Keen

"Four centuries after his death, the star of Las Casas's reputation stands higher than ever in the firmament of world opinion," write the editors of this book honoring the memory of Las Casas. A controversial figure in his own day (1474-1566), Las Casas might well be called the New World's first political activist. Championing the cause of the Indians in "Overseas Spain," he became their "Protector" and devoted the rest of his life to the destruction of Indian slavery—a highly volatile movement. The purpose of this collection of essays by eleven scholars from seven countries is to broaden the understanding of Las Casas's life and work by making available in English translation the findings of leading modern European and Latin American specialists.

European Studies

editor: J. E. Flower co-editors: J. W. Burrow, A. G. Cross and
F. M. Kuna

The Journal of European Studies crosses the frontiers between traditionally self-contained subjects, linking research in History, Literature, Social Studies and Philosophy. The emphasis falls on contemporary topics, although contributions dealing with periods from the Middle Ages onward are included.

The value of this ambitious journal will immediately be recognized by all those who demand a total view of Europe which relates thought, events and trends across the disciplines.

Contents of Volume 1, Number 4

The 'droit de seigneur': fact or fantasy? Schopenhauer, Huysmans and French Naturalism. Concerning the German spiritual in Russian art: Wassily Kandinsky. Donatello's enigmatic David. Conservative reactions to social disorder: the Paris Commune of 1871. De l'état actuel des lumières: the Third International Congress on the Enlightenment, Nancy 1971.

Review Essay Beckett: at another impasse.

Comparative Studies in Society and History is a forum for presentation and discussion of new research into problems of change and stability that recur in human societies through time or in the contemporary world. It sets up a working alliance between specialists in all branches of the social sciences and humanities. Debate and review articles bring the general reader in touch with current findings and issues.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Contributions may be descriptive, analytical or theoretical. Any article not in itself comparative may be accepted if it lends itself to comment that will place it in comparative perspective. Correspondence with the editors prior to the submission of articles will help to enable them to obtain such comment or a companion study. Emphasis in comparative studies may be either on similarities or, if these are significant enough and call for some recasting of generalisations, on differences. All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to the Editors, Comparative Studies in Society and History, Department of History, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48104.

Two copies of each contribution, preferably accompanied by a stamped, addressed envelope, should be submitted. Both text and footnotes should be clearly typed with double spacing and wide margins; footnotes should appear on separate pages at the end of the article. Illustrations may be included by arrangement with the editors.

Contributors will receive 50 offprints bound in the journal covers. Any additional offprints must be ordered on receipt of the first proof.
