

honors the memory of the late William Steiger, a Republican who represented the Sixth District of Wisconsin from 1966 until his untimely death in 1978. During his service in Congress, Representative Steiger was dedicated to the Congressional Fellowship Program. He was an active member of the program's advisory committee and, over the years, welcomed numerous Fellows to his staff. The Fellowship is awarded annually to a political scientist or journalist who best exemplifies Representative Steiger's values and interests.

Fundraising for the William A. Steiger Congressional Fellowship is under the direction of the William A. Steiger Congressional Fellowship Development Committee, which seeks to raise an endowment to support in perpetuity the Fellowship.

Claude R. Marx:
Poynter Fellow

Claude R. Marx, political reporter for the Arkansas Democrat, Little Rock, has been named the 1991-92 Poynter Fellow.

Claude R. Marx

In addition to his position with the Democrat, Mr. Marx is host and producer of a weekly political talk program for KARN-AM, Little Rock, and is a stringer for The New York Times. Before joining the Democrat he reported for the Washington (DC) Times, the Nashua (New Hampshire) Telegraph and the Montgomery (Alabama) Advertiser.

The Poynter Fellowship is awarded to a talented and promising print journalist. Funding is generously provided by the Poynter Fund, the charitable foundation of the Times Publishing Company whose publications include Congressional Quarterly Weekly Report and the associated publications of Congressional Quarterly, Inc., as well as the St. Petersburg Times. Andrew Barnes is President of the Poynter Fund and Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of the Times Publishing Company.

All three fellowships are awarded through a rigorous national competition. Recipients participate in APSA's Congressional Fellowship Program which includes other political scientists and journalists, as well as health policy professionals, federal government executives, international fellows and others. Fellows spend nine months working closely with Members of Congress and congressional committees as legislative assistants and attending lectures by experts on the political process.

APSA Membership:
Twenty-Five Years

Jean Walen
American Political Science Association

In the story that ran in last September's issue on who had been continuous members of the Association for 25 years or longer, there were several corrections:

- Karl W. Deutsch joined in 1939, not 1945
- John T. Dorsey joined in 1950, not 1960
- William H. Riker joined in 1947, not 1963

Thirteen persons have been continuous members 60 years or longer, still led by Harold Gosnell (70 years), Francis Aumann and Marshall Dimock (65 years), E. Pendleton Herring, J. Roland Pennock, Joseph Pois (64 years), H. S. Foster, Dale Pontius (63 years), Ernest Griffith, Albert Lepawsky, Emmette Redford, Carroll Shaw (61 years) and David Fellman (60 years).

Those that can now join the 25 years or longer list are those members who joined in 1966:

Bingham Powell Names Melissa Collie APSR Book Review Editor

Bingham Powell, incoming managing editor of The American Political Science Review, has named Melissa P. Collie book review editor.

Collie is an associate professor in the department of government, University of Texas at Austin. She received her Ph.D. from Rice in 1984. She has also taught at Stanford and Rice Universities.

Her publications include "Incumbency, Electoral Safety, and Turnover in the House of Representatives, 1952-76," APSR, March 1981; "Universalism and the Parties in the U.S. House of Representatives, 1921-80," in American Journal of Political Science, November 1988 (this will be reprinted in Joel Silbey's forthcoming book, The Congress of the United States, 1789-1989); and "Multiple Referral and the 'New' Committee System in the House of Representatives," coauthored with Joseph Cooper, in Congress Reconsidered (Dodd and Oppenheimer, eds., 1989).

Powell, University of Rochester, replaces Samuel C. Patterson as managing editor and Collie replaces Helen C. Ingram, University of Arizona, as book review editor. Their first issue as the new editors will be the March 1992 issue, but manuscripts should be sent to Powell starting September 1 and books for review should be sent to Collie starting July 1, 1991.
