Creeds, Councils, and Controversies

J. Stephenson

45s. net

Documents illustrative of the history of the Church A.D. 337-461. 'This book is a delight to use. . . . In every way it is a worthy successor to the author's New Eusebius and will for a long time be the standard guide to all students of the Patristic period of Church History.'

W. H. C. Frend: View Review

Remarriage and Mixed Marriage

Hugh Montefiore

3s. 6d.

'Canon Montefiore's outspokenness may have the useful result of helping to bring into the open discussion of a possible change in the Church's attitude. . . . This whole question needs open debate and theological discussion. They ought not to be indefinitely delayed.' Such was the comment of the Church Times when these lectures were given in Chelmsford Cathedral.

Meeting for Prayer

Dom Robert Petitpierre, O.S.B.

6s. 6d. net

The Vicar of Islington writes in the Foreword, 'I know of no other book which deals so helpfully with this subject.'

Israelite Religion

Helmer Ringgren

42s. net

A history of the religion of Israel from patriarchal times to the beginning of the Christian era, emphasising the genuine creativity exhibited. Translated by David Green.

The Pastoral Care of the Bereaved

Norman Autton

19s. 6d. net

The Chaplain of St George's Hospital follows his Pastoral Care of the Dying with a study of the care due to the bereaved. As in the former work, Mr Autton shows profound understanding of human needs, and the role which the laity should play in pastoral matters.

Religious Thought in the Nineteenth Century

B. M. G. REARDON

The author illustrates nineteenth-century religious thought with excerpts from selected and representative writers, stressing the philosophical interpretation of religion and of Christianity in particular. There is a detailed introduction analysing the age as a whole.

'This book really does fill a long-felt want. It does for the nineteenth century what Creed and Boys Smith thirty years or so ago did for the eighteenth.' British Book News

'His net is cast widely and the catch is rich in content and variety.'

Peter Martyr in Italy

An Anatomy of Apostasy

PHILIP McNAIR

This is a study of the Reformation in Italy which failed. Peter Martyr Vermigli (1499-1562) is best known as a Protestant Reformer—second only to Calvin in learning; but he had already played a major role in the reforming movement in his own country, and this book traces his career as a Canon of the Lateran and in the crisis of conscience which led to his flight from the Roman Obedience in 1542.

The Christian Life in the Middle Ages and other Essays

MAURICE POWICKE

This is a reprint of a collection of essays by the late Sir Maurice Powicke first published in 1935. The essays, still delightful, are: The Christian Life in the Middle Ages; Dante and the Crusade; Pope Boniface VIII; Medieval Education; Some Problems in the History of the Medieval Universities; Gerald of Wales; Stephen Langton; Loretta, Countess of Leicester.

The New Clarendon Bible

The Acts

edited by R. P. C. HANSON

This replaces A. W. F. Blunt's commentary on The Acts in the Clarendon Bible published in 1923. It is part of a new series of up-to-date commentaries on the same general lines as the Clarendon Bible; this volume includes the text of the Revised Standard Version, and should be of use to undergraduates as well as the upper forms of schools.

200 pages, 16 half-tone plates 21s net

Faith and Speculation

AUSTIN FARRER, D.D.

A study of divine action in the world, remarkable for its profound thought and brilliant writing on a subject currently much discussed, and in part a sequel to the author's Finite and Infinite and The Freedom of the Will.

April Cloth 28s; paperback 18s

The New Dialogue Between Philosophy and Theology

JAMES ALFRED MARTIN, PH.D.

A well-informed, well-written introduction to one of the most important debates of our time, There has been hitherto no such account of British analytical philosophy, and the author fills the gap with a constructive and balanced history of ideas and of current literature, an impressively competent guide through a complex area of thought. 32s

STUDIES IN PATRISTIC THOUGHT

A new series of studies by leading patristic scholars, on both sides of the Atlantic, of themes or areas of thought in the early Church which are related or similar to those being discussed today.

God and World in Early Christian Theology

RICHARD A. NORRIS, D.PHIL.

A penetrating account of the Greek world-view introduces an analysis of how Christian biblical concepts were transposed into the ideas of the period by Justin Martyr, Irenaeus, Tertullian and Origen. A pioneer work, this presents accurately and dramatically a background for the understanding of our own conflict between traditional Christianity and modern technological society. 25s

God and History in Early Christian Thought

LLOYD G. PATTERSON, PH.D.

A study of the growth of the early Church, its recognition by the Emperor Constantine and the beginnings of the collapse of the Christian Empire and a description of the attempts of Christian writers from Justin Martyr to Gregory the Great to understand theologically the meaning of such historical events.
