

NOW THERE ARE FOUR SERIES OF SAGE PROFESSIONAL PAPERS (of special interest to Political Scientists)

Each series consists of 12 papers issued each year in three groups of four papers each. Individual papers are published as separate paperback books (from 32 to 96 pages in length). These series are designed with both research and classroom usage in mind; papers are available either on subscription (assuring quick receipt of timely work in the field) or as single titles (for personal or classroom use).

According to Choice (a magazine of the American Library Association)—when reviewing the Eckstein-Gurr series in comparative politics—a Sage Professional Paper is a "most valuable, inexpensive . . . outlet for research products" which provides "specialists with high quality monographs too narrow and short to appear as full-length books and rather too long to be published in academic journals. . . . An extremely useful library acquisition." Try it for your personal library, too!

SAGE PROFESSIONAL PAPERS IN COMPARATIVE POLITICS

Edited by HARRY ECKSTEIN, Princeton University, TED ROBERT GURR, Northwestern University, and ARISTIDE ZOLBERG, University of Chicago

A distinguished series—launched in 1970—of papers which have theoretical or empirical significance in the field of comparative politics. Among the papers now in print (a complete listing available upon request) are works by Riggs; Janda; Greenstein and Tarrow; Pride; Verba, Nie and Kim; Ilchman; Nardin; Gurr and McClelland; Eckstein; Scarritt.

SAGE PROFESSIONAL PAPERS IN INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

Edited by VINCENT DAVIS, University of Kentucky

A new series—with its first papers published in 1972—focusing on all areas of international studies: foreign policy, international relations, event interaction analysis, international law and organization, nation-building and development, international economic relations, and other areas of cross-disciplinary study of relationships amongst nations.

FORTHCOMING . . .

SAGE PROFESSIONAL PAPERS IN ADMINISTRATIVE AND POLICY STUDIES

Edited by H. GEORGE FREDERICKSON, Indiana University . . . coming in 1973!

An interdisciplinary series focusing on all areas of administration—both public and private—including organization theory, management, studies of bureaucracies, etc. Contributions will be drawn from political science, economics, sociology, anthropology, psychology, public and business administration.

SAGE PROFESSIONAL PAPERS IN AMERICAN POLITICS

Edited by RANDALL B. RIPLEY, Ohio State University . . . coming in 1973!

This series will publish significant studies concerning political parties, public opinion, political theory, voting and legislative behavior, the legal process, political decision-making, administrative organizations, intergovernmental relations, and related fields at all levels of American government.
