

Family and Fortune

Studies in Aristocratic Finance in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries

LAWRENCE STONE, Princeton University. Designed as a complement to Stone's The Crisis of the Aristocracy 1558-1641, this volume illustrates how such factors as personality, marriage and general forces in society interacted to determine the fortunes of the elite of England's aristocracy during the 16th and 17th centuries.

The Life of Orator Henley

GRAHAM MIDGLEY. "In tracing Henley's chequered career Graham Midgley knows that he is dealing with a freak, but a freak who easily might have been something better. The tone of his book is admirable; sympathetic without becoming partisan, and making no claims that facts will not justify." —Times Literary Supplement

The First Rockingham Administration

1765-1766

P. LANGFORD. "Langford's exhaustive research has produced a taut meticulous analysis of old Whig politics. . . . The end product is a highly refined political history to which scholars will refer for years to come. . . . A brilliant gem of historical craftsmanship." —Library Journal. The United States and Ireland

Donald H. Akenson

Mr. Akenson presents a keen, detached analysis of the history and present nature of Irish society for the general reader. He treats both northern and southern Ireland as part of the same story, and he discusses Ireland's place in the world, specifically within its European context. $12.50

Revolutionary Politics in the Long Parliament

John R. MacCormack

The author provides a fresh and coherent interpretation of the events chronicled in the first volume of S. R. Gardiner's monumental History of the Great Civil War. This is the first systematic study of the politics of five crucial years of the Puritan Revolution, the period between John Pym's death in December, 1643, and the execution of Charles I in January, 1649. $14.00

Economic Maturity and Entrepreneurial Decline British Iron and Steel, 1870–1913

Donald N. McCloskey

Using relatively uncomplicated economic tools and a wide variety of contemporary sources, the author shows that late Victorian businessmen in the British iron and steel industry performed on all measures as well as their German and American competitors. His study casts serious doubt on the importance of the entrepreneurial factor in Britain's economic decline. Harvard Economic Studies, 142. $11.00

Freedom, Corruption, and Government in Elizabethan England

Joel Hurstfield

Joel Hurstfield examines the meaning of freedom, consent, and corruption as expressed in minority comment as well as official opinion in the Tudor setting. His study is based on the records of the Tudor government, private archives, and literary sources. $11.00

A Study in the Land Market

EDMUND KING

In examining the character of the land market on the estates of Peterborough Abbey, Dr. King deals with the endowment of the monastery and discusses the colonization of new lands, illustrating how they were used to compensate for a decline in income from fixed rents. He also considers the monastery tenants, villein land transactions and the administration and organization of the monastic estates.

LIBERALS, RADICALS AND SOCIAL POLITICS 1892-1914

H. V. EMY

“This scholarly monograph reconstructs the gradual coalescence of Liberal opinion on the necessity of a constructive social policy in the post-Gladstonian era. . . . solid political history, based on wide reading in manuscript and printed sources.” — Library Journal. Dr. Emy maintains that the entry of the social radicals into Parliament marks the origins of a significant debate in modern British politics — the economic discussion. $19.50

George III and Lord Bute

The Leicester House Years

James Lee McKelvey

It is in the petty and vindictive atmosphere of Leicester House, the scene of George III's youth, that the bases for that monarch's reign are to be found.

Based on extensive research in manuscript sources, Professor McKelvey's book represents the first systematic attempt to study the Leicester House milieu in the 1750's and to relate that situation to George III's ideas and prejudices at the time of his accession. $5.75

CONFERENCE ON BRITISH STUDIES PRIZE

The Conference on British Studies will award its fifth quinquennial prize of three hundred dollars in November, 1974. The prize will be given for the best book published between January 1, 1969 and December 31, 1973, by an American or Canadian scholar. It must be the author's first book. Its subject must lie either within the field of British or Commonwealth History and Culture.

Nominations should be sent to Professor Thomas Peardon, Bridgewater, Connecticut, Chairman, Conference on British Studies Prize Committee. Other committee members are R. J. Brentano, University of California, Berkeley, and H. J. Hanham, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The past recipients of the prize are: Philip P. Poirier, Ohio State University, 1960; C. Warren Hollister, University of California, 1963; Melvin Richter, Hunter College, 1966; Isaac Kramnick, Yale University, 1969.

THE JOURNAL OF BRITISH STUDIES
TRINITY COLLEGE
HARTFORD, CONNECTICUT

The Journal of British Studies, founded in 1961, is published at Trinity College under the auspices of the Conference on British Studies. It was the result of the imaginative generosity of a Trinity alumnus, Frederick E. Hasler (Hon. LL.D. 1957) who contributed funds to the College for the specific purpose of establishing a learned periodical in the field of British history. Several Trinity alumni subsequently contributed to the fund and Trinity College now supports the publication of the Journal.

The Conference on British Studies is the official organization in the United States and Canada of scholars working in the field of British history and culture; its status as such is recognized by the American Historical Association of which it is an affiliate. Its nearly eight hundred members are drawn from forty-eight states and five provinces. It convenes twice each year, usually at New York University.

The Conference awards a prize triennially for the best first book by an American or Canadian scholar.

The Conference sponsors a considerable publications program. It publishes the Journal of British Studies at Trinity College; the British Studies Intelligencer, a newsletter, at Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas; and Archives in British History and Culture, a series devoted to the publication of documents, at West Virginia University, Morgantown; and Current Research in British Studies, a quadrennial survey of research in progress in the United States and Canada, published at Southern Methodist University. The Conference has begun a new series, to be published by the Cambridge University Press, of biographical and historical studies of men and women who were makers and shapers of the English experience.

In addition to the Conference on British Studies, there are several affiliates: the Pacific Coast Conference on British Studies, Pacific Northwest Conference on British Studies (who publish Albion twice a year) the Midwest Conference on British Studies, the Southern Conference on British Studies, and the New England Conference on British Studies. Each of these vital autonomous groups has its own officers, programs, and other activities. There are also local groups centered in Los Angeles, Detroit, and Pittsburgh.

The Journal of British Studies appears twice in the academic year, in the autumn and in the spring. The annual subscription is $6.00. Checks for subscriptions and enquiries concerning advertising rates should be directed to the Business Manager, British Studies, Box 1315, Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut, 06106.

Volume XIII, No. 2 will be published in May, 1974.
