The Law and Practice of Piracy at Sea

European and International Perspectives

Edited by Panos Koutrakos and Achilles Skordas

This collection of essays provides a comprehensive assessment of the legal and policy approaches to maritime counter-piracy adopted by the EU and other international actors over the last few years. This book adopts a holistic approach to the topic, examining approaches to piracy as these emerge in different geographical areas, as well as tackling the central issues which counter-piracy raises in terms of the most topical aspects of international law (international humanitarian law and armed conflict, piracy and terrorism, use of force).

EU Asylum Procedures and the Right to an Effective Remedy

Marcelle Reneman

Adequate and fair asylum procedures are a precondition for the effective exercise of rights granted to asylum applicants, in particular the prohibition of refoulement. In 1999 the EU Member States decided to work towards a Common European Asylum System. In this context the Procedures Directive was adopted in 2005. This directive provides for important procedural guarantees for asylum applicants, but also leaves much discretion to the EU Member States to design their own asylum procedures. This book examines the meaning of the EU right to an effective remedy in terms of the legality and interpretation of the Procedures Directive in regard to several key aspects of asylum procedure: the right to remain on the territory of the Member State, the right to be heard, the standard and burden of proof and evidentiary assessment, judicial review and the use of secret evidence.

Marcelle Reneman, VU University Amsterdam.

The Reception of Asylum Seekers under International Law

Between Sovereignty and Equality

Lieneke Slingenberg

Increasingly, European states are using policy on the reception of asylum seekers as an instrument of immigration control, eg by deterring the lodging of asylum applications, preventing integration into their societies and exercising a large degree of control over asylum seekers in order to facilitate expulsion. The European Union is currently engaged in a process of developing minimum conditions for the reception of asylum seekers, as part of a Common European Asylum System. This book critically examines the outcomes of the negotiation process into these minimum standards in relation to international refugee law, international social security law and international human rights law. It presents a comprehensive analysis of state obligations that stem from these different fields of law with regard to asylum seekers' access to the labour market and social security benefits and compares them to the minimum standards developed in the European Union.

Lieneke Slingenberg, VU University Amsterdam.

The USC Gould School of Law is home to one of the nation's largest, most comprehensive LL.M. programs for foreign lawyers. But to our international students, we're just "home."

For 13 years, USC Gould's LL.M. program has welcomed international attorneys, judges, government officials, prosecutors, corporate legal counsel, bankers, and recent law graduates who seek a degree in American law and new leadership opportunities in the global market. Drawing on over 40 full-time faculty and more than 50 adjunct professors with legal expertise in a variety of areas, students choose from a myriad of courses each semester and tailor their courses in a specialty area. But most important for our students is the end-to-end service we provide – including travel and visa arrangements, orientation, and networking and social activities – for each one of our nearly 180 students. We also maintain strong ties to an alumni network spanning 67 countries.

USC Gould's commitment to international legal education and scholarship also includes an online LL.M. program, a Master of Comparative Law degree program, a Visiting International Program for Lawyers (VIP), a four-week Summer Law & English program, and a J.D. Study-Abroad program with partner institutions in Hong Kong; Milan, Italy; Lyon, France; Queensland, Australia; and São Paulo, Brazil.

Pioneers of Space Law

A Publication of the International Institute of Space Law

Edited by Stephan Hobe

International space law is less than 50 years old. Although the work on the codification of space law started in the late 1950s, the Outer Space Treaty was only adopted in January 1967. This volume seeks to redress this by analysing the biographies and contributions to international space law of eleven such early “pioneers”, whose ground-breaking and original work helped to develop the field in important ways.

The International Water Law Series publishes scholarly and other expert work on the increasingly important field of international freshwater law. Fresh water shared by two or more states, whether in the form of surface water or groundwater, is in growing demand as populations increase and economic activities such as agriculture and hydroelectric power production continue to develop. In addition, climate change is already bringing with it challenges to the established order, including a spectrum of problems ranging from droughts, glacial melting and reduced precipitation to floods and other water-related disasters caused by increasingly extreme climatic events. Works in this series will address these problems, proposing carefully-considered methods of dealing with them, where appropriate.

A Procedural Framework for Transboundary Water Management in the Mekong River Basin

Shared Mekong for a Common Future

Qi Gao, Shanghai Jiao Tong University

In A Procedural Framework for Transboundary Water Management in the Mekong River Basin: Shared Mekong for a Common Future, Qi Gao explores procedural implications of integrated water resources management and its application in the Mekong River Basin. As a problem-based study, enlightening conclusions are made based on the increasingly polycentric nature of transboundary cooperation in the Mekong region. The procedural requirements in the Mekong context, both the ideal and practical scenarios are considered, combined with selected case studies.

The Development in International Law of Articles 23 and 24 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights: The Labor Rights Articles

Lee Swepston

The human rights enunciated in Articles 23 and 24 of the UDHR concern aspects of rights related to work. This part of international human rights law is often neglected in human rights textbooks and teaching, and indeed is often omitted from the work done by national human rights institutes and by NGOs concerned with human rights, as though it were a separate discipline that did not fall properly into the human rights field. This volume addresses this commonly held, but erroneous, misconception.

Studying at the European Seat of the United Nations: International Law programs in Geneva

Geneva is the perfect place to study international law in an inspiring environment with professors and students from diverse legal backgrounds. It is the world capital of human rights law, one of the most important centers of international policy-making, and a major hub for international arbitration.

The University of Geneva offers, in collaboration with the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies (IHEID), several programs in English:

- Certificate in Transnational Law: www.unige.ch/droit/transnational-law
The CTL program gives students an excellent opportunity to learn about different branches of international law, within only 1-2 semesters. The only requirement is to have successfully completed two years of legal studies.

- Summer Schools on e.g. International Law, in cooperation with WIPO on Intellectual Property, transitional justice (www.genevasummerschools.ch), and, jointly with Duke Law School, on transnational law (www.law.duke.edu/internat/Europe).

Interest Groups are an ideal place to network with colleagues in your speciality or areas of interest. Each group has a web portal and a members' email listserve, which is used to promote topical dialogue as well as to discuss administrative matters. Groups may sponsor seminars and workshops, publish newsletters, or host activities as ASIL's Annual Meeting.

Interest Group participation is free to all ASIL Members.

SUNY Buffalo Law School

The State University of New York

The first law school in New York State to launch an advanced-standing two-year J.D. for internationally-trained lawyers

EXTENDING OUR GLOBAL REACH

We are proud to announce the launch of an accelerated program for students who already have earned a law degree outside the United States, and who want to seek admission to the New York State Bar. In this new and innovative program, students receive advanced standing, and can finish the J.D. degree in just two years.

"As New York State's public law school we are uniquely positioned to introduce international students to New York law and legal culture, which has become a lingua franca worldwide."

-- Dean Makau Mutua

ASIL ANNUAL MEETING

The Annual Meeting is a bit like an overflowing buffet table of international law dishes. It brings people from all over the world, interesting topics, and is truly a defining event for international law aficionados.

Lucinda Low
Partner, Steptoe & Johnson, LLP

With over a century of tradition and experience behind it, the American Society of International Law's Annual Meeting has become the most important gathering in the field of international law.

More than 1,200 practitioners, academics, and students travel to Washington, DC, each spring from all over the world to debate and discuss the latest developments in their field.

INTERNATIONAL LAW: 100 WAYS IT SHAPES OUR LIVES

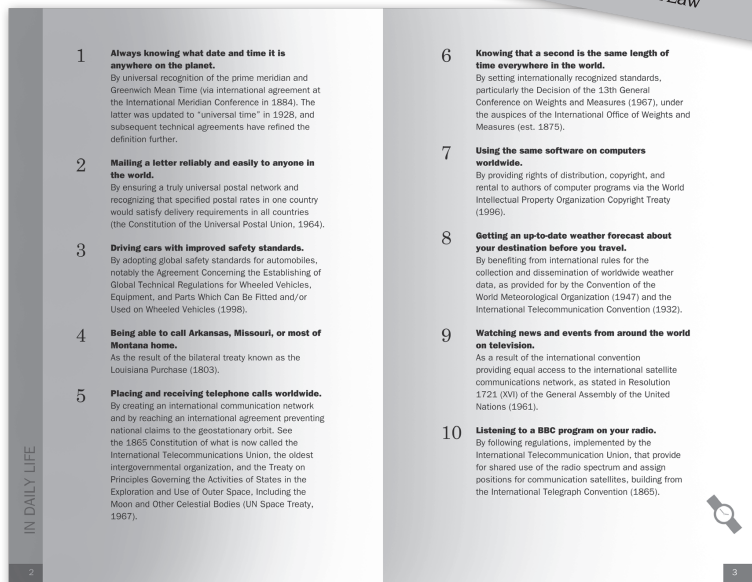

Many find international law abstract and static. Topics such as war and peace or relationships between countries are considered by some to be not so much questions of law, but of power and influence. Others question the existence of international law.

International Law: 100 Ways It Shapes Our Lives was conceived from the proposition that international law not only exists, but also penetrates more deeply and broadly into everyday life than is generally recognized. Some ways are of relatively recent vintage, while others are long-standing. 100 examples were identified by ASIL members, vetted by a smaller group of experts, and organized into seven chapters: 1) daily life; 2) leisure; 3) travel; 4) commerce 5) health and the environment; 6) personal liberty; 7) public safety and global security.

Join us in demonstrating how international law shapes our lives by

- Visiting 100 Ways at www.asil.org/100ways
- Using it in teaching and general civic education programs;
- Adding ways to the list; and
- Sharing your experiences using International Law: 100 Ways It Shapes Our Lives.

We hope that this creative and interactive project will help demonstrate the diversity and the centrality of international law to our lives today.

ASIL INSIGHTS

The Google Book Settlement and International Intellectual Property Law*
By Daniel Gervais

On March 22, 2011, New York Federal District Court Judge Dennis Chin rejected a proposed settlement in two lawsuits against Google. The lawsuits were structured as class actions filed by groups representing mostly trade authors and major publishers. The settlement would have allowed Google to continue scanning copyrighted books into its search index and displaying the text to its users in exchange for the payment of license fees to copyright holders.

Global Justice Center: Senior Legal Advisor Position
The Global Justice Center (GJC) is seeking a Senior Legal Advisor to focus on developing progressive, equity-based global legal precedents through the strategic enforcement of international human rights law. This position is for a lawyer with significant international human rights law experience, who is eager to "push the envelope" on how international human rights laws are interpreted and enforced. To apply, please send cover letter and resume to Julia Thomas. Click here for more information.

Program in International and
Comparative Law

ASIL Insights, the "international law behind the headlines," provide brief, balanced accounts of the international law issues raised by newsworthy late-breaking events. They cover the gamut of international legal topics, with past articles covering topics such as the legality of intervention in Syria, the United States' implementation of adverse WTO rulings, and the International Court of Justice's ruling on Antarctic whaling. ASIL Insights are distributed to subscribers and posted on the ASIL website approximately two times a month.

To receive ASIL Insights, simply create a guest account at asil.org. To view past Insights or propose a new one, visit www.asil.org/Insights.

Howard M. Holtzmann Research Center for the Study of International Arbitration and Conciliation

The Howard M. Holtzmann Research Center for the Study of International Arbitration and Conciliation was established by the American Society of International (ASIL) to serve as an education and research forum for individuals interested in international dispute resolution. Building on the Society's recognized expertise in this growing field, the Center will serve as an indispensable research and education resource, providing cutting-edge, expert information and analysis on significant issues and current developments in the international arbitration field. Center activities will include:

- Collection of research materials on international arbitration, including Judge Holtzmann's personal library and papers;
- A regular program of events, including a speaker series with leading figures and continuing legal education courses on hot topics in the field; and
- Working groups and task forces convened to address the key challenges and emerging issues relating to international arbitration.

The Center is conveniently located at the Society's headquarters and is open to everyone interested in learning more about international arbitration and conciliation.

The ASIL Holtzmann Center is established in honor of Judge Howard M. Holtzmann. Over the course of his career, Judge Holtzmann has made enormous contributions to the field of international arbitration and conciliation, and mentored scores of young lawyers working in the field. He was central to the American Arbitration Association (AAA) work with the Arbitration Institute of the Stockholm Chamber of Commerce to build an East-West bridge through international arbitration. Notable achievements include: service as a member of the U.S. delegation to the Arbitration Working Group of the UN Commission on International Trade Law (1974-2011), which produced the UNCITRAL Arbitration Rules, the UNCITRAL Conciliation Rules, and the UNCITRAL Model Law on International Commercial Arbitration, and service as a Member of the Iran-U.S. Claims Tribunal (1981-1994). For his pioneering work, the King of Sweden inducted Judge Holtzmann as a Commander of the Royal Order of the Polar Star in 2003. In 2005, he received the Silver Medal of Honor of Vienna, and in 2006, the AAA gave him its highest honor, the Peacemaker Award, for his "work to further peace throughout the world." Judge Holtzmann has been a member of ASIL since 1972.

Shape the Future of International Law

ASIL has allowed me to meet other lawyers with similar interests, but also exposed me to new issues of international law. ASIL offered me a space to share my ideas and build on them...[and] to be an active participant in international law.
