

Notes and Announcements

Order of Canada for Ali Rajput

On July 1, 1997, Dr. Ali Hasan Rajput received an award of officer, Order of Canada. He thus joins the very small elite group of Canadian physicians who have been awarded this honour. He also received the Saskatchewan Order of Merit in 1993 which is the highest provincial award.

Dr. Rajput obtained his medical degree from the Liaquat Medical College in Sind, Pakistan and graduated in 1958. After completing his internship and year of practice in Sanghar, Pakistan, came to the United States and did his specialty training in neurology and an MSc in neurology at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. He joined the Faculty of Medicine, University of Saskatchewan on July 1, 1967 and has been with the College of Medicine in Saskatoon since then.

Dr. Rajput has a distinguished career as a teacher, clinician and a researcher. He has published alone or co-authored more than 300 scientific publications/presentations. Several of them have won special recognition. He co-founded the Saskatchewan Parkinson Disease Foundation and Movement Disorder Group of Canada and was recently appointed to serve on the World Health Organization working group on Parkinsons Disease. He is the only Canadian on this World Health Organization group. Dr. Rajput sits on the Medical Advisory Committees of several national and international agencies, is on editorial boards of several scientific journals and is scientific reviewer for over a dozen medical journals.
