CAMBRIDGE LEGAL CASE BOOKS

Cases and Materials on Constitutional and Administrative Law

Second edition

GEOFFREY WILSON

The first edition of this book was remarkable in that it represented a new departure in case books on constitutional law. Not only did it include leading cases, but also extracts from parliamentary debates, official reports and other sources. This new edition covers also the many problems that have faced the British Constitution since the first edition appeared in 1966, including the long emergency in Northern Ireland and Britain's membership of the European Economic Community.

THE REDE LECTURE 1975

The Golden Thread of the English Criminal Law

The Burden of Proof

SIR RUPERT CROSS

In this lecture Sir Rupert Cross lucidly and concisely sums up the present interpretation of the criminal law on the question of the burden of proof, and suggests that some recent decisions of the courts are eroding that right.

CAMBRIDGE STUDIES IN ENGLISH LEGAL HISTORY

The Legal Framework of English Feudalism

S. C. MILSOM

Professor Milsom presents a new view of the beginnings of the common law concerning land which challenges the accepted view of the origins and development of the legal relationship between lord and tenant in the English feudal system.

CAMBRIDGE STUDIES IN ENGLISH LEGAL HISTORY

The Equity Side of the Exchequer

Its Jurisdiction, Administration, Procedures and Records

W. H. BRYSON

The court of the Exchequer, which was the ancient court of tax claims, assumed an equity jurisdiction in the sixteenth century which continued until 1841. This book describes for the first time the rise, development and abolition of this part of the court.

The Judicial Process

An Introductory Analysis of the Courts of the United States, England, and France

Henry J. Abraham

This book, which has been brought completely up to date for this new edition, is a comparative introduction to the judicial process. It seeks to analyse and evaluate the main institutions and practice affecting the administration of justice, and is mainly concerned with the judicial process in the United States, although England, France, the Soviet Union, and other states are also examined. Third edition £11.50; paper covers £5.50

Family Law and Litigation in Basotho Society

Sebastian Poulter

This study provides the first detailed and systematic account of the customary family law of the Basotho. Although essentially a legal work, it includes an introductory survey of the cultural, economic, social, and institutional framework within which the law operates. The orientation of the book is towards an examination of the outcome of family litigation, and over 300 cases have been used to analyse the guiding principles of Sesotho family law and to illustrate its adaptation and development. £12
