

appointed Psychology Editor for the journal Background on World Politics.

Lloyd M. Short, chairman of the department of political science at the University of Minnesota, was on leave of absence during the fall quarter, 1957. Professor Charles H. McLaughlin served during this period as acting chairman. Professor Short has received a University fellowship for European travel during the summer of 1958.

Fred A. Sondermann, assistant professor of political science, Colorado College, has been at Stanford University, under a grant from the Ford Foundation's International Relations Training Fellowship program. He also served as visiting assistant professor at the Social Science Foundation, University of Denver during the summer of 1957.

Ivan Stone of Beloit College will be on leave during the second semester, 1957-58 to do research in Greece, Yugoslavia and western Europe.

Robert Strausz-Hupe, of the University of Pennsylvania, attended, as a member of the American Steering Committee, the Conference on the Atlantic Community at Bruges, September 8 to 16, 1957. The members of the American Steering Committee were: Gaylord P. Harnwell, Chairman; Raymond B. Allen; Detlev W. Bronk; Colgate W. Darden, Jr.; Thomas K. Finletter; Hans Kohn; Frank C. Nash; Sidney Smith; and Erasmus H. Kloman, Jr., executive secretary.

Edward Taborsky, associate professor of government at The University of Texas, has been granted a research leave for the spring semester of 1957-58.

Charles H. Titus of U.C.L.A. has been granted a one-half year sabbatical leave to conduct research in Spain and Italy.

Herman H. Trachsel, University of Wyoming, has been granted sabbatical leave for the second semester of 1957-58 to carry on research in Washington, D.C.

Donald Urquidi, instructor of government at the University of Miami is on leave of absence on a Fulbright Fellowship in Rome.

Paul van der Veur, assistant professor of government at the University of Hawaii, attended the Ninth Pacific Science Congress at Bangkok, Thailand (Nov. 18-Dec. 9, 1957), where in the Division of Anthropology and the Social Sciences he had the dubious distinction of being the only political scientist present.

Robert Walker of Stanford served as chairman of one of the sessions of the panel on Economic and Technical Assistance at the National UNESCO Conference in San Francisco.

O. Douglas Weeks, professor of government at The University of Texas, has been granted a research leave for the fall semester 1957-58.

Norman Wengert, of the department of government and politics at the University of Maryland, served as a staff member of the third Management Institute sponsored by the American Society for Public Administration. The meetings, held in Chicago, November 17-22, 1957, were devoted to the subject of Communications in Public Administration, and were attended by sixty members of local, state and federal governments.

APPOINTMENT AND STAFF CHANGES

David E. Apter of the University of Chicago, has been appointed assistant professor of political science at the University of Chicago.

Vernon Aspaturian has been promoted to associate professor at The Pennsylvania State University.

Russell H. Barrett was promoted to the rank of associate professor of political science at the University of Mississippi.

Michael Biloz, a doctoral candidate at Syracuse University, is serving as visiting instructor in Political Science at Harpur College.

Robert Boynton, formerly assistant professor of history and government at Wells College has been appointed assistant professor of political science at the State University of Iowa.

J. Alton Burdine, professor of government at The University of Texas, has accepted a double appointment as dean of the college of arts and sciences and associate dean of the graduate school at that institution.

L. Gerald Bursery has been appointed instructor in political science at M.I.T.

Frank B. Cliffe, Jr. has accepted an appointment as assistant professor of political science and assistant coordinator of the Vietnam Project at Michigan State University.

O. B. Conway, Jr. formerly assistant director of the graduate school of the Department of Agriculture is now with the Albany graduate program in public administration conducted jointly by New York University and Syracuse University in cooperation with the State University of New York. He is professor of public administration on the New York University staff and professor of political science at the Maxwell School.

Geoffrey Yates Cornog has accepted a position as instructor of political science at Michigan State University.

Joseph Cunningham has been appointed to the faculty of the school of government and public administration of The American University as lecturer in electronics in management.

James A. Dator has been appointed to the faculty of the school of government and public administration at The American University as lecturer.

John Paul Duncan has been promoted to the rank of professor at the University of Oklahoma.

John H. Fenton has accepted an appointment as assistant professor of political science at Michigan State University.

Charles N. Fortenberry is acting dean of the graduate school, University of Mississippi.

Guy Fox has returned from Vietnam where he was chief of the division of the National Institute of Administration Programs of the Michigan State University technical assistance group. He has been appointed professor and acting head of political science at Michigan State University.

Harry J. Friedman has accepted a position as instructor of political science at Michigan State University.

Robert S. Friedman has been promoted to an assistant professorship at Louisiana State University.

Sterling H. Fuller has been promoted to full professor in the department of government at Texas Technological College, Lubbock.

Frederick H. Gareau joined the staff as assistant professor of political science at the University of Mississippi.

Edward B. Glick, director of the Commission on International Affairs of the American Jewish Congress, has been appointed as lecturer in government in the School of General Studies of The City College of New York.

Robert B. Dishman has been promoted to full professor in the department of government at the University of New Hampshire and simultaneously was re-appointed as a Democratic member to the New Hampshire Legislative Council.

Robert E. Goostree has been appointed assistant to the dean of the school of government and public administration in charge of the Washington Semester Program at The American University.

William Jay Gore, formerly of the department of political science at the University of Kansas, joined the faculty of the graduate school of business and public administration at Cornell University, in September, 1957, as assistant professor of public administration.

Jack Gourman has received a permanent appointment as instructor of political science at Immaculate Heart College.

Jerome Hall has been appointed Distinguished Service professor of law, at Indiana University.

William C. Havard of the University of Florida has been appointed associate professor of government at Louisiana State.

Charles M. Hersh has been appointed assistant to the dean of the school of government and public administration in charge of the up-town program at The American University.

Robert S. Hill has received an appointment as instructor at The Pennsylvania State University.

Harry A. Holloway, formerly of Cornell University, has accepted appointment as instructor in government at The University of Texas.

A. F. Jandali has accepted a position as instructor of political science at Michigan State University.

Henry L. Janssen has been promoted to associate professor at San Diego State College.

Ned V. Joy, assistant professor of political science at San Diego State College, has been promoted to associate professor.

Morton A. Kaplan, in addition to his academic duties, has been appointed acting secretary of the Harris Memorial Foundation by the University of Chicago.

Sabe M. Kennedy was promoted to full professor in the department of government at Texas Tech. Dr. Kennedy is also serving as general program chairman of the Southwestern Social Science Association meeting to be held in Dallas this spring.

James Kitchen has joined the political science staff at San Diego State College as an assistant professor.

David C. Knapp, assistant professor of government for the last four years at the University of New Hampshire, has been appointed assistant to president Eldon L. Johnson, a former member of this Association dating back to his professorship at the University of Oregon.

George Liska has been appointed assistant professor of the department of political science at the University of Chicago and research associate in the Center for the Study of American Foreign and Military Policy beginning October 1958.

Normal S. Mackie Jr., doctoral candidate at Columbia has become instructor in government at the University of Miami.

Howell C. McCleskey, formerly of Harvard University, has accepted an appointment as instructor in government at The University of Texas.

Herbert McClosky, who was recently promoted to the rank of professor of political science at the University of Minnesota, has received a grant from the Social Science Research Foundation to be used over a period of two and one-half years.

David W. McCormick has become assistant professor in the department of social science at Eastern Illinois University.

Josephine F. Milburn, connected with Chicago City Junior College during 1956-1957, now holds an appointment as instructor in government at Simmons College.

Alfred G. Meyer has accepted a position as associate professor of political science at Michigan State University.

Benjamin Nimer has been promoted to the rank of associate professor of political science at Washington and Jefferson College.

William E. Oden has been promoted to associate professor at Texas Technological College in the department of government.

Daisy Parker has been promoted to the rank of associate professor of political science at the Florida State University.

Paul J. Piccard has been appointed an associate professor of political science at the Florida State University.

Mejmir Povolny has been appointed an instructor in international relations at the University of Chicago for the academic year 1957-1958.

James W. Prothro has been promoted to the rank of professor of political science at the Florida State University.

Lucian W. Pye has been promoted to associate professor of political science at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Leo F. Redfern recently returned from a Sheldon Fellowship in Europe, has been appointed instructor in the government department at Harvard.

Peter Remec of Fordham University has been named an assistant professor.

William E. Rhode of Michigan State University has been appointed assistant professor at San Diego State College.

George H. Ritter, formerly of the University of Missouri, has been appointed instructor in political sciences at West Texas State College.

George K. Romoser has been appointed as an instructor of political science at Ohio State University.

Lloyd I. Rudolph has been appointed instructor in the department of government at Harvard University.

Susanne H. Rudolph has been appointed instructor in the department of government at Harvard.

Elmer Rusco of the University of California at Berkeley has been appointed instructor at San Diego State College.

Dankwart A. Rustow has been promoted to associate professor in the department of politics, Princeton University.

Warner R. Schilling, formerly of Columbia University, has been appointed assistant professor of political science at M.I.T. He will be in charge of developing graduate studies relating to National Defense Policy and Military Technology in collaboration with General James McCormack, Jr., vice-president of M.I.T. and formerly director of research and development of the United States Air Force.

Robert G. Scigliano, assistant professor of political science at Michigan State University, is now serving as assistant to the chief advisor of the Michigan State University technical assistance group in Vietnam.

John A. Shannon, assistant professor of political science at Creighton University resigned his post at that institution, August, 1957, to enter government service. Dr. Shannon is currently serving on the White House staff.

Kurt Shell, assistant professor of political science at Harpur College will be a visiting lecturer in the department of government at Cornell University.

Donald Smith has been promoted to assistant professor at the University of Rhode Island.

Manes Specter, chief, Training and Development Division, Veterans Administration, has been appointed to the faculty of the school of government and public administration at The American University as lecturer in personnel administration.

Richard A. Steele, formerly of the University of Pennsylvania, has been appointed assistant professor of political science at West Texas State College.

Raymond P. Stone, formerly on the staff of Dickinson College, has been appointed as instructor at The Pennsylvania State University.

Melvin P. Straus has been advanced to the rank of assistant professor of government at The University of Texas.

Seth P. Tilman has been appointed instructor in political science at M.I.T.

John A. Toomey has resigned as instructor of political science at Marlboro College to become Middle Atlantic Area Director of the Great Books Foundation.

Arthur G. Umscheid has become director of the department of history and political science at Creighton University.

John F. Wallerstedt has been appointed to the faculty of the school of government and public administration of The American University as lecturer in comparative government.

Jess Walters, in the fall of 1957, joined the staff of the legislative reference bureau of the University of Hawaii and has assumed part-time teaching duties in the University's department of government.

Edwin W. Webber, doctoral candidate at Tulane University, has been appointed assistant professor in the department of history and government at St. Lawrence University.

Charles F. Whittemore was appointed assistant professor of political science at the University of Wyoming, beginning in September 1957.

Francis Wilhoit of Mercer University has been appointed instructor in government in the department at the University of Miami.

IN MEMORIAM

P. Raymond Nielson, director, departments of history and political science, Creighton University, died suddenly as result of a brain hemorrhage, May 27, 1957. A.B., Manhattan College, 1922; A.M., Catholic University of America, 1924; Ph.D., Ibid., 1926. Member of Creighton faculty for thirty years. At time of his death he was serving as acting dean of the graduate school.

Robert W. Rafuse, professor of political science at Harpur College, S.U.N.Y., died at the age of fifty in Binghamton, N. Y. on October 10, 1957. During the last academic year he had been away for the fall term on sick leave, and had been able to appear on campus but once before his untimely demise.

Although his secondary school training had been much postponed by illness, he graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Colgate University in 1934. Both his A.M. and Ph.D. degrees were received from the University of Illinois. Dr. Rafuse began his teaching career in 1936 as an instructor in political science at Williams College. After teaching in the summer session at North Adams State Teachers College in Massachusetts in 1940-41, he served as assistant professor of political science at Middlebury College until 1947. At Middlebury he established an enviable reputation as a brilliant teacher that is recalled by many now in our profession who were then his students.

At Bucknell University in 1947-48 he was an associate professor and later a visiting lecturer at Bowdoin College, Maine. He joined the Harpur faculty after a period of service as research associate and specialist in government for the Educational Research Foundation at Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Professor Rafuse joined our faculty at the time Harpur was being integrated as a part of the newly established State University. The years following were ones that demanded great efforts in the development of the College and the University. To these he contributed first as chairman of the political science department from 1950-52 and as chairman of the division of the social sciences from 1952-56. He was also a member of the University Senate and greatly instrumental in the organization of that body as the first all-University faculty representative institution.

SEYMOUR Z. MANN

Clyde Eagleton, Research Professor Emeritus of International Law at New York University, died in his sleep on January 30, 1958. He was born in Sherman, Texas in 1891, and received his A.B. and A.M. from Austin College in 1909 and 1911. Another A.M. at Princeton in 1914 and another A.B. in 1917 from Oxford, while a Rhodes Scholar, was followed by a Ph.D. at Columbia in 1928. In 1918 he began his teaching career at the University of Louisville, moved to Southern Methodist University in 1919, and finally to New York University in 1923, where he remained until his retirement in 1956.

He was always active in groups that sought to educate people toward greater understanding of the world in which they live and devoted considerable time and energy to the work of organizations such as the American Society of International Law, the Commission to Study