

Very important books of the Council on Foreign Relations

THE UNITED STATES IN WORLD AFFAIRS 1953

BY RICHARD P. STEBBINS

With an Introduction by Grayson Kirk

• This annual volume, like the preceding volumes, reviews the events of the year in the light of historical fact rather than editorial bias. It is written for the lay reader as well as the expert. With grace, wit — and even more important — with detached scientific analysis, Richard Stebbins records 1953 — one of the most decisive years in our national history. Do you recall, for instance, that 1953 was the year that saw new administrations taking over in both the White House and the Kremlin . . . that it was the year of the Bricker Amendment, the “clean-up” of the State Department and the Foreign Service, the ousting of Mosaddeq, the unofficial attack on the information program? These are only a few of that year’s dramatically important events — ones which bear forcibly upon the history of the world today. $5.00

DOCUMENTS ON AMERICAN FOREIGN RELATIONS 1954

EDITED BY PETER V. CURL

• The latest volume in the famous series presenting outstanding documentary material relating to world relations during 1954. Here, in convenient reference form, are texts of conferences — Berlin, Geneva, London, Paris, Caracas — and statements from world leaders — Churchill, Mendès-France, Nehru, Tito, Eisenhower, Dulles and Chou En-lai. Here are documents covering the settlement of the Suez dispute, the Iranian oil crisis, the American airmen held captive in Communist China, the H-Bomb experiments, the Atoms-for-Peace plan, the St. Lawrence Seaway. Here is the means for every interested reader to keep abreast of the ever-changing, always fascinating picture of America in her relationships with the world. $5.00
