Law & Society Review
BASIC STYLE SHEET

All manuscripts should be typed double-spaced on one side only. Rejected manuscripts cannot ordinarily be returned. While manuscripts need not conform to this style sheet at the time of submission, all manuscripts must include footnotes and a list of references, and all accepted manuscripts must be revised by the author to conform to the style of the Review. The rules listed below supplement the manuscript information on the inside front cover of the Review. Authors are urged to consult recent issues of this journal for further illustrations. A more detailed style sheet is available from the editorial office.

1. CITATIONS: All notes that consist merely of supporting citations should be placed in parentheses in the text. They should follow the statement they support and be in the following style:

(last name of author, year: page number or numbers to which you refer, if any)

EXAMPLE: . . . the opposition in Paris (Rudé, 1967: 167).

2. FOOTNOTES: All footnotes should be numbered sequentially and placed immediately after the text. They should contain only substantive comments and additional references not immediately relevant to the text.

3. REFERENCES: References are to be placed at the end of the manuscript and double spaced. For more than one publication by the same author, list them in reverse chronological order beginning with the most recent. For more than one publication in one year by the same author, use small letters to distinguish them (e.g., 1970a; 1970b).

a. BOOKS: LAST NAME, First name (year) Title of Book. City: Publisher.

EXAMPLE: ARNOLD, Thurman W. (1935) The Symbols of Government. New York: Harcourt, Brace and World.

b. ARTICLES: LAST NAME, First name (year) "Title of article," volume number Journal initial page of article (month and day only if each issue is separately paginated).

EXAMPLE: STERN, Curt (1970) "The Continuity of Genetics," 99 Daedalus 882.

4. TABLES AND FIGURES: Tables should approximate the appearance of printed tables. Figures should be camera ready. Tables and/or figures should be placed at the end of the text, after footnotes and references. Their location within the text should be indicated as follows:

Table 1 about here

5. ABSTRACTS: All articles should include an abstract of between 50 and 100 words.

LAW AND SOCIETY ASSOCIATION

Call for Nominations for 1991 Student Awards

The Law and Society Association is seeking nominations for its Student Awards, which will be presented at the Association's Annual Meeting in Amsterdam, The Netherlands, in June 1991. Awards will be made to the undergraduate and to the graduate or law student whose nominated paper best represents outstanding law and society research. The awards are $250 and, if the winner chooses to attend the meeting, $250 contribution to the costs of attendance. Nominations can be made only by a non-student member of the Law and Society Association through submission of the recommended student paper to the Committee on Student Awards. While the competition is international, nominated papers must be in English.

The subject matter and methodology of the recommended papers should be in the interdisciplinary tradition of law and society research, and should reflect the style of articles that appear in the Law & Society Review. All papers entered in the competition should be written by matriculated students at an institution of higher education between September 1989 and January 1991. Submissions from undergraduate students will be evaluated separately from those of graduate and law students.

For nomination, send 6 copies of the recommended student paper before January 26, 1991 to:

Nancy Reichman
Department of Sociology
University of Denver
University Park
Denver, CO 80208

Papers will be evaluated by the Committee on Student Awards: David Baldus (University of Iowa); John Monahan (University of Virginia); Susan Olson (University of Utah); June Starr (SUNY-Stony Brook); and Nancy Reichman (committee chair).

Courts, Corrections, and the Constitution

The Impact of Judicial Intervention on Prisons and Jails

Edited by JOHN J. DIJULIO, Jr., Princeton University

"Few policy issues are as poorly understood as what goes on inside of our prisons and the role of the courts in public management. Both issues are illuminated with wisdom and clarity in John DiJulio's new edited volume on the courts, corrections, and the Constitution. This collection should not be missed by people who want to be up to date on the most critical challenges of social policy and American government." —Richard P. Nathan, SUNY at Albany

Private Prisons

Cons and Pros

CHARLES H. LOGAN, University of Connecticut, Storrs

In this study, noted criminologist Charles Logan makes the case for commercial operation of prisons and jails as an alternative to the government's monopoly. Considering philosophical, economic, legal, and practical grounds, he critically examines all objections raised by opponents, and concludes that while private prisons face many potential problems, they do so primarily because they are prisons, not because they are private.

Freedom Under Thatcher

Civil Liberties in Modern Britain

K. D. EWING, King's College, University of London, and C. A. GEARTY, Cambridge University

This book examines the changes in the laws on civil liberties that have occurred under the Conservative government, provides a legal analysis of these various changes, and places them in their historical and political context.

Specialized Justice

STEPHEN H. LEGOMSKY, Washington University, St. Louis

Using the workings of the Administrative division of the New Zealand High Court as a case study, Legomsky provides a well-argued explication of a set of general criteria for deciding whether specialized adjudication in specialized tribunals is more appropriate than generalist adjudication in ordinary court.

Discretionary Powers

A Legal Study of Official Discretion

D. J. GALLIGAN, University of Southampton

"A very impressive achievement. Discretionary Powers will become a standard work of reference. It is well written, thorough and scholarly. For too long the area has been bedevilled by simplistic and ideologically motivated analysis. Discretionary Powers lays these to rest, provides a basis for clear thinking about the subject, and gives us a starting point for policy analysis, institutional studies and empirical research." —Public Law

Rites of Execution

Capital Punishment and the Transformation of American Culture, 1776-1865

LOUIS P. MASUR, University of California, Riverside

"If the past can speak to the present, no recent book about nineteenth-century America speaks more clearly than Rites of Execution. . . . [It] is the work of a historian ingenious with sources, rich in imagination and mature in judgment." —The Nation

Why People Obey the Law

Tom R. Tyler

Do we obey the law because we are afraid of punishment, or because we believe that laws and law enforcement agencies are generally legitimate and their actions fair? In this book, a psychologist demonstrates that people comply more with the law if they feel that legal authorities are legitimate.

"The issues Tyler is addressing are very real and important ones, and he brings new and fresh data to the discussion."—Stanton Wheeler $30.00

Divorce Reform at the Crossroads

edited by Stephen Sugarman and Herma Hill Kay foreword by Franklin E. Zimring

In this book a group of prominent law professors—among them Stephen Sugarman, Herma Hill Kay, David L. Chambers, Marsha Garrison, Harry D. Krause, Martha Minow, Robert H. Mnookin, and Deborah L. Rhode—appraise the situation today, explain how we got where we are, and explore legislative options for the future. $28.50

AIDS and the Health Care System

edited by Lawrence O. Gostin

An analysis of the challenges that AIDS presents to our health care workers and institutions, featuring contributions by C. Everett Koop, Anthony Fauci, David Bell, and other prominent authorities in health law, ethics, and clinical research.

"This timely book will have a major impact on society."—Alvin Novick, M.D. A Yale Fastback, new in cloth ($35.00) and paper ($12.95)

The Faces of Injustice

Judith N. Shklar

Drawing on the writings of Plato, St. Augustine, and Montaigne—and on sources as diverse as Rousseau, Dickens, and Doctorow—a distinguished social theorist ponders the nature of personal and political injustice and formulates a new political and moral theory of injustice.

"A wonderfully perceptive and sharply argued meditation on injustice."—Michael Walzer $19.95
The Storrs Lectures on Jurisprudence

Birth Power

The Case for Surrogacy

Carmel Shalev

"A liberal feminist lawyer argues forcibly that women should have the legal right to sell their reproductive services (and the obligation to fulfill their contracts)."—The New York Times Book Review

"This is a book that will provoke passionate response from lawyers and feminists—indeed, from anyone concerned with the social, economic, and legal aspects of reproduction in our age—and should be read for that very reason."

DRUGS AND CRIME

DRUGS AND CRIME

Edited by Michael Tonry and James Q. Wilson

Few believe that a campaign to "Just Say No to Drugs" can really end the crack wars that plague our cities. Just how practical are current drug education and law enforcement programs? Why are some strategies more effective than others? This systematic review of the relationship between drug use and crime analyzes the relative effectiveness of different strategies, such as prevention, treatment, supply reduction, law enforcement, and drug testing. Drawing on the best available scholarly evidence, contributors James Q. Wilson, Mark H. Moore, Mark A. R. Kleiman, Douglas Anglin, Gilbert Botvin, Jan Chaiken, and others, describe the most promising approaches to one of America's worst social problems.
