

SPRING-SUMMER SPECIAL ISSUE

The next two numbers of the Business History Review will be combined in a special issue devoted to the interaction of fashion, business, and business organization. Illustrated articles will consider a variety of topics – the influence on the Japanese wool industry of the introduction of European clothing into Japan; the disruptive effect on Russian planning of a reintroduction of fashion; the influence of fashion on the development of the Scottish damask industry; the relation between sumptuary laws and fashion in seventeenth and eighteenth century Europe; the extent to which fashion tends to impede industrial organization – and will be synthesized by a general interpretive essay on the relations between fashion and business.

The special Fashion Issue will also contain the regular features of the Business History Review such as the Editors' Corner and the Book Review section.

ANNOUNCES TWO

$2,500 FELLOWSHIPS

GIVEN FOR STUDY AND RESEARCH IN THE BUSINESS HISTORY
AND/OR THE ECONOMIC HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES
DURING THE ACADEMIC YEAR

1963-1964

ELIGIBILITY

Applicants must be American citizens and planning to acquire a Ph.D. degree, with either American Economic History or American Business History as the area of major interest. Those who have demonstrated capacity to pursue graduate work successfully for one year will have an advantage over those who are just beginning graduate study. The Fellows will select the university they wish to attend after consultation with the committee of selection. Every applicant should have ambitions at least to teach, if not to engage in research, in his chosen field of study.

SELECTION

The committee to select the Lincoln Educational Foundation Fellows is as follows: James P. Baughman, Harvard Business School; Joe B. Frantz, University of Texas; C. Clyde Jones, Kansas State University; John B. Rae, Harvey Mudd College; A. K. Steigerwalt, University of Michigan; and Ralph W. Hidy, Harvard Business School, chairman.

APPLICATION

Applications for the Fellowships must be submitted not later than March 1, 1963. Inquiries and requests for application blanks should be directed to Ralph W. Hidy, Morgan Hall 304, Graduate School of Business Administration, Harvard University, Soldiers Field, Boston 63, Massachusetts.

SUMMER RESEARCH GRANTS IN BUSINESS HISTORY

The Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration announces the availability of funds to aid archivists, librarians, and researchers interested in investigating topics in economic and business history or in studying the acquisition and handling of archival material, manuscripts, and books in these fields. The School's unique resources in these areas will be available to such persons during the summer of 1963. Members of the Business History Group and the staff of Baker Library will be available for consultation and guidance, but applicants who receive assistance will be free to pursue their projects as they think best. The criterion for awarding financial aid will be primarily the extent to which the use of the School's resources can be expected to advance proposed projects. This decision will be made by a committee of faculty members at the Harvard Business School. The amount of aid will be adjusted to the requirements of the individuals who are selected. Inquiries should be made by April 1, 1963, and may be addressed to Professor Ralph W. Hidy, Morgan 304, Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, Soldiers Field, Boston 63, Massachusetts.
