"This book is a major contribution to our understanding of the origins and development of the multinational corporation... This collection will be of great interest to scholars in economics, economic history, and business and organizations."

— David J. Teece, Mitsubishi Bank
Professor of International Business and Finance, Haas School of Business,
University of California, Berkeley

Leviathans is a path-breaking effort to look at multinational corporations in the round, emphasizing especially their scope, history and development, cultural and social implications, and governance problems. Starting with a primer on MNCs, there are eight chapters devoted to a variety of aspects, including global elites. Written by experts on various elements of the MNCs, the book weaves a coherent and compelling picture of the way these "businesses" affect almost all areas of our existence in society and how they play a major role — political, cultural, and social — in the globalization that is reshaping so much of our lives.

A Culture of Credit

Embedding Trust and Transparency in American Business

Rowena Olegario

"A Culture of Credit is a straightforward, clearly written study of an important and understudied question: how did creditworthiness come to be determined in American mercantile trade? In this fascinating and informative history, Olegario illuminates much that was unknown about the workings of nineteenth-century commercial credit. Even more interestingly, she draws our attention to...the problem of "trust" and "transparency" in business dealings."

The Age of Turbulence

ADVENTURES IN A NEW WORLD

After 9/11, Alan Greenspan realized that we're living in a global capitalist economy that is vastly more flexible, resilient, open and fast changing than it was 20 years ago. The Age of Turbulence is Greenspan's reckoning with the nature of this new world channeled through his own experiences working in the command room of the global economy throughout his more than 18-year tenure as Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. In a magnificent tour de horizon of the global economy, he reveals the universals of economic growth, delves into the specific facts on the ground in each of the major countries and regions of the world, and explains the trend-lines of globalization.

GUIDELINES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

GENERAL INFORMATION

Manuscripts are considered for publication on the understanding that they are not concurrently under consideration elsewhere and that the material—in substance as well as form—has not been previously published.

Three copies of the manuscript should be submitted.

Authors should identify themselves only on a separate title page that provides name, mailing address, and telephone number. Authors must also remember not to identify themselves in the body of the manuscript; specifically, references to their own work in the text should be in the third person, and citations should be written without possessive pronouns—not “See my ....”

Potential contributors should initially submit hard copy, not diskettes, but it will save considerable work for all parties in the event of acceptance if authors follow a few rules from the beginning:

- In general, use as few formatting commands as possible.
- Left justify text.
- Do not hyphenate words at the end of lines.
- ALL material—including extracted quotations and notes—must be double spaced.
- Notes should be numbered consecutively and citations should be placed as footnotes or endnotes formatted as indicated by The Chicago Manual of Style (2003).
- Each table and figure must be accompanied by a complete source.

Each article should be accompanied by an abstract of 75 to 100 words outlining the main point(s) of the paper and placing the article in context. Subheads should be used to divide the manuscript into three or four sections (or more, depending on length). The manuscript length, including footnotes, should not exceed 10,000 words.

We are always eager to publish illustrations, but authors should not include originals of illustrative materials at the time of submission; photocopies of such material may be included. Authors are responsible for obtaining all illustrative materials and permissions for reproduction, and for writing captions.

Authors of accepted manuscripts will receive two copies of the issue in which the article appears and twenty-five offprints.

MANUSCRIPT PREPARATION

We use the 15th edition of The Chicago Manual of Style (2003) and spell and hyphenate words according to the 11th edition of Merriam-Webster's Collegiate Dictionary.

The journal encourages authors to use gender-neutral prose in all cases where it is not anachronistic to do so; male nouns and pronouns should not be used to refer to people of both sexes. We use the day-month-year form for dates, as in 11 Feb. 1998, in the notes, but in the text, dates are written month-day-year, as in February 11, 1998. Double quotation marks should be used for direct quotation; single quotation marks are used for quoted material inside quotations.
