

THE ROAD TO INDEPENDENCE

Ghana and the Ivory Coast

by I. WALLERSTEIN

(Le Monde d'Outre-Mer, Passé et Présent, Série, Etudes, XX)

1964. 222 pp., 18 tables, chart.

Dglds 22.—, US $ 6.25

This work studies the social change that has occurred during the colonial period in two West African States, one under British rule and one under French rule. It traces the changes that colonial administration brings about in the various institutions of the region: the traditional political structures, the economy, the family and religion. It argues that the fundamental colonial situation leads in both territories, despite differences in the form of colonial administration, to similar results, the rise of a nationalist movement which collected the various protests and demands for equality into a single revolutionary movement. The developments in Ghana and the Ivory Coast are traced within a changing world context of change.

The second part of the book describes, with the aid of survey data, the particular role of the emerging network of voluntary associations played in these two countries in these events.

The third section looks at the various elite groups that were involved in the colonial situation and their relation to the rise of nationalism.

THE ROYAL CAPITAL OF BUGANDA

A Study of Internal Conflict and External Ambiguity

by PETER C. W. GUTKIND

With a Foreword by A. I. Richards

(Publications of the Institute of Social Studies, Series Maior, 12)

1963. 350 pp., 9 tables,

Dglds 42.—, US $ 12.00

9 plates, 7 maps. Cloth.

This book lies in the borderland between Sociology, Cultural Anthropology and History. The author describes the African administration of the royal capital of Buganda, a hierarchically organized Bantu-speaking tribe in Uganda, East Africa.

Ample attention is given to the system of land tenure in the capital and to its evolution under modern circumstances.

Dr. Gutkind not only carefully analyses the particular situation of the Buganda capital, but points in a final chapter to its more general implications.

Contents: The External Relations of the Kibuga. – The Internal Administrative Organization of the Kibuga. – Administrative Problems in the Kibuga. – Land Tenure in the Kibuga. – Non-Africans in the Kibuga. – Improvements in the Kibuga: Two Case Studies. – Concluding Observations. – Appendixes.

SURVEY

A JOURNAL OF SOVIET AND EAST EUROPEAN STUDIES

No. 55. April 1965

This issue of SURVEY includes two major essays on Rumania today, one based on a recent visit by Francois Bondy, veteran Western correspondent, the other a comprehensive review of Rumanian literature.

Reminiscences by Professor Philip Mosely and Mr. Joseph Freeman give a lively picture of Moscow in the 1920's and early 1930's; the biographical series begun in No. 53 is continued with essays on Radek, Munzenberg and Bebel, and the autobiographical sketches by Manuel Gomez and Esther Corey. This issue also surveys the state of affairs in the study of geography and ethnography in the USSR, and reviews recent writing on East Germany.

Survey is published quarterly.

The Synopsis Conferences of the International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations (S.I.E.C.C.) are aimed to further the international and interdisciplinary cooperation in the Humanities and Social Sciences.

Leading authorities in all disciplines engaged in the study of Civilization are discussing fundamental and embracing problems of their respective fields every second year.

The first conference of this kind, devoted to "The Problems of Civilizations", was held at Salzburg in Fall 1961 under the presidency of Pitirim A. Sorokin.

This volume of the Proceedings gives an account of the discussions of the conference in which almost all the basic problems of "civilizations" or "Hochkulturen" were seriously touched and carefully examined.

Program of the Conference

The Reality of Civilizations. — The Study of the Civilizations. — Problems of the Meeting of Civilizations. — The Problem of a Universal History. — The Future of Civilizations. — One World: Possible Contributions of the Humanities to A Peaceful Unification of Mankind.

In his Preface for these proceedings Professor Sorokin says a.o.:

"... At the present most critical point of human history a fuller and more valid knowledge of the structural dynamic properties of "civilizations" or "great cultures" has become particularly urgent for the very survival of the human race as well as for continuation of its creative history.

This urgency possibly explains the recent upsurge of the "macro-social" investigations of these vast sociocultural Ganzheiten as well as the establishment of the International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations and its First Synopsis congress devoted to the Basic Problems of Civilizations or Hochkulturen."
