Curing 'the bends'

“Hill and Greenwood decompressed themselves, without any serious symptoms, after short exposures at excess pressures of as much as five and even six atmospheres.”

From 'The Prevention of Compressed Air Illness',
Journal of Hygiene, 1908

This breakthrough article included early research into decompression and the first ever dive tables.

Journal of Policy History

Published through the cooperation of the History Department at Saint Louis University and the Institute for Policy History

Editor

Donald T. Critchlow, Saint Louis University, USA

The Journal of Policy History is an interdisciplinary journal concerned with the application of historical perspectives to public policy studies. While seeking to inform scholars interested in policy history, the journal also seeks to inform policy makers through a historical approach to public policy. Its authors, considering public policy primarily in the United States though also in other nations, focus on policy origins and development through historical inquiry, historical analysis of specific policy areas and policy institutions, explorations of continuities and shifts in policy over time, interdisciplinary research into public policy, and comparative historical approaches to the development of public policy.
