

Notes on the Contributors

Paula Banerjee specializes in issues of conflict and peace in South Asia. She has published extensively on issues of forced displacement, and recently co-edited the book Internal Displacement in South Asia (2004). She has also worked on diplomatic history, particularly on American foreign policy in South Asia, at the University of Cincinnati where she was the recipient of the Taft Fellowship. Her book entitled When Ambitions Clash: Indo-US relations from 1947 to 1974 was published in 2003. She has been working on themes related to women, borders and democracy in South Asia and has published extensively on issues such as histories of borders and women in conflict situations. She is the recipient of a number of international and national awards and grants. Currently, she is teaching at the Department of South and Southeast Asian Studies, University of Calcutta. Address: Calcutta Research Group, FE 390 (GF), Salt Lake City Kolkata 700106, India. [email: paula@mcrg.ac.un]

Marcus Franke is a specialist in the politics of Northeast India. He is currently revising his thesis on the political history of the Naga Hills for Routledge for publication as Nationalism and War in South Asia. As Fellow of the South Asia Institute of the University of Heidelberg he is teaching on state formation, nationalism and war in South Asia at the Politics Department, and German politics to adult learners in a trade union owned institution in Heidelberg. His interests are the overall dynamics of violent state formation in Eurasia and elite perception of this. Address: Handschuhsheimer Landstr. 46, 69121 Heidelberg, Germany. [email: mafranke21@web.de]

Marc Gaborieau is research director emeritus at the CNRS, professor at the École des Hautes Études en Sciences Sociales, Paris and member of the Centre d'Études de l'Inde et de l'Asie du Sud (EHESS/CNRS). He edits the collection Sciences sociales du monde indien (xve–xxie siècle) published by Editions du CNRS, and his research deals with the historical anthropology of the Indo–Pakistan sub-continent's Muslims. He is one of the international editors of the Encyclopaedia of Islam. Address: 48 rue Bobillot, 75013 Paris, France. [email: Marc.Gaborieau@ehess.fr]

Zoya Hasan is Professor at the Centre for Political Studies, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi. Author of Quest for Power: Oppositional Movements and Post-Congress Politics in Uttar Pradesh (1998) and co-author of Unequal Citizens: The Status

Copyright © ICPHS 2006

SAGE: London, Thousand Oaks, CA and New Delhi, <http://dio.sagepub.com>

DOI: 10.1177/0392192106070368

of Muslim Women in India (2004), she edited the volume Parties and Party Politics in India (2002). Address: c/o Diogenes. [email: zoyahasan@vsnl.net]

Olivier Le Cour Grandmaison teaches political science and political philosophy. He directed and led several seminars at the Collège International de Philosophie and has published, most notably, Les citoyennetés en Révolution 1789–1794 (1992), Les étrangers dans la Cité. Expériences européennes (with C. Wihtol de Wenden, preface by M. Rebérioux, 1993), Le 17 octobre 1961: un crime d'État à Paris (several authors, 2001) and Passions et sciences humaines (with C. Gautier, 2002). His most recent books are: Haine(s). Philosophie et Politique (preface by E. Balibar, 2002) and Coloniser. Exterminer. Sur la guerre et l'État colonial (2005). Address: 33 bis rue Henri Barbusse, 75005 Paris. [email: olivier.lecour@wanadoo.fr]

Catherine Darbo-Peschanski CNRS researcher (Centre Louis Gernet) and programme director at the Collège International de Philosophie, Paris. She works on Greek historiography and legal thought. Author of around 50 articles and the books Le discours du particulier (Paris, 1987) and L'histoire des Grecs. Naissance d'une origine (forthcoming), she has also edited the works Constructions du temps dans le monde grec ancien (Paris, 2000) and La citation dans l'Antiquité (Grenoble, 2004). Address: c/o Diogenes. [email: cdarbopeschanski@free.fr]

Mordecai Roshwald born 1921 in Poland, he studied Philosophy, History and Sociology at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem (PhD, 1947). Currently Professor Emeritus, University of Minnesota, he has visiting appointments at universities in Israel, United Kingdom, Canada and Taiwan. Author of The Education of Man (1954, in Hebrew), Humanism in Practice (1955), Moses: Leader, Prophet, Man (with Miriam Roshwald, 1969), The Transient and the Absolute: An Interpretation of the Human Condition and of Human Endeavor (1999), Liberty: Its Meaning and Scope (2000) and The Half Truths by Which We Live (forthcoming). He has also published two volumes of fiction: Level Seven (1959, translations into 14 languages) and A Small Armageddon (1962, 4 translations). Address: 8811 Colesville Road, Apt 502, Silver Spring, MD 20910-4332, USA. [email: roshwald@gmail.com]

Dietmar Rothermund PhD, FRHistS, is Professor Emeritus of South Asian history, South Asia Institute, University of Heidelberg. His publications include: Government, Landlord and Peasant in India (1978), India in the Great Depression (1992), The Global Impact of the Great Depression (1996), (with H. Kulke) A History of India (4th edn 2004) and The Routledge Companion to Decolonization (2006). Address: Oberer Burggarten 2, D-69221 Dossenheim, Germany. [email: Dietmar.Rothermund@t-online.de]

Ranabir Samaddar Director of the Calcutta Research Group, he pioneered along with others peace studies programmes in South Asia. His researches include migration and refugee studies, theory and practices of dialogue, nationalism and post-colonial statehood in South Asia. Recently he published Politics of Dialogue (Ashgate, 2004) and completed a three-volume work on Indian nationalism (Volume 3: A Biography of the Indian Nation, 1947–1997, 2001). His political writings include

Paradoxes of the Nationalist Time (2002) and The Marginal Nation (1999). He is founding-editor of Refugee Watch. Address: Calcutta Research Group, FE 390 (GF), Salt Lake City, Kolkata 700106, India. [email: ranabir@mcrgr.ac.in]

Ujjwal Kumar Singh associate professor in the Department of Political Science at Delhi University, with a PhD from the School of Oriental and African Studies, London University, his research deals with relations between democracy and exceptional laws and penal practices in India. He is the author of Political Prisoners in India (1998, 2001) and many articles in Economic and Political Weekly, Ethnic Studies Report and Indian Journal of Human Rights. In preparation: Democracy and Anti-Terror Law in India, A Study of Pota and Gandhi as a Political Prisoner and Penal Reformer. Address: Department of Political Sciences, Faculty of Social Sciences (Arts Faculty complex), University of Delhi, Delhi-110007, India. [email: singh_roy@rediffmail.com]

Gilles Tarabout CNRS research director (social anthropology) and member of the Centre d'Études de l'Inde et de l'Asie du Sud (EHESS/CNRS), he has been director of the India and South Asia programme at the Fondation Maison des Sciences de l'Homme, Paris from 2002 to 2005. Address: CEIAS, 54 bd Raspail, 75006 Paris, France. [email: gtarabout@free.fr]

Mohammad Waseem Professor of Political Science at LUMS in Lahore, Pakistan, he is the former holder of the Pakistan chair at St Antony's College, Oxford (1995–9). His research concerns ethnic, Islamic, constitutional and electoral policies in Pakistan. Author of Politics and the State in Pakistan (1989), The 1993 Elections in Pakistan (1994) and Strengthening Democracy in Pakistan (with S. J. Burki, 2002), and he edited the volume Electoral Reform in Pakistan (2002). Address: School of Humanities and Social Sciences, LUMS, DHA, Lahore Cantt. Pakistan. [email: waseem1007@hotmail.com]