Notes on Contributors

Hans-Johann Glock
> Hans-Johann Glock is Professor of Philosophy at the University of Zürich. His interests include the philosophy of language, the philosophy of mind, Wittgenstein, and the history of analytic philosophy. He is the author of What is Analytic Philsophy? (2007), Quine and Davidson on Language, Thought and Reality (2003), and 'Does Ontology Exist?' (Philosophy 77, 2002).

David Carr
> David Carr is Professor of Philosophy of Education in the University of Edinburgh. He is author and editor of numerous papers and books on philosophy and the philosophy of education. He has previously published articles in Philosophy on Freud and sexual ethics (1987) and on virtue, character and choice (2003).

René van Woudenberg
> René van Woudenberg is a professor in the Philosophy Department of VU University Amsterdam. He is the editor of the Cambridge Companion to Thomas Reid, has published a number of books in Dutch in metaphysics, epistemology and the philosophy of language, and is currently completing an English book manuscript on responsible belief.

Samuel Clark
> Samuel Clark is Lecturer in Philosophy at Lancaster University, and the author of Living Without Domination (Ashgate, 2007).

Michael Hauskeller
> Michael Hauskeller is an associate professor in philosophy at the University of Exeter. He is the author of numerous articles on moral philosophy and aesthetics, and Biotechnology and the Integrity of Life: Taking Public Fears Seriously (Ashgate, 2007).

Bob Plant
> Bob Plant has been Lecturer in Philosophy at the University of Aberdeen since 2005. He has published on Wittgenstein, Reid, Levinas, Derrida and Foucault.

Notes on Contributors

Laurence Goldstein

Laurence Goldstein is Head of the School of Culture and Languages, University of Kent. Among his writings previously published in this journal is a play, 'Wittgenstein's Ph.D. Viva – A Re-Creation', Philosophy 74 (1999).