SHAPING INTERNATIONAL LAW IN TRANSFORMATIVE TIMES

GW Law has a vibrant international and comparative law (ICL) program, which offers over 50 specialized courses and enrolls students from more than 40 countries around the world.

Our faculty have presided over the American Society of International Law, and served as commissioners and judges of international commissions and courts. Our students have clerked for the Court of Justice of the European Union and have been fellows for the International Court of Justice.

At GW Law, our students obtain solid training on international legal theory and doctrine and learn how to put their knowledge to practical use.

For more information about the ICL program and multiple concentrations offered, visit <https://www.law.gwu.edu/international-comparative-law>.

International Law at Iowa

For the past 40 years, Iowa Law has had an International and Comparative Law Program. We offer the Advanced Standing JD, LLM, SJD, as well as the traditional three-year JD. In any given year, nearly ten percent of our students are from outside the United States, and we host numerous international scholars for the semester or the year. Our library, one of the largest in an American law school, has over 1.4 million titles and continues to grow. Nearly one-third of our faculty are involved in the field of International and Comparative Law.
