

The University of Chicago Press congratulates
MICHAEL MURRIN
on his recent awards for his book Trade and Romance

2015 Richard H. Bainton Prize in Literature, Sixteenth Century Society

“The scrupulous research evident on every page of this exceptionally well-presented study, coupled with the far-reaching breadth and careful attention to detail, distinguishes Trade and Romance as this year’s winner of the Bainton Book Prize for Literature. The lucid prose style and inviting layout of this book make it a welcome addition to any sixteenth century scholar’s bookshelf—as well as ideal for classroom use.”—Bainton Prize Committee

2015 Rene Wellek Prize, American Comparative Literature Association

“Immensely erudite, wildly ambitious, and written with great charm, Trade and Romance makes an unforgettable contribution to comparative literature, literary history, and the history of ideas.”—Awards Citation, American Comparative Literature Association
