

The North American Conference on British Studies

The Journal of British Studies, founded in 1961, is published by the University of Chicago Press under the auspices of the North American Conference on British Studies (NACBS). It was the result of the imaginative generosity of a Trinity College alumnus, Frederick E. Hasler (Hon. LL.D. 1957), who contributed funds to the college for the specific purpose of establishing a learned periodical in the field of British history.

The North American Conference on British Studies is a scholarly society affiliated with the American Historical Association and open to anyone in the United States and Canada interested in British civilization in its several aspects: historical, archaeological, literary, artistic, political, and sociological. Its North American constituency comprises about eight hundred members drawn from the fifty states and ten provinces. Affiliated with the parent organization are seven regional conferences (Northeastern, Middle Atlantic, South, Midwest, Western, Pacific Coast, and Northwest), each having its own officers and programs and with a combined membership of more than two thousand. The Conference convenes at least once a year in the autumn, usually in joint session with one of its regional affiliates. It seeks to encourage the serious study of British history, literature, and politics, as well as allied subjects, and among the general reading public through meetings, book prizes, and association with like-minded organizations in North America and Britain and through its publication program.

The Conference sponsors a wide variety of publications. Another journal, Albion, issued four times a year at Appalachian State University, Boone, North Carolina, and sent to all members of the parent organization, includes articles, proceedings of all meetings, and book reviews. The Conference's newsletter, the British Studies Intelligencer, also sent to members, is published at the University of Arizona and contains notices of meetings devoted to British studies, news of appointments, moves, and retirements and notes on current publications and research in progress. Other publications appear periodically and will be noted at such times.

Information about membership in the NACBS can be found on the copyright page of this journal.

Reformation and Rebellion in an English Village

Eamon Duffy

In this delightful book we see—through vividly detailed parish records kept from 1520 to 1574 by Sir Christopher Trychay, the garrulous priest of Morebath—how a tiny Catholic community rebelled, was punished, and reluctantly accepted Protestantism under the demands of the Elizabethan state. 26 b/w + 16 color illus. $22.50

RECONCILING SCIENCE AND RELIGION

The Debate in Early-Twentieth-Century Britain

Peter J. Bowler

"A fascinating and detailed account of the interaction between science and religion in Britain in the first half of the twentieth century. Peter Bowler's book will be of great interest to all those concerned with the historical approach to these complex interdisciplinary questions."—Rev. John Polkinghorne, author of Belief in God in an Age of Science

CLOTH $40.00

SIGNIFYING GOD

Social Relation and Symbolic Act in the York Corpus Christi Plays

Sarah Beckwith

"Sarah Beckwith has found in religious drama—the York Corpus Christi plays—the essence of social relations in a sacramental universe. The worlds of Chaucer, Margery Kempe, and Shakespeare are explored through dramatic acts which were tokens of love and belonging. . . . Her writing is inspired and inspiring; her answers, crafted with imagination and intellectual fervor, illuminating to those interested in religion, community, and the materiality of hope and belief."—Miri Rubin, author of Corpus Christi: The Eucharist in Late Medieval Culture

CLOTH $35.00

GENDER AND HEROISM IN EARLY MODERN ENGLISH LITERATURE

Mary Beth Rose

"This is an important work that makes arresting claims about the changing nature of heroism in the seventeenth century. Rose brings together an unusual assemblage of primary texts, in effect altering the canon of works through which heroism is defined and understood. Anyone interested in gender and the cultural history of early modern England will find this book essential reading."—Jean E. Howard, Columbia University

WAINWRIGHT THE POISONER

The Confessions of Thomas Griffiths Wainwright
Andrew Motion

A painter, writer, and friend of Blake, Byron, and Keats, Wainwright was almost certainly a murderer. When he died in a penal colony in Tasmania, he left behind fragments of documents and a beguiling legend which Motion uses to create an imagined confession laced with facts.

“Brilliantly innovative, gripping, intricately researched, Motion’s biography does justice to its subject at last.”

ISAIAH BERLIN

A Celebration

Edited by Edna Ullmann-Margalit
and Avishai Margalit

“One of the many merits of this rich and rewarding collection is the sense—very imperfectly conveyed here—it transmits of the tone of Berlin’s writings and conversation, of the multiplicity of his interests and the variety of his achievements. . . . The essays testify to the character of Berlin’s mind as a luminous prism, in which the cultural traditions of Russia, England and Judaism are marvelously refracted.”—John Gray, Times Literary Supplement

TO TRY HER FORTUNE IN LONDON

Australian Women, Colonialism, and Modernity

Angela Woollacott
Between 1870 and 1940, tens of thousands of Australian women were drawn to London, their imperial metropolis and the center of the publishing, art, musical, theatrical, and educational worlds. Even more Australian women than men made the pilgrimage "home," seeking opportunities beyond those available to them in the Australian colonies or dominion.
