

THE BEST IN LAW

The United Nations and International Law

Christopher C. Joyner, Editor

This volume provides students and scholars with a text that appraises the contribution made by the United Nations to contemporary international law and the law-creating process. Covering a wide range of UN activity, this book represents a comprehensive guide to the role of the UN in providing viable legal rules to deal with international problems.

East Timor and the International Community

Basic Documents

Heike Krieger, Editor

This book reproduces the basic materials relating to the historical background of East Timor, to the circumstances of the Indonesian invasion and subsequent incorporation of East Timor, to the development of the dispute in the light of the international community's response to it, and, finally, to the 1995 judgment of the International Court of Justice in the case concerning East Timor between Portugal and Australia.

Procedure at International Conferences

A Study of the Rules of Procedure of International Inter-Governmental Conferences

Robbie Sabel

This book is a study of the rules of procedure of international inter-governmental conferences. It will be invaluable to any representative attending an international conference or an assembly of an international organization. It provides, for the first time, a practical manual with examples and precedents of how conferences apply rules of procedure. For the academic the book is of particular interest as it examines whether a new branch of customary international law has developed.

The Abolition of the Death Penalty in International Law

Second Edition

William A. Schabas

Extensively revised to take account of developments in the field since its original publication in 1993, this book details the progress of the international community away from the use of capital punishment, discussing in detail the institution of the death penalty in international humanitarian law, European human rights law, and inter-American human rights law.

Governing the Antarctic

The Effectiveness and Legitimacy of the Antarctic Treaty System

Olav Schram Stokke

and Davor Vidas, Editors

This is a book about international cooperation in the Antarctic, written by political scientists and international lawyers. It examines whether the Antarctic Treaty System succeeds in helping solve major problems in the region and investigates its position in the wider international community. Areas covered include fisheries, the environment, tourism, mineral activities, the role of NGOs in Antarctic affairs, and the policy of neighboring countries towards the Antarctic.

Important International Law Titles from...

COMPATIBILITY OF INTERNATIONAL AND NATIONAL ENVIRONMENTAL LAW

by Jonas Ebbesson

While environmental concerns have become more and more international in scope during the 20th century, the implementation of international environmental agreements basically remains a matter for national means. This thesis deals with the linkage and compatibility of international and national environmental law. It analyses how and to what extent international environmental law, primarily through various types of treaty obligations, limits the discretion of states in their national implementation.

HUMAN RIGHTS LAW IN AFRICA 1996

edited by Christof Heyns

Everyone who has tried to do systematic research on human rights law in Africa will know how difficult it is to find sources. The unfortunate consequence of this state of affairs is that it is almost impossible for an indigenous African human rights jurisprudence to develop. The Human Rights Law in Africa Series, of which this is the first volume, is aimed at helping to solve this problem. The Series will appear annually and give an overview of the current state of human rights law on the continent, on the UN, regional and national levels. The first volume in this Series contains an exposition of the status of UN human rights treaties in Africa, a reprint of the African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights and the human rights provisions of the constitutions of all African countries.

TERRITORIAL ACQUISITION, DISPUTES & INTERNATIONAL LAW

by Surya P. Sharma

This book analyses the traditional criteria of territorial acquisition and demonstrates their inadequacies in the modern context. It also addresses contemporary territorial doctrines and conflicts. It regards territorial acquisition as a comprehensive process involving various considerations leading to the establishment or transfer of exclusive control over territory. The author provides an analysis of the claims and counter-claims in major contemporary territorial disputes and suggests appropriate legal perspectives bearing upon decision-making in regard to them.

EFFICACY AND EFFICIENCY IN MULTILATERAL POLICY FORMATION:

The Experience of Three Arms Control
Negotiations: Geneva, Stockholm, Vienna

by R. T. Jurrjens & J. Sizoo

This work examines three important case-studies of international conference diplomacy concerning military security, as presented at the semi-universal Geneva negotiations on the Chemical Weapons Convention (1992), the regional Stockholm conference on Confidence- and Security-Building Measures (CSBMs, 1986) and the Vienna talks between East and West on Mutual and Balanced Force Reductions (MBFR, 1989). The authors describe in detail the course and results of these conferences, and make a comparison of the negotiating processes before and after the abolition of the Warsaw Treaty Organization.

THE PALESTINE YEARBOOK OF INTERNATIONAL LAW 1995

edited by Anis F. Kassim

This is the eighth volume of the well established Palestine Yearbook of International Law, which, from this volume onwards, will be published by Kluwer Law International. This Yearbook has become widely respected as a prime reference source of legal material relating to Palestinian issues and is an important forum for the international legal community, particularly for legal practitioners, researchers and scholars. In addition to leading articles on topical problems and issues, it also contains key legislation, court decisions and other relevant legal material translated from the original Arabic or Hebrew into English.

INTERNATIONAL LAW FOR ANTARCTICA: SECOND EDITION

edited by F. Francioni & T. Scovazzi

This volume is the result of an ongoing research project on the Antarctic regime being carried out in various Italian universities and open to the participation of scholars and experts from different countries. Two concomitant factors led to the undertaking of the project: the increasing interest aroused by Antarctica in the scientific community, and the dynamic evolution of the Antarctic question in international law and politics.

INTERNATIONAL LAW AS A LANGUAGE FOR INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

edited by United Nations

The UN held a Congress on Public International Law in 1995 under the general theme 'Towards the Twenty-first Century: International Law as a Language for International Relations'. The purpose of the Congress was to assist the international community, and in particular the legal profession, to meet the challenges and expectations of the present-day world. Views were expressed, and exchanged, on the codification, progressive development and implementation of public international law, both in theory and in practice, as well as on its teaching and dissemination.

WHO IS A REFUGEE?

A Comparative Case Law Study

edited by J.Y. Carlier, D. Vanbeule, K. Hullmann & C.P. Galiano

This book provides a comparative study of refugee case law in Europe and North America. Nearly 5,000 decisions were recorded and 1,500 have been considered in the national reports. This descriptive work is followed by a more analytical part, offering a new way to interpret the definition of a refugee based on three elements: Risk, Persecution and Proof (R.P.P.)
