In this study Jürgen Becker presents a new, historically grounded explanation of the phrases "kingdom of God" and "God's reign" — the central terms of Jesus' proclamation. The author, a professor of the New Testament, draws on an impressive range of sources to trace Jesus' special position within early Judaism. At the same time, he retains his focus on Jesus' ministry, viewed as the beginning of the history of early Christianity. The proclamation of the kingdom is thus seen by Becker as the founding moment of a distinct community of faith.

From reviews of the German Edition:

"Jürgen Becker, who has already put us in his debt with an excellent book on Paul, now offers one on Jesus.... This is a book which will be of great help to students and to ministers and others who wish to refresh their scholarship and grasp what is being written today about Jesus."

— Ernest Best, Expository Times (Edinburgh)

"This fresh, independent, wide-sweeping study of the historical Jesus... not only is worthy of immediate translation but also merits careful and continuous dialogue....[Becker] offers penetrating insights of all sorts: methodological, critical, historical, and theological."
