“A seductive history of American spirituality that argues that the roots of today’s spirituality vogue run deeper than the guru-gazing of the counterculture.”

— Wall Street Journal

“A valuable handbook for those who want to understand the sources of American spirituality, as well as for modern-day seekers looking for guidance and historical perspective.”

— Washington Post

Call for Contributors

Blackwell Publishers (Boston and Oxford) has begun work on a three-volume Encyclopedia of Christian Civilization to be published in 2008. It will be a magisterial study of the evolution of Christianity and the Christian Church over the course of the last two millennia. With 900 entries and close to 1 million words it will be one of the largest encyclopedias defining Christian faith, legacy, experience and culture. It will encompass all confessional traditions, and all chronological periods, countries and regions. The encyclopedia will be shepherded by a distinguished five-member editorial advisory board and edited by George Thomas Kurian, coeditor of the World Christian Encyclopedia (Oxford University Press) and editor of The Dictionary of Christianity (Thomas Nelson).

The Encyclopedia of Christian Civilization will explore the great contributions that Christianity and Christian ideas have made especially in the areas of theology, calendar, law, society, language and literacy, literature, art, science, music, architecture, human rights, worship, spirituality, rights of women, charity, education, politics, medicine and philosophy. In addition to nearly 100 core articles of 4,000 words each, the encyclopedia will include biographies, history, interpretive essays, and articles on confessional and denominational Christianity. The encyclopedia will examine the sources of Christian culture and civilization, the depth of its historic influence, and the reasons for its enduring strength.

We are seeking Christian scholars to write entries for the encyclopedia, advance Christian scholarship and reach a broad global audience. Entries will include bylines and contributors will be profiled in a biographical section. Those who desire to participate in the project should write to gkurian@aol.com for more information and a full prospectus and schematic of the work listing the entries that are open.

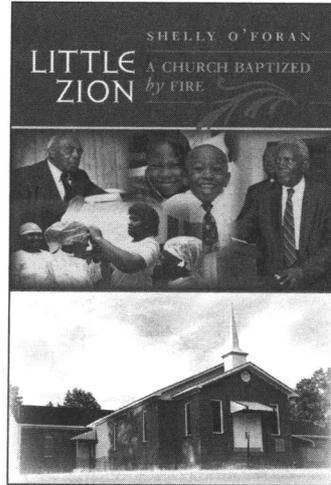

A Nation of Religions

The Politics of Pluralism in Multireligious America

STEPHEN PROTHERO,
EDITOR

This book explores U.S. religious diversity by focusing on how four recently arrived religious communities—Muslims, Buddhists, Hindus, and Sikhs—are shaping and, in turn, are shaped by American values. The contributors consider the notion of a nation of religions not as a proposition to be proved but as the truism it has become. The resulting conversation makes an important contribution to the intensifying public debate about the appropriate role of religion in American politics and society.

Little Zion

A Church Baptized by Fire

SHELLY O'FORAN

Inherited traditions help keep a faith community alive.

"Movingly tells 'the half that has never been told,' effectively documenting the life, significance, and impact of a small rural antebellum church from the perspective of the African American church members."—Daryl Cumber Dance, author of Shuckin' and Jivin'

"Weav[es] together oral testimony with written history, personal narratives with the larger struggle for civil rights, local memory with national media coverage, and the burning of one black church with a scourge of similar church burnings. The story starts with tragedy but ends with triumph and hope."—Patrick B. Mullen, Emeritus, Ohio State University

SAINTS AND THEIR CULTS

IN THE ATLANTIC WORLD

Edited by Margaret Cormack

“This fascinating collection explores the cult of saints across the Atlantic world from the earliest days of Spanish exploration to the present day. In addition to offering a variety of different vantage points, the book presents an interplay of themes and arguments that brings the essays together in a cohesive way. The book advances our understanding of Christianity in the Atlantic world by showing how give-and-take between church and parishioners contributed to the empowerment of both elite and popular groups.”

Florida State University, and author of Healing in the History of Christianity

Awards of the American Society of Church History:

The Frank S. and Elizabeth D. Brewer Prize, offered annually, is a subvention fund of $1,000 to assist a press in publishing a book-length manuscript in church history. The prize is limited to first books. The monetary grant will be made upon receipt of a commitment in writing from a publisher accepting the manuscript. Entries in their final form must be received by 1 November.

The Albert C. Outler Prize is an award in the amount of $1,000 to the author of the best book published in the two previous calendar years in ecumenical church history. "Ecumenical" is to be construed as concerned chiefly with problems of Christian unity and disunity (doctrinal, cultural, institutional) or with interactions between Christianity and other religious movements in any historical period. Authors of eligible books or any member of the Society may nominate titles for consideration; authors should submit a copy of the book. Nominations must be received by 1 March in even-numbered years.

The Philip Schaff Prize is an award in the amount of $1,000 to the author of the best book published in the two previous calendar years, originating in the North American scholarly community and presenting original research on any period in the history of Christianity. Authors of eligible books or any member of the Society may nominate titles for consideration; authors should submit a copy of the book. Nominations must be received by 1 March in odd-numbered years.

The Jane Dempsey Douglass Prize is an annual award in the amount of $250 for the author of the best essay published during the previous calendar year on any aspect of the role of women in the history of Christianity. Authors of eligible articles and any member of the Society may nominate titles for consideration. Nominations, accompanied if possible by a copy of the article, must be received by 1 August.

The Sidney E. Mead Prize, offered annually, is an award in the amount of $250 for the author of the best unpublished essay in any field of church history written by a doctoral candidate or recent graduate whose manuscript stems directly from doctoral research. The manuscript will be published in Church History. Entries of no more than twenty-five double-spaced pages, including double-spaced endnotes, must be submitted by 1 July.

A work may be submitted for only one ASCH competition. For more information, or to nominate a book or submit a manuscript, write to the American Society of Church History, Yale University Divinity School, 409 Prospect St., Box 473, New Haven, CT 06511.

Send manuscripts, books for review, and requests about advertising to the editorial office. Manuscripts should run 6,000–11,000 words (or approximately 20–35 pages), not including endnotes, and should be printed double-spaced in 11- or 12-point font; endnotes must be printed double-spaced on separate pages following the text. The editors request (1) three copies of the manuscript (in order to protect the author's anonymity during the review process, the author's name should appear only on the title page of the essay); (2) three copies of a 200-word abstract (if Church History publishes the essay, the abstract may be printed above the first line of the text of the article and/or it may be included on the Church History web page at www.churchhistory.org); (3) an electronic submission of both the manuscript and abstract as an email attachment in Word, WordPerfect, or Rich-Text format (instead of an email attachment, you may submit your manuscript and abstract on a 3½ inch diskette). Please see http://www.churchhistory.org/churchhistory_guidelines.html for further manuscript submission guidelines. The editors will consider submissions of 70–90 pages for publication as "extended articles." Persons wishing to submit such manuscripts should query before sending them.

Church History is printed by Cadmus Professional Communications, Lancaster, Pennsylvania. Periodicals postage paid at New Haven, Connecticut and additional mailing offices. Postmaster: Send address changes to American Society of Church History, Yale University Divinity School, 409 Prospect St., Box 473, New Haven, CT 06511.
