Revenue and Reform

The Indian Problem in British Politics, 1757–1773

H. V. Bowen

This book offers a reappraisal of British imperial politics in the third quarter of the eighteenth century. During this period, politicians struggled to come to terms with the East India Company's unexpected acquisition of territory and great wealth in Bengal, and they endeavored to formulate policy related to many new and unfamiliar issues. New light is shed on debate about revenue collection, territorial rights, diplomacy, justice, and administrative reform.

Prosecution and Punishment Petty Crime and the Law in London and Rural Middlesex, c. 1660–1725

This study attempts to analyze the content of the meetings in detail and to discover how far and in what manner the aims of the Society were fulfilled in the seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries.
