

Phonology and Syntax:

The Relation Between Sound and Structure

ELISABETH O. SELKIRK

The first to address the question of the relation between syntax and phonology in a systematic way.

Current Studies in Linguistics £39.25 Cloth 424pp 0-262-19226-8

Biological Perspectives on Language

Edited by DAVID CAPLAN, ANDRÉ ROCH LECOURS
& ALLAN SMITH

These original contributions bring a number of different views to bear on important issues in a controversial area of study.

Studies in Neuropsychology and Neurolinguistics

£44.75 Cloth 432pp 0-262-03101-9

Language Sound Structure

Edited by MARK ARONOFF & RICHARD OEHRLE

These eighteen original essays, ranging from poetry to phonetics, share the common method of formal phonological analysis which reflects the work of Morris Halle, Professor of Linguistics at MIT.

£39.25 Cloth 360pp 0-262-01074-7

Logical Form in Natural Language

WILLIAM G. LYCAN

In this book, a well-known and highly respected philosopher details the complicated anatomy of linguistic meaning, showing how its elements fit together.

A Bradford Book £30.75 Cloth 360pp 0-262-12108-5

Structured Meanings:

The Semantics of Propositional Attitudes

M. J. CRESSWELL

This book is the result of years of work on propositional attitudes, the hardest problem in semantics.

A Bradford Book £22.25 Cloth 216pp 0-262-03108-6

Mental Spaces:

Aspects of Meaning Construction in Natural Language

GILLES FAUCONNIER

This book offers a highly original, integrated treatment of issues that play a central role in linguistic semantics, philosophy of language and cognitive approaches to meaning.

A Bradford Book c.£25.95 Cloth 184pp 0-262-06094-9

A Grammar of Anaphora

JOSEPH AOUN

This book's theoretical and empirical investigation of the notions of anaphora and of binding in syntax should define the directions of research in this field for the next decade.

Children's Reading Problems

Psychology and Education

PETER BRYANT and LYNETTE BRADLEY

---

This book provides the first clear evidence of those mental procedures which are important in the early, often pre-school stages of learning to read. One of the most striking parts of this lucid, controversial and brilliant book shows that specific training methods can be applied before children have learnt to read which will considerably improve their later reading ability.

208 pages, hardback £16.50 (0 631 13682 7)

paperback £5.95 (0 631 13683 5)

Children's Conversation

MICHAEL McTEAR

---

One of the most rapidly developing areas of child language research has been the study of children's conversational skills, which is now seen as of equal importance to the acquisition of phonology, syntax and semantics. This book examines in detail what children have to learn to become mature conversationalists.

304 pages, hardback £25.00 (0 631 13984 2)

paperback £8.95 (0 631 14249 5)

A Child's Learning of English

PAUL FLETCHER

---

This book provides an account of how a child learns and uses English between the ages of two and seven. Its emphasis is not on the competing theories of language acquisition; rather, it describes and discusses changes in the child's linguistic ability as he grows up.

256 pages, hardback £22.50 (0 631 14281 9)

paperback £7.95 (0 631 14282 7)

Language, Society and Identity

JOHN EDWARDS

An important strand in the development of sociolinguistics has been the interest shown in the relationship between language and social structure. Here John Edwards discusses the inter-connections between an individual's use of language and his or her membership of cultural or national groups.

256 pages, hardback £22.50 (0 631 14232 0)

paperback £7.95 (0 631 14233 9)

---

The Artificial Language Movement

J. ANDREW LARGE

---

This is an examination of the historical development and role of artificial languages from the seventeenth century to the contemporary world. It includes, in particular, an analysis of the most successful constructed language – Esperanto – and considers its major rivals, whilst also analysing why no constructed language has yet been fully adopted.

A Dictionary of Linguistics and Phonetics

Second Edition

DAVID CRYSTAL

---

'What we have here are definitions and explanations covering the main areas of twentieth-century linguistic thought, presented in language as clear and elegant as one could hope for . . . Probably the work's outstanding quality – certainly the one most useful to its readers – is its resolute fair-mindedness.' Times Literary Supplement (reviewing the first edition)

Generalized Phrase Structure Grammar

GERALD GAZDAR, EWAN KLEIN, GEOFFREY PULLUM and IVAN SAG

---

This keenly awaited book sets out in full for the first time what is perhaps the most promising and productive new approach to syntactic theory, the linguistic framework known as Generalized Phrase Structure Grammar. It presents and illustrates this by applying it to English syntax in some detail.

288 pages, hardback £25.00 (0 631 13206 6)

paperback £8.50 (0 631 13459 X)

Discourse Semantics

PIETER A.M. SEUREN

---

This book makes a major advance in semantic theory by showing that the meanings of sentences are determined not only by their truth conditions but also by their conditions for use in coherent discourse.

560 pages, £29.50 (0 631 13594 1)

Tense and Aspect Systems

ÖSTEN DAHL

---

The topics of tense and aspect have been at the centre of much recent work in linguistics. This book represents a substantial contribution to the field in identifying universal patterns in the verb systems of the world's languages.

240 pages, £19.50 (0 631 14114 6)

Comparison and Universal Grammar

LEON STASSEN

This book investigates the ways in which the concept of comparison is expressed in the languages of the world. Based on a survey of 110 languages, it proposes a typology of comparative constructions. It argues that these are not unique types of construction but derive from those that express simultaneous events.

Tense

BERNARD COMRIE

Bernard Comrie defines tense as the grammaticalisation of location in time. In this textbook he introduces readers to the range of variation found in tense systems across the languages of the world, bringing together a rich collection of illustrative material that student and specialist alike will find invaluable.

Syntactic Chains

KENNETH J. SAFIR

The theory of Government and Binding, developed by Noam Chomsky and his associates, is probably the most striking and promising development in theoretical syntax in the last few years. In this book Kenneth Safir refines and extends this framework by re-examining the primitive syntactic relations – the means by which all syntactic relationships and interdependencies are defined and expressed with Universal Grammar.

Metrical Phonology and Phonological Structure

German and English

HEINZ J. GIEGERICH

Heinz Giegerich explores the theoretical foundations of 'metrical phonology' and in so doing shows that the current model can be significantly simplified. He also applies the model to a wide range of German and English data and in particular provides a detailed account of the stress patterns of German words – native and non-native, morphologically simple and complex.

Young People's Dyirbal

An Example of Language Death from Australia

ANNETTE SCHMIDT

In 1972 under thirty speakers of Dyirbal remained. Now only some of their children and grandchildren use the language, and these younger people speak a simplified version. Annette Schmidt analyses the changes that have taken place in Dyirbal at the levels of phonology, morphology, syntax, the lexicon and semantics, and provides a detailed account of the sociolinguistic setting of the community.

A new series

STUDIES IN NATURAL LANGUAGE PROCESSING

General Editor: ARAVIND K. JOSHI

This new series will publish monographs, texts, and edited volumes within the interdisciplinary field of computational linguistics. Sponsored by the Association for Computational Linguistics, the series will represent the range of topics of concern to the scholars working in this increasingly important field, whether their background is in formal linguistics, psycholinguistics, cognitive psychology or artificial intelligence. The first three titles are announced here.

Natural Language Parsing

Psychological, Computational, and Theoretical Perspectives

Edited by DAVID R. DOWTY, ARNOLD ZWICKY
and LAURI KARTTUNEN

A collection of new papers by leading researchers on natural language parsing. The volume includes some papers applying the results of experimental psychological studies of parsing to linguistic theory, others which present computational models of parsing, and a mathematical linguistics paper on tree-adjointing grammars and parsing. £40.00 net

Planning English Sentences

DOUGLAS E. APPELT

An ambitious and significant contribution to research on language generation in artificial intelligence. Dr Appelt develops a formal representation of the effects of illocutionary acts and the speaker's beliefs about the hearer's knowledge of the world. The theory is embodied and illustrated in a computer system, KAMP (Knowledge and Modalities Planner) described in the book. £22.50 net

Text Generation

Using Discourse Strategies and Focus Constraints to Generate Natural Language Text

KATHLEEN R. McKEOWN

This book is concerned with the machine-based generation of natural language text. Kathleen McKeown's main concern is to identify and formalise principles of discourse so that they can be used in a computational process. The text generation theory which she describes has been embodied in a computer program, TEXT, and an Appendix to the book provides examples of this system in operation. £22.50 net

ANNOUNCING TWO NEW JOURNALS FROM EDWARD ARNOLD

Second Language Research

Editors J N PANKHURST and M A SHARWOOD,
University of Utrecht.

Second Language Research is the first international journal to be concerned exclusively with the theoretical aspects of second language research acquisition. As well as providing a forum for investigators in the field of non-native language learning, it seeks to promote interdisciplinary research which links acquisition studies to neighbouring theoretical and experimental disciplines.

Frequency. The journal is published twice a year.
Subscription. World (excl. USA & Canada) £25.00 institutional. £16.50 individual. Inclusive of surface mail. Payment in any currency will be accepted at the current rate of exchange.
USA & Canada. US $42 institutional. US $30 individual. Single issues US $25. Inclusive of air freight service to New York.

Language Testing

Editors A HUGHES and D PORTER,
Department of Linguistic Science, University of Reading.

Language Testing provides a forum for the exchange of ideas and information between people working in the fields of first and second language testing and assessment. These will include researchers and practitioners in English as a Foreign Language/English as a Second Language testing, mother tongue testing, and assessment in child language acquisition and language pathology.

Frequency. The journal is published twice a year.
Subscription. World (excl. USA & Canada) £25.00 institutional. £16.50 individual. Inclusive of surface mail. Payment in any currency will be accepted at the current rate of exchange.

Point of View in the Cinema

A Theory of Narration and Subjectivity in Classical Film

1984. 14.8 x 22.8 cm. XVI, 246 pages.

Hardback DM 138,-; approx. £39.20 ISBN 90 279 3079 1

(Approaches to Semiotics 66)

Drawing extensively on literary as well as film theory and utilizing examples from 250 films, the author criticizes the traditional distinction between telling and showing, proposes a new functional definition of the 'camera', and develops a paradigm which generates all of the types of character narration in classical film while specifying their interrelationship and material form. The emphasis is on a spectator's discovery and use of levels of narration in understanding the movement of space in film.

Hardback DM 125,-; approx. £35.40 ISBN 3 11 009814 8
(Approaches to Semiotics 69)

This monograph is an attempt to relate architectural theory to contemporary views of culture and the cosmos as expressed by modern physicists, biologists, and social scientists. This theory challenges the idea that creative acts of design and architecture are based neither on the objective and rational or the subjective and emotional.

1984. 14.8 x 22.8 cm. VIII, 240 pages.
Hardback DM 94,-; approx. £26.60 ISBN 3 11 009720 6

A study of formal and nontransformational grammar based on the theory of X-bar syntax, and a comparison of this theory with the standard theory of transformational grammar with regard to both descriptive and explanatory adequacy.

William Bright

American Indian Linguistics and Literature

1984. 14.8 x 22.8 cm. XII, 159 pages.
Hardback DM 68,-; approx. £19.30 ISBN 3 11 009846 6

Collection of papers on various aspects of native American languages and traditional (oral) literatures. The longest paper is a survey of the genetic classification of the languages of North America and Meso-America. The papers on traditional literatures represent explorations in the "ethno-poetic" study of narrative text, and deal particularly with texts from the Karik tribe of North-Western California.

Language of Inequality

Edited by Nessa Wolfson and Joan Manes

1985. 14.8 x 22.8 cm. XVI, 411 pages.

Hardback DM 52,-; approx. £14.70 ISBN 3 11 009867 9
(Trends in Linguistics. Studies and Monographs 26)

"Linguistic Minorities and Literacy" is a collection of articles devoted to problems of minority languages and their speakers. Of special concern are unwritten minority languages and the prospects of their development in a rapidly modernizing world where literacy is becoming increasingly important for their speakers. The question at issue is whether or to what extent languages that have never before been used in writing can and should be adapted to the communicative needs of modern societies.

Explanations for Language Universals

THE LINGUISTICS ASSOCIATION

The Linguistics Association of Great Britain was founded in 1959 to promote the study of linguistics and to provide for its members both a forum for discussion and facilities for co-operation in furtherance of their interest in linguistics. The Association holds annual spring and autumn meetings, at which original papers are presented in plenary sessions and in workshops devoted to special interests.

Persons interested in linguistics are eligible for election as members, subject to the approval of the Committee. Subscribing members may receive the Journal of Linguistics at the special rate of £10.00 per annum. Application forms for membership may be obtained from the membership Secretary, Dr Andrew Crompton, Dept. of Linguistics, University of Nottingham, University Park, Nottingham NE7 2RD.
