For Notes for Contributors please see inside back cover.

The Japanese Journal of Political Science welcomes contributions in all fields of the discipline, especially where these have a conceptual thrust, including political theory, comparative politics, political behaviour, political institutions, public policy, and international relations. At the same time, the journal seeks to attract the best comparative articles featuring Japan or East Asia. Each issue will contain full-length research articles, review articles, and book reviews.

Rigorously refereed to the highest scholarly standards, the key features of the journal include five or six full-length research articles in every issue; Letters to the Editor, providing a forum for comments and replies; regular reports covering executive turnovers, legislative enactment, elections and opinion polls; and book reviews in each issue.
