Acknowledgements

The Institute gratefully acknowledges grants from the Economic and Social Research Council towards the cost of the research needed to develop the domestic and world models on which our forecasts are based, and many other organisations who contribute to our wider research programme. Full details of this can be obtained in our Annual Report, available from the Institute.

Authorship

Whilst the Editorial Board takes responsibility for ensuring that contributions to the Review are of suitable standard for inclusion, the views expressed in articles are those of the named authors, and do not necessarily reflect those of the Institute.

Notice to contributors

The Editorial Board welcomes the offer of articles from contributors outside the Institute. The primary emphasis of the Review is on quantitative research. The subjects covered normally relate directly or indirectly to the explanation of economic performance, broadly defined, to include for example, macroeconomics, the economics of industry, trade, labour markets, education and finance. They may concern Britain, Europe or the world economy in general. Articles submitted will be considered at the discretion of the Editorial Board. Those that are considered will normally be read by two referees (one being a member of the Institute staff and the other an appropriately qualified specialist in the field). The Editorial Board bears final responsibility for the decision to publish an article. Notes for contributors can be obtained by writing to the production manager.
