Rectitude*

By Rev. A. G. SERTILLANGES, O.P. 22/6

This new volume of spiritual meditations by the distinguished French Dominican is permeated with the same sparkle and tang that characterised the author's Recollection and Kinships. Each thought considered emerges as a gem under the profound and beautiful treatment accorded it by Fr Sertillanges.

There are seventy-six sections in the book, each devoted to some aspect of the Interior Life—the overall title of this series of spiritual meditations of which this is the third volume. Among the topics discussed are: Integrity, Rectitude, Humility, Charity (which he felicitously calls the Spiritual Crowning-Piece), Work, Leisure, Temptation, Aids to a Better Spiritual Life, Grace, Prayer, the Eucharist, the Virgin Mother, the Saints.

Each section is short in length but reaches far into the depths of our spiritual life with a message that can do much to help us achieve the spiritual haven we are all seeking.

Walk With the Wise*

By Rev. H. BLOCKER, O.F.M. (Author of Good Morning, Good People)

Meet your fellow-citizens, the saints. Here they are—forty-eight of them—each with a simple suggestion for nobler living. If trying to imitate what these men and women have done doesn't make you better, then that's because you already are a saint; or because, like so many others, you fail to understand what seemingly little things lead to the sanctification of self. Actually, the saints made virtue the easy thing, and vice the hard; and they did it in a way that is staggering in its sublime simplicity.

Probably it was just such a book as this that set Augustine to thinking and helped to change him from a sinner into a saint. 'Tolle, lege', the Voice said to him—'Pick it up and read'. The rest is history.

Maybe the same Voice is saying the same thing to you. Well, here it is—a primer to living the only life worth living.
