The Changes of Cain

Violence and the Lost Brother in Cain
and Abel Literature

Ricardo J.
Quinones

The first comprehensive book on the story of Cain and Abel, this brilliant work traces the changes in the way people have looked at a master metaphor of our culture. Era by era, from the writings of the classical Christian epoch up to East of Eden and Amadeus, from Philo to Finnegans Wake, Ricardo Quinones examines the historical and cultural contexts within which this universal myth is significant. What emerges is a forceful, embracing history of ideas that is also a profound meditation on the "fragility of the human compact."

"Ricardo Quinones takes us on a grand tour of Western civilization in his admirable book. . . . This is cultural history and literary criticism of the first order. . . ."—Joseph Frank

". . . a remarkable combination of textual analysis, mythologic interpretation, and sociocultural and historical speculation."—Warner Berthoff

The New Historicism and Other Old-Fashioned Topics

Brook Thomas

Brook Thomas explores the new historicism and the challenges posed to it by a postmodern world that questions the very possibility of legitimate newness. Attempting to replace both the new critical formalism and the old historicism, the new historicism distinguishes itself by its engagement with post structuralism. According to Thomas, a major task facing the new historicism is how to construct new histories without relying on a sense of temporality. It is on this point, he argues, that literature has an important role to play, but only if new historicists recognize the limits of a mimetic model for historical analysis.

"The arguments of this text are everywhere illuminating and challenging."—David Van Leer

". . . an important, exciting book, a valiant entry into our current debate, and one that will in turn stir up even more debate."—Wai-chee Dimock
