THE HISPANIC CONDITION

Reflections on Culture and Identity in the Americas

ILAN STAVANS

The award-winning author of Growing Up Latino offers a pioneering psychological/cultural portrait of Hispanics in the United States—a complex multifaceted entity that varies according to the background of the five major Hispanic groups: Cubans, Puerto Ricans, Mexicans, Central Americans, and South Americans.

"A landmark study that explores with defiance and originality the convoluted latino identity and its ambiguous relationship in the U.S. ... written with both poetry and lucidity. A text to remember and to illuminate who we are, and who we will become."

—Marjorie Agosin, Wellesley College

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

The Journal of Latin American Studies is published three times a year, in February, May and October. Its editorial offices are located in the Institute of Latin American Studies, University of London. The editorial board includes representatives of the Centres or Institutes of Latin American Studies in the Universities of Cambridge, Essex, Glasgow, Liverpool, London and Oxford.

The scope of the Journal is the study of Latin America from the standpoint of the social sciences (including history and international relations). Articles on literature and the arts are not normally included, but the editors are pleased to consider contributions in the field of intellectual and cultural history. Articles with an inter-disciplinary approach are particularly welcome.

When an article has been accepted for publication, the author is strongly encouraged to send a copy of the final version on computer disk (Apple Macintosh or IBM compatible PC) together with the hard copy typescript, giving details of the wordprocessing software used (Microsoft Word or Word Perfect). However, the publisher reserves the right to typeset material by conventional means if an author's disk proves unsatisfactory.

Contributions are invited from all parts of the world. Articles should generally not be more than 8000 words long. The article should be accompanied by an abstract of not more than 100 words. Two copies typed with double spacing should be submitted. A style sheet is available from the editors. The Journal is published in English, but articles may also be submitted in Spanish or Portuguese; if the article is accepted, translation into English will be the responsibility of the author. Tables, diagrams and maps may be included by arrangement with the editors. The Journal only publishes original contributions; translations of articles already published will not be accepted. Each contributor will receive, free of charge, 25 offprints of the article and a copy of the issue of the Journal in which it appears.

The Journal publishes book reviews in each issue. Not all books received can be reviewed and editorial policy gives preference to substantial reviews of books regarded as of major importance for the disciplines covered by the Journal.

All contributions and editorial correspondence should be addressed to Journal of Latin American Studies, Institute of Latin American Studies, 31 Tavistock Square, London, WC1H 9HA.
