EDITORIAL POLICY

The British Journal of Political Science is an independent journal, whose policy is set by its editorial board. It is committed to no methodological orthodoxy over and above the normal canons of scholarship: clear and consistent use of words, logical and mathematical validity, and the use of appropriate evidence to substantiate empirical statements. Contributions are invited in all fields of political science, including political philosophy and political sociology. Work addressed to problems of general significance to students of politics will be published whatever the period(s) or place(s) drawn upon for evidence.

THE POLITICS OF ANTIPOLITICS

The Military in Latin America

Edited by Brian Loveman and Thomas M. Davies

This anthology focuses on what the editors term 'antipolitics' – the rejection by the military of 'politics' with its conflicts among personalist factions or political parties as justification for the establishment of long-term military rule.

PARAMILITARY POLITICS IN WEIMAR GERMANY

James M. Diehl

This original and thoroughly researched study analyses the rise of paramilitary organisations and their fateful impact on political life in the Weimar Republic. Professor Diehl shows how the trauma of war, defeat, and revolution divided Germany into hardened, mutually hostile sociopolitical blocs which employed paramilitary formations to defend their interests.

SYSTEM AND SUCCESSION

The Social Bases of Political Elite Recruitment

John D. Nagle

This book provides a comparative analysis of the social composition of national political leadership in the United States, Russia, Germany, and Mexico. These systems were chosen as case studies because their forms of government are representative of many others.

“The American Journal of Political Science is a general journal of political science. Though our greatest strength has been in American politics, we are eager to receive good manuscripts in such areas as international politics, comparative politics, and political philosophy” —W. Phillips Shively, Editor:

Contributors:

We need four copies of all manuscripts, three of which have all references which could identify the author removed. It will not be possible for us to return the manuscripts to the authors. Please make sure you keep copies for your own needs. We also need an abstract of about 100 words. Mail manuscripts to: W. Phillips Shively, Editor, Department of Political Science, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455.
