Dignifying Argentina

Peronism, Citizenship, and Mass Consumption

by EDUARDO ELENA

"Eduardo Elena's study is a deeply researched and major contribution to Argentine historiography. For specialists on Argentina it represents one of the most important studies of the last decade. Dignifying Argentina presents a cogent analysis of state policies and their reception, in which we learn much about popular consumption, the nature of Peronism, and modern Argentine history itself."

City at the Center of the World

Space, History, and Modernity in Quito

by ERNESTO CAPELLO

"City at the Center of the World explores the emergence of Quito, Ecuador, as a modern national capital. Capello's elegantly written and well-organized study examines strategic moments in the city's history in relation to their colonial past and regional contexts as city elites and indigenous communities worked to reshape 'traditional' historical discourses and city spaces to craft a modern capital to their respective advantage."

The Vigorous Core of Our Nationality

Race and Regional Identity in Northeastern Brazil

by STANLEY E. BLAKE

"This book changes the way we understand brasilidade, and thus Brazil. Blake shows how the Northeast was a created 'other,' providing a foil for a national idea of 'Brazilianness.' Yet as Blake shows, creations often lead to realities. Thus the invention of the nordestino gave urban professionals and government officials a justification for social reform programs aimed at improving what would become an essential aspect of Brazilian identity."

Poverty of Democracy

The Institutional Roots of Political Participation in Mexico

by CLAUDIO A. HOLZNER

"Holzner has crafted a challenging, thoughtful, and provocative interpretation contradicting theories that suggest democracy increases political participation among the poor. This work is particularly relevant to Mexico, but Holzner's conclusions have widespread implications for any society completing the transition to a democratic model. A welcome, fresh insight to the consequences of democratic transitions in the region."

Cultures of the City

Mediating Identities in Urban Latin/o America

Edited by RICHARD YOUNG & AMANDA HOLMES

"Original and stimulating, Cultures of the City considers very current and often unexpected topics with creativity and rigor. This book fills significant gaps in the field of urban cultural studies as it examines the city from both humanistic and social science perspectives."

Sentencing Canudos

Subalternity in the Backlands of Brazil

by ADRIANA MICHELE
CAMPOS JOHNSON

"Sentencing Canudos is a rich and thought-provoking interpretation of how Canudos had its political articulation as a community denied, both at the time of its destruction as well as over the last 110 years of writing about it. It offers the reader an enjoyable, challenging account of Canudos as a case study of the interplay between history, subalternity, and contestation."
